VOL. XLIX. SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 15, 1930. C DAILY, FIVE CENTS

WET HOME-RULE THEORY BLASTED BY PROF. FISHER

Yale Expert's Twenty-one Points Filed With House Committee Uphold Prohibition Act

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 14. (Exclusive)—Answering the demand of the wets for "home rule" by States on the liquor question, Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University pointed out in a statement made public here today that under application of such a rule the wet States themselves would suffer "drastic punishment" since regulatory laws would conflict with the Eighteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution with the result those States would be overrun by the criminal elements engaged in the liquor traffic.

This statement was sent to Washington for presentation to the House Judiciary Committee, which is conducting hearings on prohibition, but not been filed due to the absence of Representative Graham of Pennsylvania, wet chairman of the committee, that Prof. Fisher appear in person so that he can be questioned. The Yale professor of economics is known as one of the outstanding dry advocates in the country, and has written several books on the prohibition subject.

WITNESSES APPEAR

Appearing as witnesses before the committee today as the dry side lined up the fifth of the seven groups given them to present their views against prohibition repeal or modification were Raymond Robins, Chicago social worker; John Haynes, chaplain of Tombs prison, New York City, and known as the "Bishop of the Bowery;" John R. Mott, superintendent of the Methodist Gospel Mission of Germantown, Philadelphia suburb, representing also the International Association of Gospel Missions; Frank Dyer, superintendent of the Philadelphia Brotherhood Mission, and Dr. Ira Ellison, superintendent of the Methodist Rescue Mission of Camden, N. J. Whether Prof. Fisher can arrange to appear before the close of the hearings has not been determined. If he cannot, his statement will be put in the record. It is already in the committee's hands.

MECCA FOR CROOKS

In the statement the Yale economist declares that "the question is whether those States which are out of sympathy with the Eighteenth Amendment might not be given a dose of 'home rule' by the Federal administration should they not come into line with the purpose of more effective enforcement of the law, thereby those States that are in sympathy."

Professor Fisher, Howard Lee Nutting of Columbia University, a dry leader, stated in a recent statement under the local rule which has the effect of encouraging for the near future all States refusing to enforce prohibition, enforcement would flourish on a scale and under conditions of unanimity never before witnessed," and that such action "would immediately become a mecca of bootleggers, murderers, racketeers and racketeering."

Mr. Fisher's contention is simply that even if the wet States should have their wish for so-called home rule they could not enact anything laws without conflicting with the Federal Constitution and consequently they would be

Specter of Breach Prompts Dominion Government Move for Barrier

Premier King Cites Danger in Support of His Bill on Liquor Export

OTTAWA, March 14. (Exclusive) The specter of an Anglo-American war raging along the Canadian-American frontier and the international immorality of Canada virtually aiding border rum-running gangs to violate United States dry laws have caused the Canadian government to move for the prohibition of further liquor clearances to the United States.

Prime Minister King of Canada, in the House of Commons today, gave these two reasons as the major considerations for the introduction of his liquor-export bill which, if enacted into Canadian law, will cut off Canada's annual $36,000,000 liquor trade with the United States and cost Canada $15,000,000 in revenue.

Before crowded House galleries and a full attendance of House membership the Canadian Premier emphasized the perils which he believes attend continued countenancing of the Canadian-American booze traffic.

CURZON VIEW CITED

He let it be known for the first time that at the 1923 Imperial Conference in London the late Lord Curzon, then Foreign Secretary, in acquiescing in the American demand for high seas search of British ships suspected of carrying liquor, had held war between Great Britain and the United States to be a real possibility in the tangle of rum-running difficulties. Premier King added:

"I think the danger that Lord

HOPES SOAR ON PARLEY

Hoover Grows Optimistic

White House Represented as Holding Conference Now on Path to Progress

America-Japan Agreement Advances Another Step Toward Realization

By a Times Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 14. (Exclusive)—President Hoover was represented today as holding the opinion that the London conference at last has found the path to progress and achievement in naval reduction. Without attempting to give details or to draft a map of the President's mind, those who are familiar with the facts before Mr. Hoover characterize his attitude toward the conference as wholly optimistic.

The atmosphere about the White House today was one of great confidence and it might even be said of decided relief. During the last fortnight the fact that Mr. Hoover was perturbed by the attitude of the French could not be denied, notwithstanding that this government has consistently held the opinion that Briand was not entirely sincere when he placed the French naval figures before the conference and started his campaign for guarantees of French security as the price of reduction.

DOUBT DISSIPATED

The more conciliatory attitude of Briand as reflected in news dispatches from London, coupled with advices to the President, have had the effect of dissipating the clouds of doubt and suspicion about the White House and the State Department.

The hope of some measure of success by the conference reflected in this morning's news from London is clearly apparent here. For the President's attitude today undoubtedly was influenced by the reports of renewed confidence in British circles, particularly Prime Minister MacDonald's statement to the press that progress is being made and that no actual deadlock exists. Even Briand is now quoted as expressing the hope that concrete results will be attained. With that end in view he proposes to continue negotiations.

ENCOURAGING FACTORS

The French reduction of naval figures from 724,000 tons to 670,861 tons is another encouraging factor in the situation. All of these factors are accepted here as evidences that France is displaying an inclination to recede from the recalcitrant position she assumed when the larger naval tonnage demand was placed before the conference and was employed as an argument for security guarantees.

Undoubtedly the firm stand of this government against any form of political pact has had the effect of convincing France of the futility of seeking such guarantees from the American delegation and has turned the attention of French statesmen to the necessity of proceeding along new lines. This government does not believe France will withdraw from the conference and this belief is supported by Briand's denial of reports that he is anxious to quit England. In this connection it may be said that it is Washington's opinion that Secretary Stimson's statement that political pacts would not be considered precipitated a crisis in so far as France is concerned and that that crisis has been safely negotiated.

FRENCH POLICY

Washington, more particularly President Hoover, has never lost hope that the threatened deadlock forecast by the French demands would be averted. Lessons of history have been employed to foster hope. The President realizes that France has repeatedly employed the policy of seeking more than she actually hopes to gain. She employed such tactics at Versailles, much to the dismay of the other powers there in conciliatory spirit. She receded at Versailles as she now gives evidence of doing at London. Having failed to force the hand of this government, Washington is firmly of the opinion France will undergo a distinct change in at-

HUGE AWARD TO ACTRESS HELD UNFAIR

Verdict for $167,500 Given Juanita Hansen Upset by High Court

WHITE PLAINS (N. Y.) March 14. (AP)—A verdict for $167,500 awarded Juanita Hansen, former motion-picture actress, last November in her damage suit against the Hotel Lincoln and the Theater Zone Realty Company, today was set aside by Supreme Court Justice Taylor and a new trial ordered.

She charged that when taking a shower in her room at the Hotel Lincoln she was scalded by hot water, due to inefficient plumbing, and was incapacitated for further film work.

Judge Taylor held that in the case of the Theater Zone Realty Company it was not directly responsible for happenings in the hotel, being a "legal stranger" to Miss Hansen, and in the case of the Hotel Lincoln that the damages were excessive.

"The amount of the verdict, $167,500," Judge Taylor wrote, "is grossly excessive and undoubtedly reflects the jury's sympathy for the injured plaintiff, a comely woman, rather than the jury's unbiased judgment on the facts."

On the same date last year the total was 10.51 inches.

Inches.

With the storm center still to the north, the United States Weather Bureau predicted that as heavy or heavier rains will fall today and possibly tomorrow. Meteorologists at the local bureau stated there are two storm centers that probably will move toward Los Angeles today—one over the ocean off Eureka and the other over Reno, Nev.

Little damage was reported during the storm in the metropolitan area, although lightning flashed throughout the afternoon over the city and a wind that reached a maximum of twenty-four miles an hour whipped branches from trees, in one case blew over two dead eucalyptus trees and disrupted telephone and power service in a part of the southwest district for a short time.

WATER RUNS HIGH

Water ran curb-high in some of the lower sections of Los Angeles. Temporary plank curb bridges aided pedestrians in traversing street intersections.

The lowest temperature for the twenty-four-hour period, 45 deg., was reached late in the afternoon as office-workers made their way homeward.

A small cyclone swept down on the Carpinteria Airport during the afternoon, wrecking three airplanes and a hangar with damage estimated at $17,000.

Heaviest precipitation in residential communities of Southern California was registered at Pasadena where 1.70 inches had fallen last night. It rained .63 of an inch in two hours at Long Beach.

Life guards in boats were called by residents of the State-street section in the latter city to ferry them to and from their homes as a result of the sudden downpour. The water between Cherry and Grundy avenues reached the highest mark in four years, Long Beach police reported.

The only road closed to traffic is the main highway, Santa Ana Canyon Road, connecting San Bernardino county with Riverside and Orange counties and the beaches. Flood waters washed out a section.

Bakersfield experienced a forty-four-mile-an-hour wind early yesterday. The wind flattened a large canvas tabernacle of the Nazarene Church in South Chester avenue, tore limbs from trees and sent radio aerials skimming from housetops.

First rain of the storm fell here at 4:15 a.m., and continued intermittently until 1:30 p.m., when the storm broke in full force, resulting in a steady downpour throughout the afternoon and evening.

Snow or sleet was reported generally from the higher mountains. Big Pines Recreation Camp in the San Bernardino Mountains leading with 2 inches, while Mt. Wilson reported 3 inches, and Mt. Lowe a similar amount. Snow continued as darkness set in.

OF GREAT BENEFIT

The only possible agricultural damage in Southern California may be to strawberries, according to K. L. Wolf, deputy County Horticultural Commissioner. He said, however, if the weather clears as soon as the rains cease the berries will not be affected.

"This rain's general good cannot be estimated," Wolf said. "Agriculturists who have not broken ground for their spring crops can do so now and the rain at this time might be regarded as the difference between success and failure to early spring planting."

Levels of mountain streams and storage reservoirs had not been raised any appreciable amount last night, indicating that there was but little run-off, according to the county flood-control office. The heaviest precipitation registered at flood-control stations was 2 inches at Little Cienega. Coldbrook Camp reported 1.41 inches, while Craig's Country Club in the Santa Monica Mountains registered 1.05 inches and the Pacoima Dam 1.83 inches.

Replenishment of the higher mountain water supply was indicated with a general snow reported by the Southern California Edison Company. The storm last night had left 40 inches of snow at Huntington Lake in the high Sierras, 22 inches at Florence Lake, 6 inches at Shaver Lake and 7 inches at Big Creek.

Doomed Man's Long Fight Fails

NEW YORK, March 14. (Exclusive)—One year and one day from the date when he entered Sing Sing's death house at Ossining, N. Y., Frederick W. Edel learned today that his lawyer has lost the latest court fight to save him from electrocution for the murder of Mrs. Emmeline O. Harrington, actress.

A decision by General Sessions Judge Nott held that Edel is not entitled to a new trial on his plea of recently discovered evidence which came from Omaha. The effect of the decision is that the little man whom four reprieves have kept twelve months in the house of living death now faces execution the week of May 31.

Shortridge and Free Invited to Uphold Honor of Congress in Triangular Radio Spelling Bee

WASHINGTON, March 14. (Exclusive)—Senator Shortridge and Representative Free of California have been invited to uphold the honor of their respective Congressional chambers against the press in a three-cornered radio spelling bee to be broadcast from the National Press Club here on the 29th inst.

Senator Fess of Ohio, former college professor, will be the "schoolmaster" in charge of the "bee," and is expected to give the contestants words hard enough to worry the proof reader of a dictionary.

California is the only State represented in both contest groups, although it has no speller on the newspaper team.

Others in the contest are, for the Senate, Henry J. Allen, Kansas; Henry F. Ashurst, Arizona; Alben W. Barkley, Kentucky; Tom Con-

STUDY OF NEW PLANET PUSHED

Scientists Plan to Compute Distance from Earth

Photographing of Their Find Slated to Continue

Aiken Explains Significance of Solar Discovery

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) March 14. (AP)—While astronomers and scientists throughout the world were sending congratulatory telegrams and cables to the Lowell Observatory today on its achievement in discovering the ninth planet of the solar family—reported by Director V. M. Slipher Thursday—officials of the observatory were making plans for computing the distance from the earth to the new planet and calculating its orbit.

Dr. Slipher said Clyde Tombaugh, photographer of the observatory, who first noticed the tell-tale "blotch of light" that led to "isolation" and the announcement of the materialization of a dream of astronomers for the last eighty years—that there is a ninth planet—has been directed to continue taking pictures of the new planetary mass.

These pictures will be taken, as were dozens of others since February 18, last, when the "blotch" was first noticed, through the agency of a photographic telescope. It is estimated that the trans-Neptunian planet, as the new heavenly body has been named, would have to be 4000 times as bright as it is to be seen with the naked eye.

Dr. Slipher, his assistant, Dr. C. O. Lampland, the second man to see the dash of light on the photographic plate that has been identified as the trans-Neptunian planet, and Tombaugh were shy of newspaper men today. None of them wanted to talk about the discovery. They said they "had work to do."

The director said he was preparing an "official bulletin" describing the "startling discovery," which will be issued as soon as finished. Dr. Lampland was "just busy" and Tombaugh was "developing plates."

LICK ASTRONOMER SETS FORTH HIS VIEWS

SAN JOSE, March 14. (AP)—The significance of the verification of the existence of a new planet announced yesterday at the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., lies mainly, Dr. Robert Aiken believes, in the realisation of the increased size of the solar system. Dr. Aiken is a noted astronomer at Lick Observatory at Mt. Hamilton, near here.

Dr. Aiken said that the most significant fact, of course, is that the planet is there. It explains some of the irregular motions in the orbits of Neptune and Uranus and demonstrates that our little family of worlds is not such a puny thing as modern telescopes have made it appear in comparison with the known universe.

The discovery, however, will not, in Dr. Aiken's opinion, modify existing theories of the probable origin or nature of the solar system. The so-called nebular hypothesis embraces two widely accepted suppositions, astronomers say. The first and now apparently the most widely accepted, is the planetesimal theory. By that is meant the belief that nodules or lumps formed in the rotating primal nebular mass from which the planets and the sun evolved and that in time these collected to themselves the more tenuous nebular matter or star dust around them. Some believe that planets are still growing in weight, if not size, due to the continual dropping of meteors and stardust on their surfaces. As they are cooling meanwhile, and hence contracting, the size, perhaps, is not increasing.

The other and older supposition is that the sun and planets were thrown as molten globes from the original nebular and that what was left became the sun. This supposition, carried out, led to the suggestion that the moon may have been thrown off from the earth as the earth was by the sun.

Students of astronomy have agreed that no positive verification exists for their theories and hope that the future discoveries will supply this lack.

POSTHUMOUS CREDIT FOR PASTOR-ASTRONOMER

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) March 14. (AP)—Credit was given posthumously to Rev. Joel Metcalf for an important part in the discovery of "Planet X," which was announced yesterday by Harvard observatory.

It was the Unitarian minister who, in 1923, conceived the idea of the powerful "triplet" telescope with which discovery of the planet was made at the Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz. The telescope had not been completed when Mr. Metcalf died in 1925.

The minister was revealed today by Prof. Leon Campbell of Harvard observatory as a man of unusual ability and achievement both as an astronomer and as a clergyman.

"His religion and his astronomy went hand in hand," stated Prof. Campbell. "That was one of the things I liked about him—he was able to reconcile his religion and his astronomy."

Mr. Metcalf was credited with discovering more than forty minor planets, several variable stars and five comets, and the making of numerous valuable telescopes. He was such a skilled workman that he ground his own lenses.

"Mr. Metcalf previously had made a number of telescopes," continued Prof. Campbell, "including a ten-inch triplet now in use in the Harvard observatory in South Africa. We have at the observatory here a sixteen-inch doublet made by him, and also the telescope he used at his private observatory at Winchester to obtain photographs of asteroids (tiny planets.) He discovered many of them, and originated a method of photographing them."

Prof. Campbell explained that Mr. Metcalf did not have "Planet X" in mind when he designed the powerful telescope.

NINTH PLANET "DETECTED" NEARLY 100 YEARS AGO

Discovery Finally Made Possible by Careful Work of Mathematicians

THE NEW PLANET AS SHOWN BY ARROWS. THE BRIGHT STAR SHOWING THE CROSSED LINES OF LIGHT IS DELTA GAMINORA.

How Scientists Found Neptune in Last Century

The drawings by Times Staff Artist Phil Leonard give an idea of the solar system's latest "addition" and how astronomers "dope out" such things.

BY HAL FORREST

THE discovery of a ninth planet in the solar system was made possible by the same mathematical calculations that resulted in the discovery of the planet Neptune on the night of September 23, 1846. Observations made of the actual positions of the planet Uranus over a long period of years showed that they did not coincide with the predicted positions. Had it not been for the existence of the planet Neptune, Uranus would have followed a stated path among the stars and have traveled at the predicted speeds in accordance with Newton's law of gravitation. The accompanying diagram shows the positions of Uranus and Neptune (the latter then undiscovered physically or mathematically) in 1800, 1810, 1820 1830 and 1840.

It was noted by observers that the speed of Uranus was accelerated to a considerable degree from 1800 to 1810. This proved, they asserted, that an outside and hitherto unknown body was perturbing Uranus by its gravitational force and pulling it forward. The speed of the planet became more regular between the years 1810 and 1830, but its position was outside of the path that it was calculated to travel; that is, farther from the sun than it should have been.

DISTANCES GIVEN

This indicated to the observers that the two bodies were traveling more evenly over parallel curves. From 1830 to 1840 the speed of Uranus was perceptibly diminished, indicating that the outside planet was holding it back.

The distance of Uranus from the sun is about 1,782,800,000 miles and that of Neptune about 2,793,500,000 miles. It requires eighty-four years for Uranus to make one revolution around the sun and nearly 165 years for Neptune. So during the period of observation, indicated on the diagram, Uranus had covered nearly one-half of its orbit and Neptune nearly one-fourth. The planets are very near of a size, being close to 30,000 miles in diameter each, that of the earth being a little less than 8000 miles.

But the perturbations of Uranus were not the only factors to be considered in calculating a place among the stars where a telescope could be pointed to discover its unknown neighbor. All of the other planets in the sun's family, with their gravitational pulls, had to be considered. Jupiter, the largest of the sun's family, is 90,000 miles in diameter. At a favorable opposition it can deviate the earth as much as six seconds of arc from its orbit. Saturn is about 78,000 miles in diameter and between Uranus and Jupiter. The planets Mars, Earth, Venus and Mercury exert a gravitational pull to a lesser degree. But all of those elements had to be considered, together with their varying positions in regard to the other planets.

Even before the discovery of Neptune (1834 as a matter of fact) the astronomer Hansen foretold the discovery of the ninth planet which came to light on January 21, last. He declared in a paper of record in the files of the Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain that the failure of Uranus to follow a predicted path was due to the influence of two trans-Uranian planets.

SPECIAL TELESCOPE

Immediately after the discovery of Neptune, astronomers calculated the path it should follow through the stars. A deviation from this path was expected, because Uranus was not found in the exact spot that had been predicted. As the years passed it became more and more evident that a ninth planet existed and about twenty-five years ago became an accepted fact, mathematically. At that time Prof. Lowell of the Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz., whose work with the planet Mars had earned him an international reputation, took up seriously the task of discovering the ninth planet. Following his death, this work was continued by Dr. Slipher and special instruments were made to facilitate the work.

A special telescope, with photographic attachment, was kept trained in the region of the sky where the new planet was predicted to appear. Exceptionally sensitive plates were used and the discovery was only a question of time, providing that the reflected light of the planet was strong enough to make an impression on the emulsion.

Because the telescopic power was not strong enough the new planet appears only as a "point of light." Its disc may be revealed by one of the great telescopes on Mt. Wilson. But in any event, it is possible to ascertain its diameter by means of the Michelson interferometer. Astronomers are awaiting anxiously the details of the planet's physical aspects.

CANADA MOVES FOR RUM CURB

Curzon foresaw, the danger of possible delicate situations arising between Great Britain and the United States over rum running, are as nothing compared with the delicate situation that might arise on our international frontier. So perilous do I believe the situation to be that I would not longer assume the responsibility in the matter of external affairs in relation to this matter if I were not sure I had the support of this Parliament in the policy I think necessary to prevent a condition which I believe may prove perilous at any day, or failing the support of this Parliament, the support of the people of Canada."

NOTICE TO OPPOSITION

This last phrase of the Premier's remarks was a direct notice to the Conservative opposition party that if the measure is blocked in the House he will appeal for indorsement of his liquor export ban policy to the Canadian people in a dominion election.

The Canadian Premier referred to the last session's refusal of his government seriously to consider a liquor export prohibition law because it then was felt the American authorities were not seriously trying to enforce the Volstead Act. Events since then, notably the proposal by the United States to locate a strong border control, he said, have reversed his government's opinion in that respect.

BELIEF ALTERED

"So far as this government is concerned we believe that the United States is trying to enforce its own laws in this respect, that it is going to great lengths and that it is genuinely in earnest in regard to that enforcement, and we are ready to take further steps," he said. "We intended to do this last summer, had we the authority to do so under an order in council (direct action of the government without reference to Parliament,) but on reference of this to the Department of Justice, we found we did not have that authority."

With great warmth, the Premier declared that under the present system of liquor clearances to the United States, Canadian government officials innocently enough are "direct links between the breweries and distilleries who wish to export liquor and the rum-running and criminal gangs that make their profits out of the business. This is a condition which I believe the citizens of this country, when they understand it, will not wish to countenance.

Bank Robbers Making Escape Shoot Officers

LAMAR (Colo.) March 14. (AP)—Three bank robbers killed one police officer and seriously wounded three others in a battle in Eastern Colorado today after they had robbed the Manter State Bank, Manter, Kan., of approximately $4000.

Halted in their attempt to escape from the scene of the robbery into Colorado, the robbers tonight are believed to be headed into the wild arroya country east of Cheyenne Wells and Arapahoe, Colo. Sheriff's posses from two counties are engaged in a widespread search for them and another Sheriff made a wide survey of the district from an airplane just before sunset.

At Eads, Colo., the bandits shot and killed Deputy Sheriff Charles Hickman and wounded Bill Mosher, also a deputy sheriff, members of a posse which was searching for them.

HOPES SOARING ON CONFERENCE

Hoover Reported Optimistic as to Developments

France Expected to Recede from Present Stand

titude; in fact, it believes the process of change is now visible.

No one will discuss the possibility of a five-power treaty or a three-power treaty at this juncture. No one will go beyond the statement that there are indications of progress and that the President is distinctly optimistic. These statements, after a long period of doubt and gloom here and in London, must be considered significant.

CHEERING NEWS ON WASHINGTON-TOKIO DEAL

LONDON, March 14. (AP) — The naval conference was cheered today by the news that an American-Japanese naval agreement has moved a step nearer.

Only one more step appears necessary—final approval of the home authorities, particularly Tokio—for the compromise which is said to satisfy fully the desires of each country, including a solution of Japan's demand for a 70 per cent ratio of American strength.

Senator Reed and Ambassador Matsudaira met again today to handle the situation.

While there was much talk today of the agreement, nothing was made available as to whether its terms will be announced immediately after approval or held until included in the general framework of the five-power treaty that is the goal of the parley.

CRITICAL PHASE

In the meanwhile, the Franco-Italian deadlock remains the most critical phase of the conference, and the delegations hope that Andre Tardieu, the French Premier, will bring some help toward a solution when he arrives tomorrow.

The Latin neighbors are being urged at least to make one more heroic effort for the general good of the negotiations, and when Prime Minister MacDonald left this afternoon for Chequers he was hopeful that a Franco-Italian agreement could be achieved.

Aristide Briand, head of the French delegation, tonight attached prime importance to the conference of Mr. MacDonald and M. Tardieu at Chequers tomorrow, believing they will discuss French security.

CONCESSIONS SOUGHT

Attempts are being made to persuade Italy to relax from her rigid demands of parity with France. The French view is that full parity would automatically place her in a position of inferiority in the Mediterranean, and one suggestion is that Italy should claim equality in the Mediterranean only.

There is no indication tonight of any change in the Italian attitude, but in well-informed circles it is not considered likely that Italy will be able to maintain her stand and not produce some sort of tentative ratio or tonnage figure based on her own national needs, calculated on a five-year period prior to the summoning of a general disarmament conference at Geneva.

M. Briand and Dino Grandi, the chief Italian delegate, conferred for an hour tonight and will continue their discussion tomorrow. Briand is understood to have proposed to Grandi that France is ready to discuss naval requirements with Italy ship by ship.

Secretary of State Stimson has sought the opinions of two of America's most eminent jurists on the proposal to inject the so-called "piracy" clause in the naval conference treaty for the humanization of submarine warfare.

ROOT CONSULTED

It was learned tonight that the Secretary has cabled Elihu Root and John Bassett Moore, asking their opinions on the value of this clause, which was contained in a similar treaty drafted at Washington but never ratified by the French.

Mr. Stimson feels that the clause should be retained in the new treaty now being discussed and so far as possible drafted, but he has heeded the advice of some of his delegates and advisers opposed to its retention and has decided to seek the most expert advice obtainable. The replies of Mr. Root, who was the author of the Washington treaty and has been steadfastly in favor of the piracy clause, and of Mr. Moore are expected in London over the week-end.

The American delegation after receiving them will be able to shape a definite policy toward this clause.

In addition to certain American delegates opposing it, the French delegation and the British Admiralty also are understood to object to it. The Japanese would approve it, and the Italians, though noncommital, probably would follow the lead of the Americans.

Under the piracy clause a neutral nation would be permitted, and indeed almost obligated, to try for piracy and severely punish a submarine captain who had attacked one of its ships and then been forced to seek refuge in one of its ports.

Mexico Plans Aid for Jobless

MEXICO CITY, March 14. (AP)—President Ortiz Rubio in a published statement today said the government had taken in hand the unemployment situation and will seek to create new sources of work to relieve temporarily the situation among the country's more than 200,000 unemployed.

He urged co-operation of capital and labor in relieving the situation and said the Departments of Industry and Agriculture had been instructed to study plans to aid the situation.

The Conquest of Fear
ONE of the most devastating evils that infests human life is fear. It breeds cruelty, paralyzes thought, produces disease, plunges its victims into a hell of anguish and torture. Parents, teachers, priests, judges have united in a conspiracy to shackle this demon to our limbs. The tragedy of the situation lies in the fact that the suffering is largely unnecessary. It can be greatly reduced if not abolished. How? You are invited to hear E. REILLY HANGS AS MURDERER

Young Slayer Goes Calmly to Death on Gallows

Spiritual Solace Refused as Doom Hour Nears

Scribbled Note for Sister Found in His Cell

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, March 14. (AP)—Alphonse Reilly, 22 years of age, died on the gallows here today for the killing of Abraham Sandelman, Los Angeles shoe clerk, during an attempted hold-up a year ago.

Reilly's last words to Warden Holohan were: "Warden, can I go up alone?"

Warden Holohan advised him: "no, I guess it would be better for the boys to go with you."

He went to his death calmly, maintaining the apparent indifference shown throughout. He was not accompanied by a minister to the scaffold and had refused spiritual solace in the death cell.

SISTER CALLS WARDEN

This morning Warden Holohan received a long-distance telephone call from St. Louis, Reilly's former home, from Winnie Reilly, a sister. She asked the warden if there was any possible chance for a reprieve. The warden told her the chance was very remote. Then she asked the warden to give her love to Alphonse.

Reilly's last hope was pinned on efforts by friends to prove he was the victim of hereditary insanity, but two sets of alienists pronounced him sane. He took the news calmly when informed by Warden Holohan that Gov. Young had refused to intervene, telling the warden: "I guess it is all over for me." In refusing a reprieve or commutation of sentence the Governor declared the case "too clear to admit mistakes."

NOTE FOUND IN CELL

Reilly came west from St. Louis in 1924 to join the Navy at San Diego. He went to Australia with the fleet, and after its return deserted in 1927, only to be arrested in Long Beach and sent to Mare Island for two years.

His story of the murder was that he wanted money to get back to his St. Louis home and set out to rob to obtain it. He entered the shoe store, Sandelman grappled with him and received four bullets from Reilly's gun. Reilly was arrested after exchanging shots with police officers, who captured him when his pistol jammed.

In Reilly's cell was found a scribbled note. It read:

"So—good-by and good luck. I went out smiling.

"BUNNY."

Reilly took the nickname from his birthday, Easter Sunday.

Badly Wounded Smuggler Flees From Hospital

LORAIN (O.) March 14. (AP)—Fred Hentrie, 42 years of age, of Detroit, asserted rum runner, supposedly bedridden from wounds received when Coast Guardsmen shelled his armor-plated tug, escaped from a hospital here last night.

Despite two serious wounds in his back, which lulled his guard into a feeling of security, Hentrie arose from his cot and leaped through a ground-floor window. An automobile was standing outside with the engine running, police learned. It was traced to a Cleveland gangster by the license number. Hentrie's condition was regarded as critical.

FIGHT OVER RADIO WAVE LENGTHS ON

R.C.A. Seeks Court Action for Redistribution of Continental Channels

WASHINGTON, March 14. (Nana)—All the continental radio telegraph wave lengths, for which various interests have been scrambling frantically for several years, will be thrown back into the grab bag to be reallocated at the discretion of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia under a stay order sought from that court today by the Radio Corporation of America.

The Radio Corporation of America contends that Universal Wireless Communications Company, which has embarked on a nation-wide radio message service in competition with the wire telegraphs, was accorded special treatment by the Federal Radio Commission when it was issued licenses to use twenty-eight of the domestic channels to the exclusion of other applicants. It asks that these licenses be recalled and canceled.

Licenses were signed by the commission and delivered to Universal, it is claimed, but withheld from Radio Corporation of America, Press Wireless, Inc., and Western Radio Telegraph Company, which, under an order of February 17, last, also were allotted groups of frequencies.

The Radio Commission will maintain that an injunction procured from the same court by the MacKay Radio and Telegraph Company, an unsuccessful applicant for similar wave privileges, precluded the possibility of delivering the licenses to the other three concerns. By the order of February 7, Universal was awarded twenty-eight channels, Radio Corporation of America, fifteen, Press Wireless fourteen and Western Radio, two.

TRIO FREED IN "OPTION" RACE CASE

Redwood City Judge Says Evidence Insufficient to Convict Gaming Suspects

REDWOOD CITY, March 14. (AP)—A directed verdict of not guilty was returned here today by a Superior Court jury trying three persons on charges of violating the State laws prohibiting race track gambling. The case was originally intended to be a test of the legality of the "option" plan of betting but Judge Dooling, in directing the verdict, said he was not deciding the legality of the option system.

Four men were arrested following a race at the Tanforan track in San Mateo county February 26. The charge against one of them, Charles A. Hartwell, was dismissed the 10th inst. for lack of evidence, after it was explained he had really exercised his option to purchase the winning horse.

The other three defendants, John Zaro, John H. Dennis and Nellie Cohen, contended the system of purchasing options on horses in a race and then selling back the horses at prevailing odds is legal.

In instructing the jury Judge Dooling said the evidence introduced was not sufficient to warrant a conviction but declared the case one growing out of "attempts to find a lawful way to do what is unlawful."

New Antarctic Jaunt Planned

LONDON, March 14. (AP)—A new British Antarctic expedition, the Daily Herald said today, is being organized under the leadership of Commander Frank Worsley, who was skipper of the Endurance in Shackleton's South Pole expedition.

The paper said the expedition is to be on an ambitious scale and may include airplanes, as did the American and Norwegian expeditions. It will cost in the neighborhood of £25,000 ($125,000) and will be both commercial and scientific.

DOHENY LEASE DETAILS GIVEN

Government Seeks to Show Conspiracy With Fall

Finney Tells How Superior Executed Document

Defense Scores in Objection to Letter on Cash Item

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP)—Testimony intended by the government to show that Edward L. Doheny conspired with Albert B. Fall, Secretary of the Interior in the Harding Cabinet, to get possession of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve was introduced today in Doheny's trial on a charge of giving Fall a $100,000 bribe.

E. C. Finney, solicitor of the Interior Department and first assistant secretary under Fall, testified that Fall personally executed the lease which gave the Elk Hills reserve to Doheny's Pan American company. Fall ordinarily did not handle oil leases, Finney said, that being done by himself and other subordinates. He testified that this lease and one granted the Mammoth Oil Company, controlled by Harry F. Sinclair, were the only ones executed by Fall.

DEFENSE SCORES

Earlier the defense scored when Justice Hitz sustained its objection to the introduction of a letter written by Fall to the Senate oil committee, in which the Cabinet officer said he had received $100,000 from Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher. The letter was offered by the prosecution in an effort to show that Fall, in so writing, was attempting to shield Doheny, who had sent him the $100,000 in cash.

The government introduced the transcript of the testimony of Doheny before the Senate oil committee in 1924, at which time he appeared and told of sending Fall $100,000 in cash as a loan, for which he received the Cabinet officer's note. This testimony showed that Doheny had told the committee that he expected to employ Fall after the latter had resigned from the Cabinet and had expressed the opinion that he believed Fall would have favored him if he could have, after the receipt of the loan.

DENBY TESTIMONY

The prosecutor also read testimony of the late Edwin Denby, former Secretary of the Navy, to show that he knew little of the lease made to Doheny. The government emphasized those sections concerning Fall's efforts to hide the source of his money and Doheny's failure to produce the note Fall had given him, though he had all of it except the signature in his pocket.

After Finney took the stand the government introduced the contract for constructing naval oil storage at Pearl Harbor. This contained a clause giving Doheny's company a preferential right to any lease which the government decided to make in the Elk Hills reserve. This clause resulted in the reserve being leased to the Pan American company nine months later.

Finney was being cross-examined when court recessed. He is expected to remain on the stand most of the morning session tomorrow. The government plans to rest its case Monday.

NEW MARK SHOWN BY BAROGRAPH

Federal Bureau Reports Airplane of Sergievsky Climbed 19,065 Feet

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP)—The National Aeronautic Association announced today that the Bureau of Standards calibration of the barograph used on the flight of Boris Sergievsky, seeking a new loaded seaplane record at New York the 4th inst., showed an altitude of 19,065 feet, compared to the old record of 15,837 feet.

The calibration report has been sent to the Federation Aeronautique Internationale at Paris for official recognition. Sergievsky's flight on the 4th inst. was in a seaplane carrying a pay load of 2000 kilograms.

The previous record was held by Lieut. De Vaisseau, French navy pilot, who took his seaplane carrying a pay load of 2000 kilograms to a height of 15,837 feet on May 15, 1929.

Second Bombing Shakes Up House

CHICAGO, March 14. (AP) — The home of William Evans, president of the suburban village of Broadview, was bombed early today for the second time in less than two months.

The bomb wrecked the front porch and broke every window in the two-story house. Evans was in bed but was not injured.

When the first bomb was exploded January 13, last, police said they thought it had been placed at the wrong house, but asserted today the same mistake could not have been made twice.

NEW BUS LINE BILL REJECTED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP)—A proposal by Representative Huddleston, Democrat, Alabama, to replace the Parker bill to provide Federal regulation of interstate bus lines with his own measure, which would require only that the bus operators carry bonds for the protection of the public, was rejected today by the House on a viva voce vote. The House adjourned until Monday without completing consideration of the Parker bill.

Nanette Guilford Rosen

NEW YORK, March 14. (Exclusive)—Nanette Guilford Rosen, youthful Metropolitan Opera soprano who recently applied for a divorce from Max Rosen, concert violinist, today filed through her attorney a voluntary petition in bankruptcy listing liabilities of $25,000 and no assets.

Miss Guilford could not be reached at the home of her parents, where she is living. The announcement of her divorce action was made in February, last, from her parents' home and asserted incompatibility of temperament.

Known as the "baby prima donna" of the Metropolitan Opera Company, Miss Guilford made her initial appearance on the stage as a member of the cast of the "Midnight Rounders of 1921" when only 16 years of age. She made her debut with the Metropolitan in the leading role of "La Cena Delle Beffe."

She married the violinist after an engagement of about eight months on November 23, 1928. They started out for a walk and suddenly decided to get married.

Road Crew in Arizona Finds Ancient Ruins

NOGALES (Ariz.) March 14. (AP) What are thought to be prehistoric dwellings have been uncovered near Nogales on the Tucson-Nogales highway by workmen.

Dean Byron F. Cummings of the University of Arizona, accompanied by Lloyd Knutson, an archaeological student, made a study of the ruins today but did not express an opinion concerning them.

The ruins are the foundations of an old house with a well-worn stone step. It is reported that several stone implements significant of prehistoric times, were found near the ruins.

Fur Workers Hurt in Fight

NEW YORK, March 14. (AP)—A dozen men and women were taken to hospitals and several others were treated by ambulance surgeons following a fight between left and right-wing fur workers today at Twenty-eighth street and Seventh avenue.

The clash occurred in front of a fur shop operated by Benjamin Axel, controlled by right-wing workers. The fighting broke out when a group of left-wing furriers attempted to force their way into the establishment.

Knives, clubs and fists were used by the two rival factions. Several arrests were made.

INJUNCTION REFUSED TO SALMON FISHERS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14. (AP) Superior Judge Johnson today refused to grant an injunction restraining the State Fish and Game Commission from confiscating salmon caught beyond the three-mile limit and dissolved a restraining order obtained by 300 salmon takers last month.

The State Fish and Game Commission contends that fish legally caught outside the three-mile limit cannot be transported into a district in which the season is closed.

PHILIPPINES IN NO DANGER FROM JAPAN

Anti-independence Talk Termed Just Propaganda by House Speaker

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP)—Referring to what he termed the bugaboo of Japanese imperialism, Representative Nelson of Wisconsin said in the House today that nothing could be more groundless than the assumption that freeing the Philippines would invite Japanese conquest of the islands.

Nelson said he had made an extensive study of the problem in the Pacific and that propaganda which leads Americans to fear Japanese aggression in the Philippines was "false, slanderous and selfish."

"Is it not a curious fact," he asked, "that only those who are opposed to Philippine independence are fearful of 'Japanese imperialism?'"

Nelson listed the Philippine-American Chamber of Commerce of New York, the Industrial Workers of the World, the Navy League, the Exclusion League, the American Legion and the 'yellow press' among those agencies which he said had at one time or another spread propaganda against Japan because of selfish interests.

"As a part of this propaganda against Philippine independence," he declared, "members of Congress have received circulars and letters from financial interests doubtless inspired by the same course."

Widow's Contest Results in Favorable Verdict

METUCHEN (N. J.) March 14. (AP) Mary Wilkins Freeman, 68 years of age, noted author, died at her home here today.

Her first novel was published in 1887 and since that time she had written some twenty-five books exclusive of her numberless short stories and magazine articles.

Some of her books, popular a decade ago, are "The Heart Highway," "Six Trees" and "Yates Pride."

She married the late Dr. Charles Freeman, author, in 1902.

Dr. Freeman died in 1923, leaving his entire estate, valued at $213,000, except for a few dollars, to Harry Mohring, his chauffeur. His will gave Mrs. Freeman $1, and each of four sisters $200.

The widow contested the will, charging Dr. Freeman was mentally incapable of making a will. The trial ended with a verdict favoring the widow.

WELFARE WORKERS LIST BENEFITS OF PROHIBITION

at the mercy of the lawless elements engaged in the liquor business. This is regarded by observers in Washington as being perhaps the most devastating line of reasoning yet directed against the arguments put forth by the foes of national prohibition.

POINTS OUTLINED

Twenty-one points were outlined by Prof. Fisher in summarizing his attitude and findings on prohibition as follows:

(1.) My study of the problem of intoxicating liquor extends back twenty-five years. In the war I was appointed chairman of the subcommittee on alcohol under the Council of National Defense. We recommended the dry zone around the army camps and war-time prohibition.

(2.) Originally I had been opposed to the prohibition method but found no other which, on its record, worked as well as shown by the experimenting in the United States through two generations with State prohibition and other methods.

(3.) When in 1919 and 1920 prohibition was a "new broom" it "swept clean." Since then we went backward for a time. But at no time have we gotten back to where we started, except in a very few places like Maryland which never had an enforcement act. As a whole the country is now intermediate—in general about midway—between its starting point before 1917 and its best record reached in 1920. These comparisons apply roughly to liquor consumption, drunkenness, deaths from alcoholism, cirrhosis of the liver, tuberculosis, the general death rate, Monday morning absences in industry, accidents and crime.

CHART ON DEATHS

(4.) These improvements under prohibition have been experienced in my own State, Connecticut, a typical wet State. For instance a chart of the general death rate in Connecticut shows a nearly horizontal line before prohibition, then a sudden fall with the coming of prohibition and then another horizontal line at a level about 25 per cent below the original level.

(5.) In the last two or three years the tendency of conditions to grow worse seems to have stopped. We seem now to be passing through what I have called in the title of one of my books, "Prohibition At Its Worst." In this we are running true to form according to experience with State prohibition. Usually State prohibition was a "new broom" sweeping clean in the first two or three years, then being gradually circumvented by bootlegging until it was "at its worst" after about nine years, when the crest of this backwash was reached and improvement began again.

HELPED PROSPERITY

(6.) Economists, even wet economists, are unanimous in their conviction that American prohibition has contributed toward American prosperity. Every estimate has appraised our added productivity due to prohibition at many billions of dollars per year. The usual estimates have been between $3,000,000,000 and $10,000,000,000 a year. These are large figures, but not unreasonable when we consider that America's total income in 1929 was $30,000,000,000 more than ten years ago.

(7.) The consumption of alcoholic liquor is probably not one-fifth, if indeed it is one-tenth, of what it was before prohibition and war-time restrictions.

(8.) The expenditure on alcoholic liquors by the poor is now almost negligible even including the expense of home brewing, whereas before prohibition and war-time restrictions it was a crushing burden.

(9.) Today only the richer 1 or 2 per cent of the people patronize the bootlegger to any great extent.

LIQUOR PRICES HIGHER

(10.) The price of liquor today is from three to seven times pre-prohibition prices.

(11.) The main purpose of prohibition was its antisaloon purpose. This has been achieved in the practical disappearance of the open saloon.

(12.) Scarcely anyone now advocates the return of the open saloon. The insincere opponents of prohibition, namely, the American brewing interests, the French wine interests and others do not dare openly advocate the return of the saloon, much as they want it, while the sincere opponents do not want it, even those who never saw a saloon and little realize how devastating it was.

(13.) But no one has shown how to repeal prohibition and yet prevent the return of the saloon except by putting our government into the liquor business.

PLAN HAS FAILED

(14.) Such government sales have usually proved more of a failure than prohibition. This was true in South Carolina and seems now to be true in Canada.

(15.) The truth is, the liquor problem is like the race problem, an insoluble problem and will remain so for at least a generation. We have before us only a choice of evils. It seems better to go on with the "noble experiment" bearing the ills we have rather than flying to those we know not of, and to "fighting it out on these lines if it takes all summer."

(16.) Probably the worst evils of prohibition are the corruption of officials and the breaking down of our courts under the strain of enforcing the liquor laws.

But corruption and the liquor traffic always have been inseparable. The saloon was always the great notbed of corruption even in the days of the Tweed ring. Nor should we forget that every other law which is difficult to enforce and the evasion of which offers prises, likewise causes corruption. Take our land laws for instance, particularly of late those as to oil reserves; the corruption reached the President's Cabinet. Yet we are not planning on that account to repeal our land laws; rather are we planning better enforcement.

(17.) The liquor laws themselves are easily enforced but liquor-law violators if they are to do a lucrative business must also commit bribery, perjury, conspiracy, forgery, smuggling and even murder.

It is in enforcing the laws against these offenses that the courts so often break down. Crime now uses automobiles and soon will use airplanes. It utilizes modern methods and does an interstate business.

The only way to meet this situation is not to repeal laws but to compel our enforcement system to keep pace with the growing efficiency of crime.

(18.) As to home brew we can never expect to eliminate it altogether. The question should be clarified as to whether it is legal, as Congressman Fort maintains, or illegal. If it is legal then no one has a right to complain of any real interference with his personal liberty. If a person wants liquor enough to make it himself he has no excuse to patronize a bootlegger. If home brewing is illegal we must ask each householder to be his own policeman. The only hope of substantially reducing home brew in the immediate future is through voluntary co-operation.

(19.) The real problem of enforcement consists, not in interfering with the home, but with the traffic; that is, in suppressing smuggling, illegal diversion of industrial alcohol, distilling from corn sugar, bootlegging and the speakeasy.

PROGRESS MADE

(20.) In some of these much progress has been made. "Rum row" has been broken up. Diversion has been greatly reduced. The present problem of prohibition is the corn-sugar problem. But the associated corn-products manufacturers have informed me that the member companies refuse to make quotations or sales to individuals or companies whom they suspect of using corn sugar for distilling purposes. As to distribution the problem of the speakeasy is chiefly a local one. That of the bootlegger is both local and national. So far as I can see all these problems can be solved in time as well as have been solved already the problems of rum row and diversion.

(21.) All the evils of prohibition claimed by the wets exist, although not always in the degree claimed. But what is their program for coping with those evils? Virtually they have none, because they have so many and none of them practicable. Can they induce thirty-two States to reverse themselves on the Eighteenth Amendment? If so, what proof have they to offer that we shall not be "out of the frying pan and into the fire?" Can they raise the permissible alcoholic content in the Volstead Act so as to permit light wines and beer by calling liquors nonintoxicating which have hitherto always been recognized as intoxicating? If so, how can they be sure we would have less intoxication and less disrespect for law; that the saloon will not return; that they can induce Uncle Sam to be the one and only liquor seller? So far as I can see, the only thing they can really do is to nullify, by helping the "scofflaw" to scoff. Will that diminish the disrespect for law which they profess to deplore?

DRUNKEN MEN FEWER

The three rescue-mission workers who testified today were, according to thier own statements, either reclaimed drunkards or products of a drunkard's home, and they told of life in the raw as they had experienced it before and after prohibition. All said the dry laws had been a blessing to the poorer classes and that while in the saloon days their efforts were mostly among drunks, today they have very few drinking men to deal with. As the result of prohibition, they testified, the rescue missions now are devoting themselves for the most part to men who are sober enough but are out of work and penniless. For example, Dipple said that in the old days his mission had to eject an average of five drunks a night while now it doesn't run across one a month.

Chaplain Callahan said that prohibition has "brought great good to the Bowery district in New York," and that he knew many men who ten years ago "lived without God and without hope" who today have homes, families, radios and automobiles.

SALOON DISGUISED

Robins told the committee that Gov. Smith was defeated for President in 1928 on the liquor issue and that the election that year was in essence, a national referendum on prohibition. He said both major parties were "dry and dare not be otherwise."

"Even the wets say they do not want the return of the saloons," Robins said, "but a rose is the same by any other name. The saloon is merely a place where men drink liquor and more liquor, and modification, the Quebec system or straight-out repeal would bring us the saloon again in one form or another, even if we painted it white, sold lilies at the door and had Uncle Sam as the bartender."

Robins declared prohibition grew out of the underlying forces of national development. "We were 97 per cent rural at first," he said, "but we are 54 per cent urban today. A driver asleep in a lumber wagon is an entirely different social factor than a driver drunk behind the wheel of an automobile. If there ever was a personal liberty to get drunw that liberty has been lost. Drunkenness is too dangerous to be tolerated in this age."

Man Convicted in Murder Case

HARRISBURG (Ark.) March 14. (AP)—Twelve weary jurors tonight solved the "marked-tree murder mystery" by finding Willis Walker of Wynne, Ark., guilty of murder of Mrs. Lena Waugh Gambell Walsh and fixing his punishment at life imprisonment.

The verdict was returned after the jury deliberated fifty-five minutes. Walker's counsel announced the case will be appealed.

The State charged Walker killed Mrs. Walsh the night of December 11, last, in Poinsett county, crammed her body in a clump of bushes and fled in her automobile to Arizona.

SOUTHLAND HAS HEAVY RAINFALL

ter were Union Pacific reports that violent winds were blowing late yesterday at Las Vegas, Nev., while other points along the railroad reported strong winds and lowering temperatures.

Long-distance telephone service to northern points over the coast route was cut off at 1:45 p.m. when a small group of poles was blown down south of Simi. Calls were routed over the inland circuit, while emergency repair crews were dispatched to Simi by the Southern California Telephone Company.

PHONE SERVICE HIT

The local telephone service was interrupted by the two felled trees back of 1927 South Figueroa street. The trees crashed across power lines and a telephone cable, resulting in short-circuit arcs that led neighbors to believe lightning had struck the trees. The fire department was called but it was ascertained that wind had proved too much for the trees. Emergency repairs were made. The broken telephone cable was part of the WEstmore exchange.

Fresno, as well as practically all Southern California and San Joaquin Valley communities, reported stiff winds. The storm in Fresno was accompanied by a sharp drop in temperature and brought generous precipitation to the valley, lower reaches of the Sierras and Coast Range.

Telephone lines into the Owens Valley country were reported "down indefinitely." Early reports to the Los Angeles Water Bureau stated that it had rained steadily all day in that section and that a heavy snowstorm was raging in the mountains.

CYCLONE FELT AT CARPINTERIA AIRPORT

SANTA BARBARA, March 14. (Exclusive)—Sweeping in from the sea with a menacing roar, a cyclone today struck at Carpinteria, about twelve miles southeast of here, demolished three airplanes and part of the hangar at Carpinteria Airport and then disappeared in the mountains.

The funnel-shaped, swirling blast loomed during a temporary lull in the rainstorm. Gathering speed as it approached the beach it headed straight for the airport on the Coast Highway, and before airport attendants could drag the planes to safety it struck. First it skirted about three planes that had been left in the open, then tore away about 100 feet of the hangar's sheet-metal side, picked up and slammed down three of six sheltered planes, leaving the remaining three untouched, and whirled itself out of sight in a northeasterly direction. Rain reappeared as the cyclone vanished.

W. C. Smith, manager of the airport, estimated the damage at about $17,000.

HEAVY RAINSTORM SWEEPS BAY REGION

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14. (Exclusive)—Rain and snow, sweeping along with unanticipated speed and falling with unexpected intensity, entered the State today in the north and flung south and east with general precipitation. It rained on the north coast yesterday and last night and the Weather Bureau predicted more, but the strength of it was termed unexpected.

In San Francisco, the fall was heavy and spotted, an almost constant drizzle being punctuated with sharp showers, accompanied by winds in the outlying districts. Thunder is declared to have been heard in various community sections, hailstones fell in Oakland, turning into a heavy rain, and in Alameda the rainfall was so heavy it choked drains until the streets ran with water and street gangs had to be called out to ditch the floods away.

Nine inches of new snow fell at Norden, the Sierra summit. The gauge showed eighty-seven inches at 3 p.m.

LIGHTNING STRIKES

Richmond and Pinole in Contra Costa county were left without power when a lightning bolt struck the Pacific Gas and Electric Company power lines. Current was cut in from the Oakland lines.

Hail accompanied the thunderstorm.

Napa reported the largest hail stones in its history.

Yosemite was mantled with five inches of new snow and the flakes still are falling. Ten inches was reported from Glacier Point, bringing the season's total near the normal mark.

RAIN TABLE

FILMDOM SETS SELF HIGH GOAL

Aide of Will Hays Points to Educational Aims

Eastern D.A.R. Group Told of Higher Standard

Greater Attendance Cited as Proof of Quality

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP)—The motion-picture industry was described today by Carl E. Milliken of New York, aide to Will Hays, as an agency working with the responsible elements of the nation "to help America set new traditions in social responsibility for the world and for future generations."

There is evidence on every side, the former Governor of Maine told the better films committee of the eastern division of the Daughters of the American Revolution, that the quality of pictures under present policies of the industry is constantly improving.

HIGHER STANDARDS

Furthermore, he said, the industry, aided by the counsel and support of responsible elements, is seeking far higher standards than the box office.

Milliken cited an increase in weekly attendance in motion-picture theaters from 40,000,000 in 1922, to 115,000,000 today, as the best indorsement of present-day pictures.

"We are not a degraded or immoral people," he asserted, "despite the fact that looseness is louder than virtue, and such an indorsement from the American public could come only to an essentially wholesome product."

DUTY UNDERSTOOD

"The motion-picture industry is proud to bear in mind, while it fulfills its necessary and self-justifying purpose of entertainment, the corollary duty of assuring character-building qualities in that entertainment," Milliken added.

Calling attention to the privilege of the D.A.R., General Federation of Women's Clubs, Young Men's Christian Association, International Catholic Alumnae and other organizations to view pictures in Hollywood before their general distribution, he said one pioneer organization recently approved 517 out of the last 550 pictures seen; whereas, ten years ago, it recommended only half the pictures produced.

Australian Flyer Performs Daring Exploit

SIDNEY (Australia) March 14. (AP) Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith, the Australian ace who flew from the United States to Australia in 1928, has just performed the exploit of flying a stalled plane out of a forest. When a triple-engined plane of the air line of which Smith is director, made a forced landing in a forest clearing near Bonalbo, Northern New South Wales, it seemed that the plane could be removed only by being dismantled.

Smith went to the place, repaired the damaged under-carriage, tied the plane's tail to a tree and set his engines going full speed. When the machine lifted from the ground a farmer cut the rope and the plane flashed away like a rocket.

All Roads Lead to San Antonio

Would you adventure with Romance along the trails blazed by Spanish padres two centuries ago? Then, on your way home from wonderful California, follow the Old Spanish Trail by rail or motor, to Sunny San Antonio, where modern office buildings tower above ancient stone churches . . . where palms sigh softly as the burnished wings of planes cast fleeting shadows on hallowed ground where Texas heroes died!

Sun-drenched days are yours in this land of blue sky and bracing air . . . joyous days out of doors, golfing, riding, playing tennis, or polo, fishing, motoring north to the hills or south to the sea . . . days crowded with happiness!

And for the children there are 2000 acres of public playgrounds and parks.

Here, as the southern tip of the nation, is a vast "horn of plenty"—South and West Texas. It is the last of the great frontiers . . . a favored section undergoing an intensive development which is making it one of the richest areas in the world.

Good highways ribbon the countryside, and all roads lead to San Antonio, "mother city" of an empire. On your way home explore for yourself this happy section. Come in time for the Battle of Flowers and its attendant festivities, held during April each year to commemorate the birth of Texas Independence.

GANDHI'S HIKE IN PYLE'S CLASS

Hindu Mahatma's Progress Rouses No Cheers

Village Heads Resign But Won't Join Procession

India Malcontents All Out to Bootleg Salt

AHMADABAD (India) March 14. (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, Hindu mystic and Nationalist leader, and his band of seventy-nine volunteers tonight completed the third day of their march to Jalalpur, opening the Nationalist campaign for civil disobedience to the Indian government. They stopped for the night at the village of Matar.

The march from Nawagon, where they slept last night, was broken at Vasna but was otherwise eventless. At Vasna Gandhi delivered a speech exhorting the villagers to volunteer for the civil resistance campaign and to resign their government positions. After the speech the headmen and police authorities at Vasna and at Mahalal resigned and the villagers vowed not to fill the vacancies.

Gandhi made a similar speech at Matar this evening, calling upon the village officials to resign and appealing to the people to make a bonfire of all foreign cloth in their possession. He urged them to march to Vadaipur, Borsad and Taluka, where salt is plentiful and to break the government's monopoly by manufacturing it.

According to his original plans, Gandhi still faces a march of about seventeen days before reaching Jalalpur on the Gulf of Cambay, where he and his volunteers will violate the monopoly by manufacturing salt.

CALCUTTA MAYOR GOES REJOICING TO TRIAL

CALCUTTA (India) March 14. (AP)—J. M. Sengupta, Mayor of Calcutta, who is under arrest on a charge of sedition, left his home in a motor car procession today for the docks where he embarked on the steamer Sirdhana for Rangoon. He must answer the government's charges there.

He was garlanded profusely and his forehead was painted with vermilion marks on the occasion of today's Hindu festival.

HINDUS PROPOSE TO BOOTLEG SALT

POONA (Bombay, India) March 14. (AP)—A "war" council of eleven members was appointed by Indian Nationalists today to organize passive resistance to the British government in Poona and this district. One hundred volunteers enrolled and decided to march to a suburban district of Bombay on the seacoast and manufacture salt in violation of the British monopoly.

SOFT SAND PREVENTS SPEED TEST

Kaye Don Takes Machine Onto Florida Beach But Only for Christening

DAYTONA BEACH (Fla.) March 14. (AP)—Drizzling rain and a ruffled beach today prevented Kaye Don, British racing driver, from making a trial test on the ocean speedway in his Sunbeam Silver Bullet machine, preparatory to an assault upon the world's straightaway automobile speed record of 231 miles per hour.

He took the huge machine on to the course to be christened this afternoon by his sister, Mrs. Rita Livesey, who accompanied him here from England, but a cursory inspection of the beach determined it was not in proper condition for even a slow test run.

The course has improved little during the past week and indications today were that not before Sunday will Don again take the car onto the beach for preliminary trials. The sandy stretch is soft and full of water-filled sloughs.

While hundreds of spectators trailed in motor cars, the juggernaut with Don at the wheel was towed from its garage, down flag-draped streets to the beach.

With a battery of cameramen clicking off the scene, Mrs. Livesey christened the elongated machine by breaking over the hood a bottle of champagne, the neck of which was draped with British colors.

Widow Gives Up Riches to Wed

NEW YORK, March 14. (Exclusive)—Mrs. Audrey Loder Coward, widow to the late head of the Coward Shoe Company, sacrificed $800,000 today to wed the second man of her choice, L. W. Carroll, a young New York broker.

The will of Mrs. Coward's first husband, J. Mortimer Coward, provided a $1,300,000 trust fund for her with the stipulation that it should be reduced to $300,000 if she married again.

EVER HEAR OF COUCH BUGS?

No, Not High-Hat Bed Kind, But Buffalo Moths in President's Room

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP)—The President's room at the Capitol was closed today for fumigation.

Bugs were found yesterday in the couches in the room, which is just off the Senate chamber. The room itself was closed as bug chasers went to work.

It was the opinion of experts that the little insects in the room were a form of moth known as the buffalo moth.

MILITARISM TALE DENIED BY RUSSELL

High Commissioner of Haiti Refutes Charges Made to Inquisitors

PORT - AU - PRINCE (Haiti) March 14. (AP)—Brig.-Gen. John R. Russell today filed with the Hoover Commission a lengthy refutation of all charges made against him in the hearings last week.

The American high commissioner in Haiti was bound by his diplomatic status from giving a statement himself and the commission announced it was considering the report before releasing it, but it is believed to deny all charges that a dictatorship exists and to cite many accomplishments of the American high commissioner.

Late this afternoon the American newspaper correspondents accompanying the Hoover commissioners requested W. Cameron Forbes, the chairman, to give out Gen. Russell's statement in justice to him.

Forbes replied that the information contained in the statement was "too controversial," and that he feared it might have a serious effect upon the Haitian people. He indicated, however, that it may be made public later.

CLAIMS OF ITALY CLASH WITH GAUL'S

Minister of Colonies in Report Asserts Right to French African Area

ROME, March 14. (Exclusive) A clash between Italian and French territorial claims in Central Africa was recorded today in the report of the Minister of Colonies which was submitted to the Chamber of Deputies. In this report the Italian government asserts the right to a large block of territory lying south of the present delimitated southern frontier of Libya.

The boundary, which runs roughly from the town of Ghat to the northwest corner of the Sudan, has been agreed on between England and France, but has never been accepted by Italy.

Today's colonial report lays claim to the control of caravan routes, which would indicate that Italy's aims extend as far inland as Lake Tchad. These claims are thought certain to meet with French resistance.

Italy's territorial aspirations extend much further than the recent conquest of Fezzan. No frontier will be accepted that does not give the possession of Bardai Ain Galakka and Unar, which lie much to the south and are claimed by France.

RUSSIAN ANTI-EASTER DRIVE ON TOMORROW

MOSCOW, March 14. (AP)—The Jewish telegraphic agency reports that the anti-Passover and anti-Easter campaign in Russia will officially open tomorrow under the joint direction of the soviet trade unions and the Atheist League of the Godless. It will last a full two months. The executive of the federation of soviet labor unions today sent instructions to every union member to participate actively in the campaign.

COUNTESS SUFFOLK'S SON BROKERAGE CLERK

MONTREAL, March 14. (Exclusive)—It became known here today that Cecil John Arthur Howard, second son of the Countess of Suffolk and heir presumptive to the earldom, is employed as a clerk in the brokerage firm of A. E. Ames & Co. This was revealed when Lady Suffolk arrived from Chicago to visit her son. The Countess was formerly Marguerite Leiter, youngest daughter of the late Levi Z. Leiter. The son is 21 years of age, and attended Oxford University before coming here to enter business.

RAILWAY DEAL AFFECTS WEST

Van Sweringen Merger Held as Important Here

Moffat Tunnel Use Shortens Distance to Coast

Arthur James Now Believed Backing Project

SALT LAKE CITY, March 14. (Exclusive)—What the Van Sweringen rail deal means to the West in its transcontinental hook-up is said by local railroad men to be:

Extension of the Arthur Curtiss James plan of joining the Denver and Rio Grande Western at Salt Lake with the Western Pacific and reaching the Pacific seaboard.

Completion of purchase by the Denver and Rio Grande Western of the Denver and Salt Lake line (Moffat road.)

Acquisition of the Moffat tunnel and completion of the Dotsero cut-off, thus shortening the rail distance between Denver and Salt Lake.

BENEFITS NORTHWEST

Completion of the proposed hook-up of northwest transcontinental systems by linking Western Pacific with the Great Northern by way of the Klamath Falls-Keddie cut-off in California.

Arthur Curtiss James, the largest individual holder of rail stocks, is believed in Salt Lake to be behind the Van Sweringen deal. James acquired control of the Western Pacific and a half-interest in the Denver and Rio Grande Western. He got behind the plan to tie the Western Pacific into the Great Northern out of Feather River Canyon at Keddie and by the cut-off to Klamath Falls give the Great Northern an entrance into California and a more potent bid by the Western Pacific for Coast freight and passenger traffic.

HEARING NOW ON

The proposed Keddie cut-off now is pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission, hearings having been held throughout the West, with most western communities supporting the plan. The Southern Pacific, which opposed the Western Pacific application, was supported in some places, however.

With the completion of the Van Sweringen deal for the Missouri Pacific control and the Denver and Rio Grande west of Denver, the further improvement of the transcontinental chain would be the pushing to fruition of plans to make use of the Moffat tunnel, already built and in litigation.

Purchase by the Denver and Rio Grande Western of the Moffat line and tunnel also pends before the Interstate Commerce Commission. Hearings have been set for the 24th inst. at Denver and the 27th inst. at Salt Lake City.

Utah interests will intercede in the hearings to make the acquisition of control of the Moffat line dependent upon the willingness of the Denver and Rio Grande Western to construct a branch line into the Uintah basin, the great agricultural region in Eastern Utah. The western terminus of the Moffat line is now at Craig, Colo.

DISPATCHES INTERPRETED

Dispatches from Cleveland to the effect that the Van Sweringen interests have acquired control of every link in the chain except the Western Pacific are regarded here as a forerunner to another announcement that the James holding in the latter road is available for the final link.

The friendly relations between the James interests, with their powerful control of western railroads, is regarded by railroad officials in Salt Lake as a certainty that no through line from New York to the Pacific Coast would be planned by the Van Sweringens without a certainty that the Salt Lake-San Francisco link would be a part of the deal.

WESTERN ROADS SEEN AS MERGER OBSTACLE

NEW YORK, March 14. (Exclusive)—The Van Sweringen interests of Cleveland have no intention of trying to merge the Missouri Pacific with their eastern lines, it was learned today. Those interests have in mind the failure which similar attempts met in the past. For one thing, it was pointed out in railroad circles, there is not sufficient transcontinental traffic for such a system. In the second place, every previous attempt to extend an eastern railroad west of the Mississippi has encountered serious opposition from the western roads.

The situation between the Missouri Pacific and the Van Sweringen lines was compared to the mutual holdings of the New York Central and the Union Pacific in one another. The interchange of stock has existed for years but the suggestion that these two roads should be made into a transcontinental has never been made. However, the interchange of stock interests has made for friendly relations between the roads, although the Union Pacific has not attempted unduly to divert traffic to the New York Central by comparison with other eastern roads.

It is learned that the Van Sweringens may seek representation on the Missouri Pacific board, although this is not certain. It is expected that, even if they seek and obtain a position on the board they will not attempt unduly to divert traffic to their eastern lines.

The Allegheny Corporation, through which the Missouri Pacific purchases were made, is on record as owning 100,000 shares of Missouri Pacific common stock, 60,000 shares of the preferred and a substantial amount of convertible debentures. It is considered that this represents only a part of the Allegheny Corporation's holdings. One estimate has gone as high as 275,000 shares. This would be about 15 per cent.

OPERA IN GERMANY TO GO ON AIR TOMORROW

BERLIN, March 14. (Exclusive)—Germany will broadcast what many consider her best opera company for American radio listeners Sunday, when the Dresden State Opera will put Beethoven's "Fidelio" on the air. The performance will take place in the evening, and hence, accounting for the difference in time, begin to reach Chicago early in the afternoon. The transmitting of the opera to America will be handled by the Middle German Radio Company of Leipzig.

QUIZ FOCUSSED ON HUSTON FUND

G.O.P. Leader Describes Use of Carbide Money

Placed in Personal Account, He Tells Committee

Lobby Investigators Plan to Pursue This Trail

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP)—After testifying today that he had deposited in his personal brokerage account $36,100 which he had collected last year from the Union Carbide Company for the Tennessee River Improvement Association, Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican National Committee, was directed by the Senate lobby committee to reappear Tuesday for further questioning about the account.

Huston, in his third day's testimony before the committee, told of the collection of this amount and emphasized that all of the money had been turned over to the association. He was questioned sharply by Senators Black, Democrat, Alabama, and Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, as to why he deposited the money in his brokerage account.

"It is very customary instead of carrying money in a bank," Huston replied, "to carry it with your brokers because of the fact that they will do whatever you want to do with more flexibility than a bank will do it."

Some time after he had been excused by the committee, another summons was sent to him to return Tuesday. Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, said he wants to inquire further into the exact use of the Union Carbide Company contribution by Huston.

The witness, a former president of the Tennessee association, which has advocated the proposal of the American Cyanamid Company to lease Muscle Shoals, said the money had been "put into some particular account" he had with the brokers and that he did not tell the brokers what it was for because "it was none of their business."

Questioned sharply by members of the committee about the account, he said that whenever money was to be sent to J. W. Worthington, chairman of the executive committee of the association, the brokerage firm was instructed to make the remittance.

Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, asked Huston if he did not "distinguish between a personal account of money that belongs to you personally and an account that belongs to somebody else that is in the nature of a trust."

"Oh, yes, I have that much intelligence," Huston replied.

"But here you are turning over money in a trust fund that belongs to somebody else to that broker," Blaine continued. He added that the money, which he said belonged to the Tennessee River Improvement Association, was in the nature of a trust fund.

"Assuming I was an agent and ultimately put the money in the hands of Col. Worthington," Huston interjected, "I was an agent and I did do that job and I did it to a penny. That is all there is to it that I know of, but I am going to get you the facts in the fullest detail."

Questioned about a previous statement he had made to the effect that he and President Hoover had held different opinions about the disposition of Muscle Shoals, Huston said he regarded the proposal of Henry Ford "a wonderful offer," while President Hoover, who then was Secretary of Commerce, "thought it might be improved somewhat."

BORAH FAILS TO COLLECT PAY RISE FOR FIVE YEARS

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP)—It was disclosed today that Senator Borah of Idaho never has drawn the increase of $2500 a year in salary authorized for members of Congress five years ago.

This came to light during informal discussion of whether a law prohibiting members of Congress from holding an office for which they have voted an increase in salary would make the Idahoan ineligible for appointment to the Supreme Court bench as successor to the late Edward T. Sanford.

Borah has voted against all recent salary-increase bills and is certain, as are his friends, that he voted against the measure increasing Supreme Court salaries. He, however, does not recall the vote and there was no record ballot on the bill.

"But there are other reasons than that why I am ineligible," the Idahoan said today with a laugh.

As a result of refusing to accept the Congressional salary increase from $7500 to $10,000 a year, Borah has $12,500 to his credit in the Treasury. He may draw it any time but if he does not it will stay there.

TWO KILLED IN MAINE FIRE

ELLSWORTH (Me.) March 14. (AP) Two firemen were killed and two others seriously injured today in a fire which destroyed the Hancock County Supreme Court Building with a loss estimated at $175,000. The dead were Raymond Peavey and Lester Salisbury.

PROPOSED HIDE TARIFF BEATEN

High Rates Rejected, But Issue Not Settled

Further Amendments Still to be Acted On

Levies Urged by Oddie Not Yet Put to Vote

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP)—The Senate tonight rejected proposed rates of 5 and 9 cents a pound, respectively, on green and cured hides, now on the free list. This did not settle the issue, however, as further amendments remain to be acted upon.

The vote against the 5 and 9-cent rates, proposed by Senator Howell, Republican, Nebraska, was 42 to 25.

The Howell proposal was the first of a series of amendments to another amendment by Senator Oddie, Republican, Nevada, calling for duties on hides, leathers and shoes. The Oddie proposition itself remains to be acted upon.

The hides rates proposed by Oddie are 4 and 8 cents on green and cured.

A second modification of the Oddie amendment by Howell calling for a rate of 6 cents a pound and 5 4-10 per cent ad valorem on sole leather was defeated, 34 to 32.

THORPE CHOSEN SUN-MAID HEAD

General Manager California Walnut Growers Elected

New Executive Succeeds to Post Resigned by Creech

Glen Ridnour of Wichita to be Manager of Sales

FRESNO, March 14. (Exclusive)—Carlyle Thorpe, general manager of the California Walnut Growers' Association, was today elected president and general manager of the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers' Association, succeeding Harry M. Creech, who has held the position since the retirement of Ralph P. Merritt in July, 1928.

Coincident with the election of Thorpe, it was announced that Glen Ridnour, Wichita, Kan., food broker, was appointed sales manager to succeed Millard Buyr, whose resignation, like that of Creech, has been in the hands of the directorate of Sun-Maid for several weeks.

Thorpe announced that his election as executive head of the Delaware Manufacturing Corporation of the co-operative is a temporary move, and that he expects to remain in that capacity only until the permanent program of the Federal Farm Board is functioning, and when it is expected that the Sun-Maid organization will be reorganized. He said that he has agreed to remain as an adviser after that time, so long as any of the 1929 raisin crop remains in Sun-Maid's hands. The appointment of Ridnour was announced as permanent.

PERSONNEL TO REMAIN

"The personnel of the Sun-Maid organization will remain intact, so long as they "Deliver the goods and hit the ball," Thorpe said in response to a question regarding reorganization.

"We have got to make this a real efficient organization so that it operates as economically and efficiently, if not more so, than do the commercial packers," he declared.

"There is no justification for a co-operative unless it operates as efficiently and as cheaply as its competitors. And a democratically-run and virtually publicly owned corporation ought to do better in this regard than its private competitors because it has the volume of goods and the good will of the grower and the public." Thorpe concluded.

Creech announced that he would leave tonight to make his home in San Francisco, but declined to reveal any of his future plans.

During the time he has been chief executive of the manufacturing and marketing organization of the co-operative, its affairs have undergone extensive reorganization, including drastic reductions in overhead through consolidation of departmental functions, and other economies. Directors of the corporation recently issued a statement in which they expressed appreciation of his efforts, and stated that they believed he had executed his trust as well as it could have been done under the circumstances.

ECONOMIES EFFECTED

Among the greatest economies effected during his term were those ordered by the Farm Board, including the rescinding of all advertisement contracts, involving several hundred thousand dollars, dissolution of the international sales organization, and placing of sales in the hands of brokers.

Thorpe came here on January 6 as the Farm Board's advisor to Sun-Maid, and Ridnour arrived more recently. Both took up their new duties immediately.

C. C. Teague, Farm Board member in whose grape-industry program Sun-Maid plays an integral and highly important part, was present at the meeting of the Sun-Maid directorate, a special session called for the purpose of naming the new president and sales manager.

GRAND JURY DEALS BLOW TO JUSTICES

New York Investigation of 'Magistrates' Racket' Ends With Many Charges Listed

NEW YORK, March 14. (Exclusive)—The grand jury which has been investigating abuses in the city magistrates' courts—the so-called "magistrates' racket"—since early in January, submitted lengthy presentment today to Judge Koenig in the Court of General Sessions.

It established loose and disreputable conduct on the part of magistrates.

It established the charges of graft in police courts.

It established illegal connections between professional bondsmen and court attendants and attorneys practicing in police courts.

It also was found that magistrates have been too close to politicians and political organizations; that court proceedings have been lacking in dignity and fairness; that persons having business in the courts are not being treated with consideration; that magistrates have disposed of too many cases in their private chambers, and that from lack of courage or industry they have sent to the grand jury too many cases which they should have disposed of themselves.

ARGUMENT IN FOX CASE POSTPONED

Battle for Control of Film Interests Will be Resumed Tuesday

NEW YORK, March 14. (Exclusive)—The various groups involved in the battle for control of the Fox Film interests agreed today to a recess of their litigation in the State and Federal courts until next Tuesday.

Fox had an order issued by the Federal court here which required John E. Otterson and Harry L. Stuart of Halsey, Stuart & Co. to show cause why the injunction restraining them from voting the stock of William Fox in the Fox Film and Fox Theaters Corporations, of which they are co-trustees, should not be made permanent. The order was to be returnable yesterday but upon agreement of counsel for both sides the hearing was adjourned by Federal Judge Coleman until 3 p.m. next Tuesday.

The co-trustees, however, had gone into the State Supreme Court and sought an order from Justice Levy seeking to restrain Fox from taking the present action up in the Federal court. This order, returnable today, was also adjourned until next Tuesday.

City War Rages Over Banning of Condemned Film

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) March 14. (AP)—The manager and two operators of a movie theater here are under arrest, five city officials are under citation for contempt of court and the theater was closed tonight in a three-cornered battle over the showing of "Party Girl," a film condemned by the city film inspector.

The battle will be resumed in Jefferson County Circuit Court tomorrow, when the city officials are to appear in answer to summons issued by Judge Roger Snyder.

The contempt summons was issued after attorneys for the theater had charged the city officials had acted in contempt of court in closing the theater after Judge Snyder had issued a temporary injunction restraining them from interfering with the showing of the condemned film.

BYRD REPORTER RECEIVES HONOR

Russell E. Owen Praised by Dunedin Journalists

Admired for Press Stories Sent from Antarctic

New York's Hull Found to be in Good Condition

(Copyright, 1930, by Los Angeles Times, New York Times Company and St. Louis Post Dispatch. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.) (Special cable to the New York Times.)

DUNEDIN (N. Z.) March 14. (Exclusive)—The admiration of the newspaper men of New Zealand for the work of Russell E. Owen in covering both the North and South polar expeditions of Rear-Admiral Byrd was expressed today at a gathering of journalists in Dunedin.

James Hutchison, editor of the Otago Daily Times, as chairman told of the great pleasure which all present had felt in meeting Mr. Owen, who has so ably told the world of the Antarctic expedition's activities.

"His daily work has given a new touch of romance to polar exploration," Mr. Hutchison said. "Mr. Owen is the only newspaper man in the world who has covered assignments in both polar regions.

"His name is known to the whole civilized world. His magnificent work has added fresh laurels to his reputation and shed fresh luster on the journalistic profession."

GIFT PRESENTED

In behalf of the journalists of Dunedin, Mr. Hutchison announced the award to Mr. Owen of a memento in the form of a paper weight made of New Zealand greenstone surmounted by a silver model of the Kiwi, New Zealand's only surviving flightless bird. The gift bore a suitable inscription.

Admiral Byrd in a speech paid tribute to the work of Owen whose health was toasted. Mr. Owen at present is indisposed and is spending a health-recruiting vacation in Wellington.

Both ships of the Byrd expedition were dry-docked yesterday for examination preparatory to the homeward journey. The hull of the bark City of New York is in good shape despite her rough handling in the pack ice. No structural damage was found. The serious looking scars above the water line are merely surface abrasions.

SAIL NEXT WEEK

The steamship Eleanor Bolling is being fitted with a new propeller.

The ships will load stores, equipment and full coal supplies in readiness to sail at the end of next week for New York via Tahiti and the Panama Canal. Admiral Byrd's plans are somewhat indefinite, but he will probably proceed later and overtake his ships at Panama.

An advance guard of expedition members comprising Arthur T. Walden, Norman D. Vaughan, George H. Black, Edward E. Goodale, Mr. Leuthner and Mr. Voytech will sail from Wellington this weekend on the whaler C. A. Larsen for New York via Panama.

The whaler will carry all the expedition's dogs being sent home and also a number of live Adelie and Emperor penguins from the Ross Sea, which are to be housed in the whale ship in the Larsen's bow. If the penguins survive the voyage they will be presented to American zoological institutions.

MESSAGES SWAMP BYRD

All the remaining members of the expedition are being treated as the dominion's guests, the New Zealand government granting free railway transport and other facilities enabling them to visit the country's tourist resorts.

Admiral Byrd is being deluged with congratulatory messages from all parts of the world.

Remarkable interest in the achievements of his expedition is being shown by school-children. Arrangements have been made to assure fullest co-operation between the education authorities and radio officials throughout the dominion in connection with the broadcast of Admiral Byrd's address to the school-children here Tuesday.

The Education Department has issued instructions to provincial boards to accord the fullest possible facilities to enable the children to listen to this historic talk.

The Radio Dealers' Federation is arranging to co-operate by equipping the countryside schools for radio reception.

Bay City Bank Bandits Wound Police Officer

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14. (AP) Police Corporal Eugene Egan, 50 years of age, was shot and probably fatally wounded late today by two bandits who held up the Hayes and Divisadero-street branch of the Bank of Italy and escaped in a stolen automobile with $3719.

Egan, off duty and dressed in civilian clothing, was waiting at the corner for a street car, when he heard a police whistle and immediately after saw two men dash from the bank and leap into an automobile. He reached for his pistol, but before he could fire was dropped by the one shot fired by the fleeing bandits.

The bullet struck Egan near the heart. At the Emergency Hospital slight hope is held for his recovery.

Charity Given Mercer Riches

DOYLESTOWN (Pa.) March 14. (AP)—Charitable bequests aggregating more than $750,000 were left by the late Dr. Henry Chapman Mercer, archeologist, scientist and pottery manufacturer, whose will was probated here today. Dr. Mercer died Sunday after a long illness. He was 74 years of age.

"Fonthill," his large estate near here, was left to the public at large, to be used as a museum to illustrate the meaning and history of ornamental tiles as applied to architecture.

AND ACTIVITIES AT LOS ANGELES HARBOR

ACTION DELAYED ON BREAKWATER

Port Project Goes Over to December Session

Army Engineer Body Tardy in Making Report

Will Keep Appropriation Out of Omnibus Bill

BY WALDO DRAKE

Legislation on the 12,500-foot breakwater extension and the four projects for widening and deepening of fairways and channels in the Los Angeles-Long Beach port area will be delayed until the December, next, session of Congress. Delay in presentation of the joint recommendation of Congress by the United States Army Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, it was definitely learned yesterday, will prevent its inclusion in the omnibus bill for rivers and harbors, to be reported to the House next week.

Local interests already have plans under way to expedite passage of the necessary authorization for the projects by the next session of Congress, so that work may be started on both the breakwater and dredging jobs early in 1931. Little hope has been held for passage of the local projects this spring, since recent action by Col. T. M. Robins, new United States Engineer for the California area, in over-ruling the recommendation by Maj. W. H. Lanagan, local district engineer, for dredging of the triangular area in the Outer Harbor and for a forty-foot entrance channel at Long Beach.

The army engineer board, following Col. Robins's adverse report, granted a review of the situation at Washington for the 25th inst. to the harbor departments of Los Angeles and Long Beach. George F. Nicholson, Harbor Engineer of Los Angeles, and Maj. R. G. McGlone, Long Beach port engineer, to represent the two communities at the rehearing, will leave for Washington on the 20th inst.

In addition to construction of the 12,500-foot breakwater extension on the Hughes-Nicholson plan, they will urge recommendation of the following government dredging project:

(1.) Dredging of the triangular area in the Outer Harbor south of New Deadman's Island; the resultant 2,056,000 cubic yards of clay to be used as base for new breakwater.

(2.) Dredging of Long Beach entrance channel to a depth of forty feet, instead of thirty-five feet as recommended by Col. Robins.

(3.) Widening and deepening of Cerritos Channel, connecting Long Beach and Los Angeles harbors.

(4.) Removal of the East Basin shoal, entailing dredging of 783,000 cubic feet of material.

CASE-OIL RUSH TO AUSTRALIA UNDER WAY

Australia has suspended its new duty on case-oil tins until November, and the rush is on to dispatch bumper cargoes from Los Angeles to the Antipodes before that time, according to J. B. Banning, local representative of the Matson Line.

The Matson Line's O. & O. steamer Golden Eagle will depart here today for Australia with 6700 tons of cased oil, and drums and 200 tons of general merchandise, one of the largest shipments of the kind ever to go from here.

Australian longshoremen and farmers protested the duty, Banning said, the former on the plea it would deny them much labor and the latter because of the varied uses of the tins and the box shook which encase the tins.

"It is declared possible the duty never will be imposed," he declared. Los Angeles exports a vast amount of gasoline in tins to Australia, in addition to its dominant movement of bulk gasoline to that country.

Lasco liner City of Honolulu disembarked 257 passengers from Hawaii yesterday noon, after a fair weather voyage continuously until within thirty miles of Los Angeles, when winds whipped up a frothy sea and rain drove travelers to sheltered decks. Capt. Zeh reported receiving Alfred R. Broneman, seaman suffering with appendicitis, on the 10th inst., from the U.S.S. Sea Gull, tendering submarine en route to San Diego. Dr. Pierre Germon, ship's surgeon, was able to relieve the patient without operating and Broneman was taken in an ambulance here to the base hospital at San Diego. Dr. Germon treated another patient on the steamer Makua, several hundred miles away, by radio exchanges with the Makua's captain.

A flood of mail from the battle fleet, now on winter maneuvers in the Caribbean, will arrive from Panama at 6 o'clock this evening aboard the dreadnaught Idaho, which will also put in at San Diego at daylight long enough to discharge mail and passengers.

The Idaho, en route to the Puget Sound navy yard for annual overhaul, will depart for the north at 8 o'clock Monday night.

Rain Wrecks Sports Card for Week-end

Although the rain undoubtedly helped the farmers it didn't do the various athletic encounters scheduled for yesterday any good. Besides the postponement of the five City League track meets, the S.C.-California baseball game was also called off. If possible the Trojans and Bears will play a double-header this afternoon starting at 1 o'clock. The prep meets will be run off next Monday or Tuesday.

The rain also played havoc with some of today's encounter, the three-way track meet between the S.C. Trojans, Occidental and the Los Angeles Athletic Club being called off. The Trojans and the Tigers may get together Monday or Tuesday of next week. El Monte's invitational junior Olympic Games next, slated for today, will be held next Saturday.

JACK SAYS HE'S GOING TO TRAIN

Finish of Theatrical Tour Will Mark Start of Dempsey Workouts

DETROIT, March 14. (AP)—Jack Dempsey said here tonight that he intends to go into training as soon as he completes the theatrical tour in which he is engaged at present.

"If I find I can get into proper condition," said the former heavyweight champion, "I will be ready to meet the outstanding claimant for the title."

Physical condition, rather than financial considerations, will determine his future course, Dempsey asserted. "It won't make any difference if I have a million dollars or haven't a dime," he said. "If I can't get back into condition, I will remain retired."

The trouble with the heavyweight situation at present, Dempsey believes, is that "there are too many logical contenders and not sufficient elimination to produce a champion."

He outlined what he considers

RAIN CHANGES NET PROGRAM

Play Starts Today, Weather Permitting

Helen Wills, Miss Marlowe Mix This Morning

Men's Net Line-up Changed by Officials

Several changes in the program of the Huntington Hotel invitational tennis championships were announced yesterday as a result of the rains, which prevented the opening of the net classic, featuring Helen Wills, queen of the courts. Weather permitting, play will commence this morning.

The women's singles drawings remain as first announced, but the times of play for today have been revamped. The one and only Helen Wills Moody clashes with Helen Marlowe, second ranking junior girl star in the United States, at 11 o'clock this morning, while at 2:30 o'clock the first-round winners will tangle in semifinal - round matches.

The original entry of sixteen in the men's singles and eight doubles teams has been abandoned by the hotel committee, and the male stars will instead clash in a North vs. South team exhibition series, Neil Brown, Bobby Sellars, Phil Neer and Gerald Stratford to represent the north, and Ben Gorchakoff, Sidney Wood, Keith Gledhill and Ellsworth Vines carrying the southern banner.

TOURNEY INSURED

Tournament officials announced yesterday that the tournament had been insured against rain. The insurance will be enough to cover expenses providing the rain does not cause a definite postponement today and tomorrow.

In the doubles only four teams are entered. They include Bob Sellars and Neil Brown, Southwest champions, and conquerors of John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, Davis Cup kings; Ben Gorchakoff and Art Kussman, No. 8 in the United States; Phil Neer and Gerald Stratford, both former intercollegiate champions, and Sidney Wood and Lester Stoefen, crack Los Angeles Athletic Club combination, ranked fourth in the Southland.

Next to the Wills-Marlowe feature, the Misses Ethel Burkehart and Midge Gladman, eighth and ninth ranking women players in our country, hold the spotlight, in their initial round engagement, the winner to face, undoubtedly, Helen Wills in the second bracket. Edith Cross encounters Caroline Babcock and Mary Greef tangles with Josephine Cruickshank in the two lower bracket pairings, the winners meeting again at 3:30.

The pairings in the new men's singles drawings bring together Bob Sellars, San Francisco, vs. Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena; Sidney Wood, Pasadena, vs. Gerald Stratford, San Francisco; Ben Gorchakoff, Los Angeles, vs. Neil Brown, San Francisco, and Phil Neer, Portland, vs. Kieth Gledhill, Santa Barbara. The Sellars-Vines battle holds the spotlight, coming at 10 o'clock this morning, Gorchakoff and Brown at 11, Neer and Gledhill at noon, and SHOTPUTTERS are different nowadays. They all used to be fat and they all used to be Irish. Now the stars are all either German or of German descent and there's not a pot-belly in the crowd. The Hirschfelds, Kucks, Brixes, Housers, Schwarzes, Krenzes and Rotherts have replaced the Flanagans, Roses, McDonalds, Sheridans, Ryans, McGraths and Duncans. (Yes, Duncan was Irish, too.) The Germans have surpassed the best Irish marks at everything except throwing the hammer.

All the first-mentioned seven shotputters have put the sixteen pound ball a distance of 50ft. or better, and all but "Bud" Houser and Herb Schwarzie have surpassed 51ft. When you consider that Ralph Rose's former world's record of 51ft., made in 1909, was not broken until 1928, you realize that the weightmen around nowadays are the greatest bunch in the history of athletics.

Take Herman Brix, for instance. He is a tall, broad, well-built, fine-looking boy, who played tackle for Enoch Bagshaw's University of Washington team in 1925, '26 and '27, and did not jump into real fame as a weight-thrower until the Olympic tryouts in 1928. He won the national championships (also the final tryouts for the games in Amsterdam) that year with a heave

NATIONAL SAILING SERIES STARTS AT LOCAL HARBOR

Eight-Meter Sloops Battle for King of Spain Trophy; Fifty Boats Entered in Regatta

BY FRANK ROCHE

With the Old Storm King and Father Neptune kicking up their heels in great fury indications are that the competition between the fifty trim racing yachts entered in the fourth national midwinter regatta, which gets under way today at Los Angeles Harbor shortly before 1 p.m., will be staged under heavy weather conditions. Despite the rain storm which blew in yesterday on a southeaster kicking up a thirty-mile blow, civic regatta officials announced that everything is in readiness for opening of the five-day sailing classic and nothing short of a typhoon would prevent the yachtsmen from staging the first of their series of races on the waters fronting Los Angeles Harbor.

The midwinter classic boasts the smartest field in its history. Slick racing yachts from every important boating section of the United States will compete for the national sailing trophies. The East will clash with the West and the North will battle the South during the five-day series.

The East Coast is represented by three classy racing yachts, one of which will seek to lift the King of Spain trophy, the feature event on a very sparkling program. San Francisco has six boats entered and the balance of the sloops, schooners, yawls and ketches will fly the burgees of the Southern California yachting organizations.

EAST COAST ENTRIES

The Atlantic Coast sea ghosts are: The eight-meter sloop Marin, owned by Lewis Luckenback of the Manhasset Yacht Club of New York; the R sloop Alert IV, owned and sailed by Charles Deere Wiman of the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club of New York, and the R sloop Robin, owned and handled by C. WALKER AND PARTNER WIN GOLF PRIZE

Pair Defeat Hampton and McIntyre to Take Miami Tourney

MIAMI (Fla.) March 14. (AP)—Cyril Walker of Saddle River, N. J., and Clarence Gamber, young Boca Raton (Fla.) professional, won the annual international four-ball golf matches today from Harry Hampton, Chicago, and Neil McIntyre of Indianapolis. The match ended one up on the eighteenth green.

Walker and Gamber collected $1500 first team victory money in the eighteen-hole play-off made necessary when the teams ended their thirty-six hole final match yesterday all square. Hampton and McIntyre received $1000 second place team money.

Walker and Gamber found odds of 20 to 1 against them as they opened the annual golfing spectacle Sunday, but they forged their way through competition of thirty-two teams. The consistent golfing of Walker and Gamber day before yesterday eliminated Gene Sarazen, Fresh Meadow, L. I., and Johnny

MISS M'KIM SETS RECORD

Four Marks Smashed by Women Swimmers in Meet at Miami Beach; Helene Madison Stars

MIAMI BEACH (Fla.) March 14. (AP)—Three world's records fell in the national A.A.U. women's swimming championships here today with 16-year-old Helene Madison of the Crystal Swimming Club of Seattle, showing the way in the 100-meter swim.

Miss Madison sprinted the distance in a try against time in 1m. 8s. The former record of 1:09 2-5 was held by Albina Osipowich, Worcester, Mass.

Josephine McKim, Los Angeles Athletic Club, established a new mark of 3m. 49s. in the 300-yard swim. Officials ruled she had missed by four seconds a former record set up by Gertrude Ederle of New York in Miami Beach in 1925, but after a conference changed their decision. They ruled Miss McKim's time was 9 4-5s. better than a record established by Miss Ederle at Brighton Beach, New York, in 1922, which was recognized as official.

Judges of the championships said the record made by Miss Ederle here in 1925 was filed too late after the swim to be recognized and that her former mark stood until Miss McKim's time today.

Eleanor Holm of the Women's Swimming Association of New York clipped 1 1-5s. from the 50-meter back-stroke mark over the long course. Her time was 37 4-5s. The former record of 39s. was held by Sybil Bauer of the Illinois Women's Athletic Club of Chicago.

Officials said the record stood as a world mark, but would be listed

Olympic Club Plays Henry's in Title Tilt

KANSAS CITY, March 14. (AP)—The Olympic Club of San Francisco tonight entered the final round of the national A.A.U., basketball tournament by defeating the Bethany College Swedes from Lindsborg, Kan., the 1930 Kansas Conference champions, 23 to 21, in the second overtime period of their semifinal match.

The Henry's of Wichita, Kan., champions of the Missouri Valley A.A.U. Basketball League, conquered the East Central Teachers' College cagers from Ada, Okla., 27 to 22, and earned the right to meet the Olympic Club in the final tomorrow night for the championship. Although the count was tied six times, the game was slow and listless compared with the Olympic-Bethany game.

TILDEN ENTERS FINAL ROUND OF FRENCH PLAY

NICE (France) March 14. (AP)—Bill Tilden entered the final of the Nice singles tennis championship today, defeating Giorgio de Stefani, third ranking Italian, 6-0, 6-4, 6-2.

In the men's tennis doubles semi-finals Tilden and Wilbur F. Coen, Jr., defeated the Anglo-Italian combination of Charles Kingsley and De Stefani after 7-5, 6-3, 4-6, 2-6, 6-1.

DOMAN KAYOES FUENTE IN SECOND ROUND OF GO

Vijo Doman knocked out Tony Fuente, the Mexican jumping bean, in the second round of the main event of the Hollywood American Legion last night. Doman was outboxed and outfought in the first round and Fuente seemed to be on the way to an easy victory.

However, in the second session, Doman took the play away from the Mexican, landing a right-hand smash to the jaw and Fuente folded up like an old suit case. He tried to get up at the count of eight, but couldn't make the grade and Referee Larry McGrath counted him out.

Doman weighed 206, while Fuente tipped the scales at 194.

Tommy Gardner, a newcomer from the Northwest, won easily over Clayton Gouyd in the six-round semi-wind-up. While there were no knockdowns, it was Gardner's fight all the way, with possibly the first and the fifth being called even.

Frankie Bray won on a foul over Tommy Huffman in the second round of the six-round special event. The battle was fairly even until about the end of the second session when Huffman landed an unintentional blow below the equator.

Jimmy Piela took the nod over Trip Limbaco over four rounds. Ora Smith and Guy McKimmey battled to a draw in the curtain raiser.

JOHNNY DOEG WINS FLORIDA NET TITLE OVER EMMET PARE

ORMOND BEACH (Fla.) March 14. (AP)—John Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal., third national ranking player, won the Florida east coast tennis championship here today, defeating Emmet Pare, Dayton, O., 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. Each won his first two services but the Californian broke through Pare's service in the sixth game to start the next game on the long side of a 4-2 count. Pare made his best showing in this set, the last four games going to deuce before Doeg finally broke through for the win.

The first three games in the set went to Doeg, who allowed his opponent but four points, Pare winning the fourth on Doeg's service. The next two games were Doeg's but Pare garnered a win in the seventh when Doeg netted four easy returns, the latter retaliating, however, to win a love game on his own service and win the match and title.

LOAYZA HANDED SOUND PASTING BY CANZONERI

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, March 14. (AP)—Tony Canzoneri, battling miniature of Babe Ruth, wiped out some of the stain of recent defeat tonight by handing Stanislaus Loayza, rugged little Chilean, the worst licking of the game South American's career in Madison Square Garden. A slim crowd of 9500 saw Tony, badly beaten by Jackie (Kid) Berg in his last match, stage a convincing comeback and win the unanimous decision of the officials in ten exciting rounds.

The boys who were ready to concede the brilliant Italian bootblack's ring career was fading came in small numbers to see Canzoneri, former featherweight champion and perennial challenger for the lightweight crown, dazzle Loayza with his spectacular punching and footwork. Stanislaus, game as they come and a husky right-hand puncher, hardly hit Tony a solid smack in the whole ten rounds.

Canzoneri, once more the grand performer, held the awkward South American away with a sharp left hand, met him coming in with solid rights to the chin, and was anywhere but where Stan was touching when the time came to sling things out. Most of the ringside critics gave Canzoneri every round. The Italian scaled 131 pounds, Loayza 135 1-2.

Santa Monica Puts Up Hard Scrap in Semifinals

Seasiders Finally Vanquished by 37-to-31 Count

Fullerton on Short End of 21-to-20 Score

By virtue of their victories last night in the semifinals of the Southern California prep basketball play-off, Glendale High and Chaffey Union High will meet tonight in the Huntington Park gym in a game that will decide the Southland title.

Coach Bert Stanley's Glendale Dynamiters had a tough time subduing the Santa Monica Vikings last night in the Spartan gym, where both of the contests were held. The score at half was 19-10 in favor of the Bay League champions and only the exceptionally strong shooting of Harold (Fuzzy) Foss and Jeff Nibley of Glendale brought victory to the Dynamiters. The final score was 37-31.

Foss took high-scoring honors with 19 points, while Nibley was second for Glendale with 13. Harold Forney, Santa Monica center and captain, did the best work for his team, registering 14 digits.

While the Glendale-Santa Monica game was fairly close, the Chaffey-Fullerton contest was a thriller from start to finish, with the Citrus Belt cagers eking out a 21-20 victory. Although Chaffey led all the way, Fullerton was always within a couple of points of the lead and the fans expected the Indians to be out in front any minute.

Carpenter of Fullerton topped the scoring in the Indian-Chaffey battle with 10 points, with Meek and Olinger of Chaffey tied for second honors with 6 digits apiece.

the proper way of arriving at a title claimant. Tuffy Griffiths should be matched with Otto Von Porat, he said, the winner to meet the survivor of the Jack Sharkey-Max Schmeling bout.

"The ultimate survivor should be matched with Carnera, provided he survives a real test," continued Dempsey, "and then I might stage my comeback with the title at stake."

In a general discussion of heavyweight prospects he remarked that Carnera "is apt to come through and be a foreign menace and will have to be eliminated. Perhaps George Godfrey, the big colored fellow, could do that, but George has about lost interest through his lack of getting a chance among the contenders."

Dempsey referred to reports that he will fight Carnera in September as "the bunk."

The decision, however, was unpopular, with the spectators yelling for a draw.

FRED WINSOR BUYS BOXER'S CONTRACTS

Fred (Windy) Winsor, fight manager, announced yesterday that he had purchased the contracts of four boxers hailing from the stable of Harvey Pettit, manager of Goldie Hess. Pettit did not sell Hess, but has disposed of the following boys to Winsor for an announced sum of $2500: Tony Portillo, 140 pounds; Johnny Torres, 126 pounds; Joe Cordoza, 158 pounds, and Gus Ortwiska, heavyweight. Winsor said he would campaign his newly-acquired stable in the Northwest. Winsor managed Dummy Mahan, who was killed recently in a parachute jump from an airplane, taken to restore his hearing.

BEARS BEAT BRUIN PUCKS BY 2-1 SCORE

The California Bears of Berkeley scored a 2-1 victory over their younger brother, the California Bruin of Westwood, last night in an ice-hockey game at the Winter Garden Ice Palace.

Murphy, Bear wing, scored for the northerners in the first period. No more points were tallied until the last period, when Scott, Bruin center, tied the score. A few minutes later Murphy again got loose and shot the puck into the net, winning the game for the Bears.

RABBIT PUNCHES

WHY, MR. HARESNAPE!

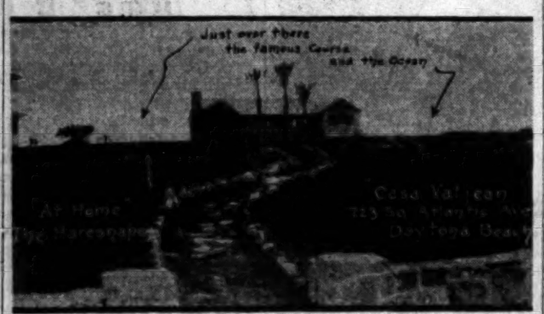
THE case of Val Haresnape calls for investigation by our Chamber of Commerce. This gentleman, a former Angeleno, is acting as head of the racing trials which get under way at Daytona this week-end.

Mr. Haresnape's full title is high sounding. He is the director-general, if you please, of the twenty-seventh anniversary beach trials.

This particular one has to do with the attempt of Kaye Don in his Silver Bullet to break the automobile record of 231.36 miles per hour which Maj. Seagrave established last year.

Mr. Haresnape got his start in the racing game in Los Angeles.

In the days of the old Beverly Hills track he was an assistant timer. Rapidly he became an invaluable man to the racing game, and when the Culver City track bloomed Mr. Val Haresnape was the local A.A.A. representative.



His next step was to become secretary of the national organization with headquarters in New York. He revolutionized the services of his office and made it an asset instead of a liability.

He was so progressive that it annoyed the old-timers, and recently they agreed to disagree. The Daytona Beach gang grabbed Mr. Haresnape without waiting to draw a deep breath, and he will be the big boss when the trials start today.

However, Mr. Haresnape's success has not gone to his head. He is still one of the home-town boys, and writes to his friends occasionally. The photo herewith proves it, although I doubt that the setting of Mr. Haresnape's house close to the ocean and the golf course means a thing in his young life.

Mr. Haresnape is too much of a nut on automobiles to know the difference between a mashie and a bathing suit.

RAH, RAH, HOCKEY

THE Bears of Berkeley vs. the Bruins of Los Angeles.

Nope, not football or track or basketball.

Hockey, by golly. At the Winter Garden Ice Palace last night.

And the boys inform us they're going to make a major sport out of it before they get through.

Hockey, professionally speaking, has gained quite a foothold hereabouts after several years of effort, and the rah-rah boys see no reason why it shouldn't afford another avenue to let off college steam.

They're probably right, and in due course of time we can expect large and enthusiastic gatherings to see the boys shinny on their own side.

At the current writing the Bears have demonstrated superiority over other rivals. They have beaten the Trojans and the Bruins, and also walked off with the President Hoover trophy donated for Yosemite Valley competition.

COLLEGIATE PADDLING

MR. JACK SILVER, who continues his Ocean Park interest in swimming as an undergraduate of the University of California at Berkeley, offers some sidelights on the aquatic situation.

He says things are looking up among the Coast conference colleges, and writes as follows about the matter:

"I just wanted to call your attention to the improving paddling conditions among the California colleges.

"U.S.C. now has Fred Cady. U.C.L.A. has Clyde Swendsen.

"Stanford, of course, has Ernest Brandsten and a new swimming pool with one pool for the dubs, a diving pool with three platforms and a pool for the swimming team. There are comfortable bleachers for 2000 people.

"California has Tom Whitaker, coach of the S. F. Olympic Club.

"There ought to be some collegiate splashing of a high order in the near future."

ANOTHER HATFIELD

MR. PHIL ELLSWORTH, graduate manager at Occidental College, has a bright idea which he proposes to sell to the Chamber of Commerce.

This idea blossomed with the rain yesterday, and revolves about the postponements which have become necessary each time Occidental and Southern California figured in a track meet since 1924.

When the triangular meet between S.C., Occidental and the L.A.A.C. was scheduled this year Mr. Ellsworth penned a letter to Mr. Arnold Eddy, graduate manager at S.C.

"We need rain," wrote Mr. Ellsworth, "and by scheduling this meet we are bound to be hailed as public benefactors. It's a cinch to rain on any day we bill the meet."

The meet was rained out yesterday, as Mr. Ellsworth predicted, and now he contemplates proposing to the Chamber of Commerce that in event of drought next year an S.C.-Oxy meet be scheduled for every Saturday from January 1 until April 1.

Rabbit-punch Still Banned

Ed (Strangler) Lewis failed yesterday in an attempt to have the ban on the rabbit-punch in wrestling matches here, lifted. He protested the recent ruling of the State Athletic Commission to Promoter Lou Daro on the grounds that the neck blow was not barred in any other city in the country.

Daro informed Lewis, who is scheduled to meet "Gorilla" Gene La Doux, the wild French-Canadian, in a finish mat battle at the Olympic Wednesday night, that the rule was passed because of the hammering he administered Dick Daviscourt with the rabbit punch here early this year, and that it would be vigorously enforced in this battle.

Lewis beat Daviscourt in a headlocking bout here by first subduing him with rabbit punches. He had planned to wage the same kind of a battle to beat La Doux, it was reported.

ARGENTINE FOUR WINS

SAN MATEO, March 14. (AP)—Playing on a rain-soaked field, the Argentine polo four swept to a 6-to-3 victory over an all-star California team here today.

HOOD FIGHTS JORDAN

Ernie Hood and Johnny Jordan, flyweights, will fight in the eight-round main event Thursday night at the Pasadena fight arena, Morry Cohen, matchmaker, announced last night.

Sell Tickets for Big Game Decade Away

BERKELEY, March 14. (Exclusive)—Students at the University of California visualize future scrambling for tickets to the California-Stanford big game of the football season.

Ticket scrip from 1931 to 1940 is now being offered to old stadium subscribers for $100. Unquestionably this scrip will be purchased in the great majority of cases where offered. Monies realized on the scrip sale will be expended toward retirement of $1,250,000 in obligations resulting from the purchase and improvement of property in the new southwest athletic development, to include a football field, track, tennis and handball courts, baseball and soccer fields. The associated students' executive committee also has pledged $125,000 toward the Eshleman Memorial Publications Building to house all journalistic endeavors on the campus.

RAIN MAY HALT TWO CUB TILTS

leave Avalon until 7:45 this morning and will remain over on the island if Angel officials decide to officially call off the game by that time. McCarthy has planned to use some of his regular hurlers in this week-end's games against the Angels. Root and Malone, especially, are fit and ready to go and will no doubt see action if the flood recedes in time for the Sunday game.

Ray Schalk took a delegation of Cubs, known as the Cub second team, down to San Diego yesterday for games with the Hollywood Stars today and tomorrow. Because of a shortage of athletes the Cubs were forced to borrow Infielders George Steward and Ralph Layne to fill out their line-up.

STARS USE REGULARS

Talked to Skipper Vitt over the phone last night and he said that his Sheiks were coming along slowly but surely. He plans to use his regulars against the Cub Seconds today and tomorrow, provided the weather permits the athletes to go through with the contests.

"The boys aren't in top shape yet," remarked Vitt, "but you can bet that the Stars will be all primed to go when they ring the bell April 8. We're taking things easy and getting in shape gradually."

And so it is now strictly up to the weather whether or not there'll be any ball games this afternoon and tomorrow.

RAIN PREVENTS SHEIKS FROM PRACTICING

SAN DIEGO, March 14.—Rain and a gale-like wind combined to halt spring training of the Hollywood Stars here today. The rest was welcome to most of the players in camp, however, as tomorrow and Sunday a two-game series will be played with a delegation of Chicago Cubs hailing from Catalina. The Bruins were scheduled to arrive here late this evening for the two-day stay.

Manager Oscar Vitt will use his regulars in both contests, placing Mickey Heath at first base, Otis Brannon at second, Dudley Lee at shortstop and Mike Gazella at third base. Bill Rumler, Cleo Carlyle and either Frank Wetzel or Al McNeely will be used in the outfield.

Just about all the regular pitchers are expected to see service with Johnny Bassler and Hank Severeid doing the receiving.

Jane Fauntz of the Illinois Women's Athletic Club of Chicago took first place in the low-board diving event. She had a total of 122.33 points in unofficial additions of the five judges' decisions. A running full twist, perfectly executed, placed the Illinois girl in the lead for honors.

Georgia Coleman of the Los Angeles Athletic Club placed second in the diving and Evelyn Kennedy of the Illinois Women's Athletic Club was third.

of 50ft. 11 3-4in., and then took second to Johnny Kuck in the Olympics with a put of 51ft. 8in., beating Hirschfeld of Germany, who then held the world's record, by two inches!

Brix settled in Southern California, where he now represents the Los Angeles Athletic Club. He retained his national title in Denver last summer with a mark of 50ft. 2 1-2in., beating Stanford's two intercollegiate champions, Rothert and Krenz. His American record of 51ft. 11 5-8in. was made at Fresno, Cal., in April of last year. This year Herm started out with a put of 51ft. 7in. in the Southern Pacific A.A.U. relays, and then came his first defeat in a long time, and at the hands of another football player, too. Harlow Rothert of Stanford, beat him in the L.A.A.C.-Stanford dual meet on March 1, with a throw of 51ft. 8in. Brix was second with 51ft. 4 3-4in., and Krenz of Stanford third with 51ft. 1-8in. It was the only time, except at Amsterdam, that three men had beaten 51ft. in the same competition!

ST. PAUL PLANS TOURNEY

ST. PAUL, March 14. (AP)—Leading players are expected to be attracted by a new golfing prize, the $10,000 St. Paul open tournament, plans for which were announced here today. The tournament will be held August 14, 15 and 16 over the Keller links, a county fee course.

TRAINING CAMP GOSSIP

CUBS SAY CATALINA TOUGH PLACE TO TRAIN

AVALON (Catalina Island) March 14.—Difficulties surrounded Boss Joe McCarthy today, while he tried to give his Cub regulars a few last minute pointers on how they should conduct themselves in the two week-end engagements at Los Angeles.

The leader of the Champions had figured on another balmy day for the dress rehearsal, but what he got was something else. The wind blew like a breath out of the Arctic regions and rain came down intermittently. Under the conditions a beneficial drill was impossible so for about an hour the fellows did stunts in order to keep warm and then called it a day. It was so cold that even the natives refused to appear on the main stem and explain to the visitors that the weather was the first of its kind in forty years.

It seems that whenever the athletes have their day's drill curtailed over here they are more pleased than disappointed. They have all the conveniences that money can provide and ordinarily the weather is satisfactory, but there is a feeling among them that it is difficult to get into condition here.

Some of the fellows complain that the daily breeze hampers the conditioning of throwing arms. Some don't want to do much running because of a claim that their legs get sore. Just why this should be is something for scientific investigation, but men who seldom complain about anything raise this point so there must be some basis for it.

All the employers agree that they are only marking time until they can open their three weeks of exhibitions on Wrigley Field, at Los Angeles. The veteran pitchers all like to work out over there. Around here you can't get any of them to cut loose except with an occasional curve. They insist opening up with their complete line, over here, brings on sore arms.

These things are not mentioned with the idea of casting reflections on William Wrigley's famous island. They are merely offered as viewpoints of the athletes. Some of it, of course, can be attributed to the fact that the men have been too long in one place where amusement is limited.

McCarthy today was still in doubt about the identity of the pitchers he will work again the Angels tomorrow and Sunday. All he knew for a certainty was that in one game he would start Lefty Moss and in the other Hank Grampp, the noted batting practice hurler.

LEO OSTENBERG MAY PLAY SHORTSTOP FOR OAKS

FRESNO, March 14. (AP)—Leo Ostenberg, former Hollywood ball player, and the latest acquisition of the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League, today enjoyed prospects of playing shortstop the coming season for the team.

While Manager Carl Zamloch had originally intended the position at short for Bernie DeGroates, who was obtained by the Oaks from the Shreveport club, Ostenberg's showing in yesterday's game, during which he batted the second man to defeat the regulars 7 to 6, made him an excellent possibility for the post.

Because of the two games against the Sacramento Senators opening tomorrow, the Oaklanders had an easy day of it in camp today, with only a brief workout scheduled.

So far, Ernie Lombardi, holdout catcher, has failed to arrive and sign his contract. However, Vic Devincenzi, Oaks' secretary and treasurer, believes he can induce the lad to report before long.

HARRIS SAYS HARMONY IS RESTORED IN TIGER CAMP

TAMPA (Fla.) March 14. (AP)—Manager Stanley Harris believes that a combination of diplomacy and discipline has created a spirit of harmony among the Detroit Tigers which will insure the team of freedom from factional strife this season.

Harris, in dividing his team for practice and in assigning hotel rooms at the training camp here, took possible factionalism into consideration, and his method of handling the situation seems to have eliminated whatever discord existed and to have laid the groundwork for a peaceful season.

SUKEFORTH IS MOVED UP IN CINCY BATTING ORDER

ORLANDO (Fla.) March 14. (AP)—Dan Howley plans to make the most of the hitting prowess of Clyde Sukeforth, who batted .324 in addition to catching for the Cincinnati Reds last year. "He is too good a hitter to bat ten men in eighth place," Howley said, "and I intend to put him in either third or fourth place when he's catching."

NEW ORLEANS, March 14. (AP)—Charlie Jamieson, still the best ball hawk on the Cleveland Indians despite his fifteen years of service, is slated to relinquish his left field post this season to Dick Porter.

Manager Roger Peckinpaugh believes the veteran Jamieson will not be able to stand the daily knocks as well as a younger man. Porter found his batting eye near the end of last season and is expected to get the call.

CARDINALS TO CARRY NINE OF THIRTEEN HURLERS

BRADENTON (Fla.) March 14. (AP)—Nine of the thirteen hurlers on the St. Louis Cardinals' twirling staff in spring training are almost certain to be on hand when the pennant chase opens in another month, Manager Street declared yesterday. The nine include a couple of rookies, among them Grabowski and Lindsey, while the others are Haid, Hallahan, Hill, Johnson, Mitchell, Sherdel and Herman Bell or Flint Rhem. Frankhouse, carried for a couple of seasons, appears due for the minors.

DONIE BUSH SAYS CISSELL LOOKS GOOD AT SECOND

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) March 14. (AP)—Donie Bush, hustling manager of the Chicago White Sox, believes Bill Cissell, not so good as a shortstop, will live up to his $125,000 price-tag as a second baseman.

Cissell's work has been so impressive in practice that Bush has decided Charlie Gehringer of Detroit will have a real rival for second base honors. Another light practice took place today, with renewal of warfare with the New York Giants up for tomorrow.

SIX BROOKLYN ROOKIES ARE HANDED RELEASES

CLEARWATER (Fla.) March 14. (AP)—Six rookies have been released by Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Robins. John Krider, Jim Richardson and Mickey McKay, pitchers, Infielder Bob Reis, Outfielder Joe Vance and Catcher Vincent Liddy were the first to feel the managerial axe. All were sent to the Macon club, Brooklyn farm, stings being attached to Reis and Krider.

BROOKLYN BOSS THREATENS TO TRADE BABE HERMAN

CLEARWATER (Fla.) March 14. (AP)—Angered over Babe Herman's refusal to sign a contract, President Frank H. York of the Brooklyn Robins threatens to put the slugging outfielder on the baseball block.

York said he would try to trade Herman for another outfielder within the next few days unless Herman decides to sign a contract at $15,000 a year. He is holding out for $25,000.

Bill Hunter Going East

To begin a four-year term on the Football Rules Committee of the National Athletic Association, the body officially empowered to draw up the regulations for the American gridiron game, Director of Athletics Willis O. (Bill) Hunter of the University of Southern California leaves Monday for Absecon, N. J., where the annual meeting for the discussion of rule changes will open next Friday.

Representing the eighth district, which includes all Pacific Coast States, Hunter has recently been in communication with numerous coaches, athletic directors and faculty men of the West, seeking their opinions on the present code of rules and their suggestions for revisions. With minor suggestions and differences of opinions, football authorities and educators of the West agree that the present rules give the players the maximum in protection and the fans the maximum in thrills, according to Mr. Hunter, and he will have no radical rule changes to propose in the committee meetings.

The entire rules committee membership of ten is expected to be present at the Absecon gathering, according to E. K. Hall, chairman of the group. Besides Hunter of the eighth district, the committee is composed by districts of the following: T. A. D. (Tad) Jones, first, New England States; W. W. Roper, second, Middle Atlantic States; H. J. Stegeman, third, southeastern States; A. A. Stagg, fourth, middle western States; M. F. Ahearn, fifth, Missouri Valley States; Ray Morrison, sixth, southwestern States; H. W. Hughes, seventh, mountain States; E. K. Hall, chairman, and W. S. Langford, secretary.

EDDIE MACK WINS OVER SAILOR KOSKY

PHOENIX (Ariz.) March 14. (AP) Eddie Mack, Denver lightweight, took a ten-round decision over Sailor Pay Kosky of Chicago here tonight. Mack won eight of the ten rounds, scoring knockdowns in the third and tenth frames, Kosky getting an even break in the other two rounds, the first and sixth.

JUNIOR OLYMPIC GAMES Training Tips

BY SIG B. NYLANDER
Advisory Board,
Junior Olympic Games

A good plan for each Junior Olympic contestant to follow is to have a notebook in which he can keep an accurate record of his progress during the season. Keep a daily training record as well as a weekly score record using the following form for keeping the latter record:

JUNIOR OLYMPIC GAMES WEEKLY REPORT

Conf.:..... Date:.....

Basketball	Points
Baseball	"
Broad jump	"
75-yard dash	"
Chinning	"
Total Score

It would be a good idea to have your student executive and coach go over this with you to see where improvement may be made during the week following. Remember that the ideal score is for each event to total 20 per cent of your total score.

An essential part of every young athlete's program is regularity in everything, particularly sleep. A minimum of eight hours' sleep should be obtained. Nine hours would be better or even ten hours for the young athlete. Be sure to have plenty of fresh air in the room and also sufficient covers to keep warm. Try to relax completely when going to bed and cultivate sleeping on the right side and not on the back.

Get out of bed as soon as awakening in the morning and stretch the entire body completely. Every boy should take setting-up exercises every morning, a few minutes will be sufficient; however, fifteen minutes of setting-up exercises will do a lot of good. Exercises in the morning should be as much a part of the young athlete's program as washing the teeth and face.

Contrary to the common belief, no radical change in the athlete's diet is necessary during the training period. In fact many promising athletes have been wrecked for a season by a sudden change of diet. Common sense is the best guide and if mother has watched your food up to the present time I feel confident in saying that she will be able to continue to do so during your period of training. However, no food should be eaten that does not agree with one no matter how well recommended by professional athletes and others. Meals should be eaten three times a day regularly, the heaviest meal coming at night.

As all Junior Olympic Games contestants are under the age of sixteen I am going to blast an old theory by stating that I think that eating between meals will do more good than harm, providing it is of the right sort. Fruit, bread and butter, a glass of milk, graham crackers, etc., may be eaten between meals providing it does not interfere with the amount of food eaten during the regular meal periods.

Sweets should be avoided as much as possible, particularly between meals; a few pieces of good candy directly after meals will do no harm. Stimulants of all kinds should be avoided, coffee and tea can be safely eliminated from the boys' beverages and milk or cocoa substituted to an advantage. Sauces, spices and highly seasoned foods should be cut down, if not eliminated entirely. There should be a minimum amount of fried foods and an abundance of fresh fruit and vegetables. Plenty of fresh milk and at least six to eight glasses of water should be consumed during the day.

Meals eaten on the day of any strenuous competition should be light and simply taken to stave off the hungry feeling and never eaten less than three or four hours before competition. The evening meals eaten the few days before the meet are the meals that give the strength necessary for competition.

SAILING SERIES STARTS

skipper, will sail the Marin in the 8-meter series for the replica of the Santa Maria.

The races for the King of Spain prize will be the high spot of the regatta. A good deal of interest will be centered today on the accomplishments of the California Yacht Club's new water bird, Angelita, which has been named as the defender of the trophy presented to Southern California by Spain's ruler. The Angelita was built by a syndicate of yachtsmen representing the California club. It will be her first real test in a recognized regatta. The Angelita will be skippered by Ted Conant, the man who sailed Owen Churchill's Babe to victory in the King of Spain series last March. Many of the old seadogs at the harbor assert she will surprise everyone with her sailing.

Opposing the Angelita will be the Marin, the Babe, now racing under the colors of the Catalina Island Lacht Club, and the Monidah of San Francisco. Owen Churchill will handle the stick on the Babe in the present series. Charles A. Langlais's Monidah will be skippered by Claire Neuner. She flies the burgee of the St. Francis Yacht Club.

The next class of importance sees a battle for the Don Lee trophy among the 8 sloops. Seven of the smartest yachts of this class will face the starting gun in this event. The Alert IV is the defending boat. C. L. Farrand's Robin will be the east coast's other entry in this race. San Francisco has two slick sloops in the Lady Gay and the Machree ready to battle it out for the honors. Southern California has the following sloops entered, the Pirate, Heather and the Friendship.

PIRATE TO RACE

The Pirate, owned by O. K. Hunsaker, is the boat that cleaned up on the east coast last summer. The Friendship is Owen Churchill's sloop, winner of the Southern California championship. She will be sailed by Nick Potter. Walton Hubbard, a former star boat international champion skipper, will handle the Pirate. Al Christie is the owner and skipper of the Heather.

While the eights and R's are battling it out the six-meter sloops will also be doing their stuff. Stuart Haldorn's Ayayay of the St. Francis Yacht Club of San Francisco will defend the Ben R. Meyer Cup. Arthur Rousseau and his slick racing sloop May-be that cleaned up in the Southern California championships is also entered.

The May-be will also represent San Francisco sailing circles. Southland yachting followers are banking on one of the following sloops to garner the prize for this section of the State: Synnove, Caprice, Clio or Enada V. Al Rogers will handle the Synnove. She is considered one of the leading challengers. Tommy Lee's new sloop Caprice is a real dark horse, the experts contend. The Clio is Owen Dresden's contribution to the race. He is a newcomer to the six-meter class but he has already made a name for himself in cruising races. George C. Thomas III will sail the Enada V. She was formerly the Harpoon.

The larger boats have been divided into two classes for the regatta. There will be one series for forty-five sailing association schoolers, yawls and ketches, and one for special sloops. The star boats will also share in the spotlight during the regatta. A new $1000 trophy has been awarded in this class by Frank Borzage, and a spirited battle is expected.

SMALL BOATS CLASH

A special series for skimmers and catboats will be staged at [illegible] Beach, civic regatta officials announced. There will also be a yacht races on the program to take place under the auspices of the Angeles Playground Department.

The course announced for the regatta will be approximately 5 miles around a triangle of buoys off Permin. The committee in charge announces that the events may be seen from Catalina Island via special accommodations have been made to handle spectators.

BAPTISTS MAY PULL SURPRISE

[illegible]ler, Moore and Keele to Score Points

[illegible], Hammer Thrower, Not to Compete for Pomona

[illegible] and Stromsen Due to Run for First Time

CLAREMONT, March 14.—Despite weather tending to put a bit of damper on things in general and track and field meets in particular Coach Robert E. Strehle and his Sagehen track team are ready for the invasion of the Redlands and Whittier athletes tomorrow afternoon.

BOB STREHLE

The Pomona track is so designed that it drains exceptionally well and unless it rains right up to the time of the meet the triangular affair will in all probability be held as scheduled.

It is not the least bit improbable that the Redlands Bulldogs will pull a surprise tomorrow afternoon and trounce the Sagehens a trimming. Redlands boasts its strongest track team in years, and everybody knows that the Pomona outfit is nothing to write home about. With Taylor [illegible] the distances, Moore in the dashes and Indian Keele in the javelin the Sagehens are due to pull down a flock of points. The Sagehens will have further handicapped tomorrow by the loss of Ed Dew, star hammer thrower. Dew is scheduled to leave for San Diego this afternoon for a geology field trip and will not be a Claremont when the meet is run.

Jerry Bear, the Sagehen sprint star, is finding it rather difficult to get out of bed and run a good [illegible] yards. Bear will run tomorrow but he is far from being in shape. The same holds true of Ole Stromsen, who runs the 880 and [illegible] miles. Stromsen has been laid up with an infected toe and this is the first he has been able to work out for some time.

Pomona has been trying hard this week to get Chuck Petty, sprinter, into shape. It is likely that Strehle will run Petty in the relay as he has not yet found a fourth man. Petty is capable of running a [illegible] fast quarter.

Colima has been taking the [illegible] mineral baths there for some time and he is in great physical condition for his bout [illegible] night with Willie Feldman at

English Fight Experts Say Scott Fouled

LONDON, March 14. (AP)—A film advertised as the "uncut" reproduction of the international heavyweight fiasco Jack Sharkey and Phil Scott staged in Miami, Fla., last month was shown in London for the first time today and brought forth opinions from the home "experts" that Scott was fouled in the fight Sharkey won on a technical knockout in the third round.

J. W. H. T. Douglas, one of England's foremost boxing referees, said in the Evening News that "one cannot be definite," as to fouls owing to Scott's position but that it was his strong impression that Scott was fouled twice in the third round.

"Summing up the film I should say that Scott was fouled definitely twice, possibly four times," he wrote.

Flag Time in Turf Victory

AGUA CALIENTE (Mex.) March 14.—There will be no extension of the present winter meet of the Agua Caliente Jockey Club. James N. Crofton, manager of the plant, so announced today for the board of directors, of which he is a member.

Discussion of a continuance has been heard for some time and reached a head yesterday when a conference was held between officials of the jockey club and a committee of horsemen. The directors deemed an extension of the meeting inadvisable, it was announced, due to the plans for a summer meeting which will open about July 4 and continue until Labor Day.

Flag Time, three-year-old from the Northway stable, accounted for the feature race this afternoon, an allowance affair at five and one-half furlongs. Flag Time won by a half length from Tippytoe with The Dago getting the show. Time was 1:05, with the track good. Results:

First race, six furlongs—Wood Pace (Moran) won, Madam Valeria (Depeso) second, Herokel (Richardson) third. Time, 1:13 4-5.

Second race, mile and one-eighth—Mary Beverly (Depeso) won, Little Man (Romano) second, Fair Lark (Cleverley) third. Time, 1:53 2-5.

Third race, four and one-half furlongs—Ostem (Morrison) won, College Inn (Depeso) second, Shaver (Ashley) third. Time, 0:54.

Fourth race, six furlongs—Shirt (Luther) won, Borgruff (Romano) second, Simony (Cox) third. Time, 1:12 1-5.

Fifth race, five and one-half furlongs—Flag Time (Tyrrell) won, Tippytoe (Tork) second, The Dago (Morrison) third. Time, 1:05.

Sixth race, mile and one-sixteenth—Seth's Rose (Moran) won, Talergap (Keiser) second, Fire Brigade (Romano) third. Time, 1:48.

Seventh race, one mile — Voltmeter (Cleverley) won, Amelia May (Depeso) second, Chief's Mountaineer (Romano) third. Time, 1:41 2-5.

Eighth race, mile and one-sixteenth—Wildbank (Reddin) won, Little Captain (Schutte) second, Torch (Romano) third. Time, 1:47 2-5.

Trojan Pucks Tackle Bears

With both teams shifting their line-ups in an attempt to cross up their opponents on the eve of their third meeting of the season, the Southern California and California Bear ice hockey teams are in readiness for one of the fastest collegiate ice battles of the year tonight at 8 o'clock at the local Winter Garden rink.

Mahlon Chambers, who did some quarterbacking on Coach Howard Jones's varsity football squad last fall, will start the game at center in place of Paul Brassard. Chambers's shiftiness and ability to take hard wallops, acquired on the gridiron, will be useful to the Trojan sextet, it is believed by Advisory Coach Bill Eddy, and although he does not have the skating speed of Brassard he is expected to give the Southern Californians a stronger offensive punch.

The game is open to the public and a large crowd is expected.

Following are the line-ups:

Southern California		California
Nisbet (6)	Wing	Ellis (7)
Fraser (9)	Wing	Murphy (3)
Chambers (4)	Center	Fingland (6)
Funai (2)	Defense	Taber (5)
Rosen (18)	Defense	Watkins (1)
Thomsen (13)	Goalie	Morrison (8)

TRIPLE MAIN EVENT AT MAIN-STREET CLUB

A "triple main event" will be offered fight fans tonight at the Main-street Athletic Club. Heading the thirty-round program are three six-round clashes featuring Leo Hernandez and Harry Burrows, welterweights; Jimmy Alvarado and Eddie Mayes, featherweights, and Ray Spiker and Frank Olata, 200-pounders.

Because Spiker, a San Diego Marine, seems set to meet Primo Carnera at the Olympic Auditorium next month, his fight tonight with the Indian, Olata, has attracted particular interest. Other bouts include Joe Cordoza vs. Dave Young, 126 pounds, John Villafior vs. Jimmy Alvera, 128 pounds, and June Lagera vs. Nino Perez, 112 pounds.

BRUIN FROSH MEET OILERS

Coach Guy Harris's University of California at Los Angeles freshman track squad will clash with the Bakersfield High School trackstars on the 29th inst. on the Westwood track, it was announced yesterday by Bruin athletic authorities. After a weak start the yearling cinder outfit has been gaining in strength, and will probably be favored to defeat the oiler preps.

EAST SIDE CLOSES SHOP

There will be no fight at the East Side Arena Monday night. Leo Newman, the promoter, announced yesterday that after five weeks of boxing in the new stadium reorganization is necessary, and, therefore, the proposed scrap between Sergio Redam and Chato Laredo had been indefinitely postponed.

Asked how much money he had lost on the new venture to date Newman said he had been unable to determine. "I can't check up on it," he declared yesterday. "There are so many angles to the proposition it will take a little time to straighten everything out."

Although there have been rumors that Newman would be squeezed out in the East Side reorganization he said he holds a ten-year lease on the arena and that he would continue to dominate the situation.

In the five weeks it presented boxing shows the East Side Arena dropped money steadily, each succeeding bill showing more of a loss. The wind-up came last Monday when there wasn't enough money in the house to pay the main-eventers. They were finally paid off the next day.

HIGH SCHOLARSHIP

Tennis players of the University of Southern California besides forming a strong team this season are distinguishing themselves by their scholarship. Jack De Lara and Bob Gates have B averages, Harold Barr has an A minus average and Art Flum has a straight A card to give the Trojan net team the highest scholastic standing of any athletic squad on the S. C. campus, according to Arnold Friedman, assistant varsity manager.

SIX SAGEHENS AWARDED LETTER FOR CAGE PLAY

CLAREMONT, March 14. — Six men on the Pomona College basketball squad played the required number of minutes in order to win the official college award. They are Capt. Clarence Bishop, who completed his third year as center on the Sagehen team; Walter Shannon and Owen Kelson, guards, and Harold Hadfield, forward, who won second-year awards, and Frank Clements and Stanley Hahn, first-year awards.

The Sagehens should have a powerful outfit next year as they lose only Bishop and Shannon. Bishop will be a mighty hard man to replace but Coach "Fuzz" Merritt has some good men coming up from this year's frosh outfit who should aid the team materially.

Pomona had its strongest team in history this year and, although they won only four out of their seven games, they finished in third spot in the conference standings.

Seven Pomona freshmen received numerals for their work on the frosh team. They were, Ammerman, Crabtree, Cross, Jordon, Alman, Ludden and Hasen.

MORTENSEN PICKED ON ALL-COAST FIVE

Jesse Mortensen, center of the championship University of Southern California basketball team, is named at center on the all-California intercollegiate five just selected by Harlan Dykes, basketball coach of the Santa Clara squad. Forwards on Dykes's all-star team are Pursel of California and Maloney of St. Ignatius, while guards are Gough of Santa Clara and Cameron of St. Ignatius.

BEARS HOLD SPRING DRILL

BERKELEY, March 14. (Exclusive)—Spring practice is a rough, tough time for University of California gridmen. Among the well-known players who participated in scrimmage today were Joe Hickingbotham and Ed Griffiths, letter men; Henry Schaldach, a real prospect for Lee Eisan's job at center back, and Ulrich Fritchie, captain of the freshman team last season.

Malcolm Combs, who hurt his ankle during the regular season, is out once more for the varsity. Sam Gill, brother of Frank, Harry and Rust, is seeking varsity recognition at guard. He played end with the freshmen last season. Bill McCutcheon a speedy back, also is prominent in preseason scrimmages.

Clarence (Brick) Mitchell, the newly appointed varsity line coach, is lending aid to Coach "Nibs" Price with the spring grind. Clint Evans, first assistant to Price on the football field, is at present concerned with varsity baseball.

BARRY TRIES TO FIND PLACE FOR BOB ALLEN

Coach Sam Barry is looking for a place on his University of Southern California baseball team for Bob Allen, sub catcher for Capt. Joe Ward. In his first four practice games of the season Allen hit eleven safe bingles out of fourteen trips to the plate. Ward is too good to be displaced behind the bat and three veterans are holding down the outfield positions for S. C., which means that if Allen can snag the grounders his heavy hitting may win him an infield position although he subbed as catcher all last season.

Simmons Held on Sound Basis

NEW YORK, March 14. (Exclusive)—In a letter to stockholders, the executive committee of Simmons Company stated that while it was not the duty of the management to express an opinion regarding the market value of the company's shares, it was deemed proper to state the facts in order that the shareholders may not be disturbed by false rumors "which are vicious and damaging and were directed at the company's operations."

The financial position of the company is sound, the letter stated. New acquisitions added during the past year were obtained at favorable prices with payments extending over five years and it was well understood that it would take time to develop the new operating plants and through changes of sales policy to place them on as profitable basis as the parent company but encouraging progress already has been made, it was stated.

DEMAND ON WOOL MART SLACKENS

Weekly Survey Reports Buying Slow and Drift of Prices Lower

BOSTON, March 14. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston will say tomorrow:

Demand for wool is slower, both in worsted and woolen wools and prices are easier generally. Reports from the goods market are not too encouraging.

There is a general disposition to wait developments in the market and especially the opening of the second series of colonial sales in London on Tuesday. Foreign primary markets are slightly easier for the week.

In the West the situation is quieter, both dealers and the national co-operative having eased up on their drive for preshearing contracts.

Mohair is rather quiet with prices hardly changed for the week.

The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from January 1, 1930, to March 13, 1930, inclusive, were 31,690,000 pounds, against 37,584,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from January 1, 1930, to March 13, 1930, inclusive, were 39,460,500 pounds, against 47,036,400 pounds for the same period last year.

Pennsylvania Rail Planning New Financing

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP)—Authorization to issue $60,000,000 of gold bonds was asked today by the Pennsylvania Railroad in an application to the Interstate Commerce Commission for the purpose of carrying through its budgeted expenditures for improvements during 1930.

The securities would be 4½ per cent gold debenture forty-year bonds and would be sold to Kuhn, Loeb & Co., of New York, at 92 per cent of par and accrued interest.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has a road and equipment budget providing for the expenditure of $126,358,780, of which $98,605,434 would be spent in 1930. This would leave a carry-over of $27,753,346 to be expended in 1931.

REESER SIGHTS OIL PARITY

Institute President Prophesies Balance in Supply and Demand Due Next Week; Bullish on Stocks

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Next week, predicts E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute, production and consumption of petroleum in the United States should be in balance.

This significant comment was made by the chief spokesman of America's more-sanguine oil industry as he left a meeting yesterday of the general committee in charge of California curtailment. Oklahoma and California, said Mr. Reeser, are the two oil producing States deserving the credit for approaching equalization of production with consumption.

OBJECTIVE IN SIGHT

Thoroughly impressed with the spirit and action demonstrated at yesterday's meeting, he declared California's output should drop to the allowable production of 609,000 barrels within ten days. New completions and minor adjustments will probably cause some difficulties, but he is convinced the California operators will reach their objective.

Smaller producers and royalty owners have not yet fully appreciated the benefits accruing to them under the new status of the industry in California, Mr. Reeser said. The recent increase of 25 cents a barrel in the price of crude as the result of the co-operative curtailment program now in full swing, is much healthier, he said, than a drastic reduction in price, which unquestionably would have come otherwise.

Moreover, said this authority, the industry must realize its prosperity for the remainder of this year rests almost solely upon the success of co-operative curtailment. In making this statement, he explained he was not minimizing the decision the other day declaring the California gas wastage law constitutional. But it will be some time, in his opinion, before this law can be made fully operative in California, and also followed by other oil-producing States.

Refinery curtailment in the United States was cited by him as further confirmation of the new spirit of co-operation in the oil business. Reports received by Mr. Reeser from all parts of the country indicated a whole-hearted response by refiners to the program of reducing runs to refineries by one-seventh.

PROFIT TREND UP

With curtailment of crude production and gasoline manufacture in effect throughout the country, it is only logical to look for improved earnings for oil companies this year, Mr. Reeser believes. Stability of price structures for oil and its products will follow the balancing of production and consumption, and the peaks and valleys in the curve of profits will be smoothed out.

The American Petroleum Institute's president, while not professing occult knowledge of the stock market, holds the opinion that all major obstacles restraining the oil shares from taking their rightful place in the market will soon be hurdled. It is entirely possible, he feels, that the oil stocks will move into the lead of stock market operation.

Consumption of Cotton in February Off

WASHINGTON, March 14. (AP)—Cotton consumed during February was announced today by the Census Bureau as 495,204 bales of lint and 60,923 of linters, compared with 577,235 and 62,393 in January, and 594,720 and 68,208 in February last year.

Cotton on hand February 28, last, was held as follows:

In consuming establishments, 1,811,639 bales of lint and 223,170 of linters, compared with 1,830,096 and 196,301 on January 31, and 1,744,229 and 222,645 on February 28, last year.

In public storage and at compresses, 4,858,609 bales of lint and 105,459 of linters, compared with 5,406,771 and 94,350 on January 31, last, and 3,862,223 and 84,947 on February 28, last year.

Imports for February totaled 23,643 bales, compared with 51,474 in January, and 39,625 in February, last year.

Exports for February totaled 402,074 bales of lint and 10,577 of linters, compared with 728,737 and 12,572 in January, and 613,394 and 16,127 in February, last year.

Cotton spindles active during February, numbered 28,926,580, compared with 29,198,134 in January, and 31,008,794 in February, last year.

Rule Insurance Unit to Expand

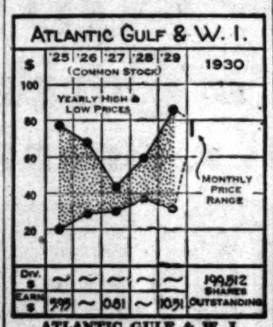
Rule & Sons, Inc., a subsidiary of Pacific Finance Corporation and one of the largest Pacific Coast general insurance agencies, is making plans to invade the Seattle, Wash., territory, it was revealed last night with the departure for that city of D. W. Pierce, Jr., vice-president and assistant general manager. He said that the Seattle office will be in full operation about April 1 with a Seattle man to be named as manager.

The company operates branch offices and has representatives in each of the eleven Western States, and although this will be its first branch office in the Seattle area, it is already well known there in certain lines of the insurance business.

COLORTYPE CONCERN REPORTS EARNINGS

CHICAGO, March 14. (Exclusive) American Colortype Company in its preliminary report for 1929 today showed net income of $644,242 after all charges and taxes, equal after preferred dividends to $4.50 a share on 130,000 common shares outstanding.

WHAT'S BEHIND YOUR STOCK



ATLANTIC GULF & W. I.

The most important subsidiaries of the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies Steamship Lines are the Clyde Steamship Company, Mallory Steamship Company, the Ward Line, the New York and Porto Rico Steamship Company and the Cosmo Steamship Corporation. In a building program stimulated by the United States Shipping Board's loan policy, the company has three new ships at present under construction to augment the passenger and freight lines operated by the subsidiary companies running from New York to important eastern United States ports and to the West Indies and Mexico.

Net income for the eleven months ended November 30, 1929, amounted to $2,726,157, establishing a new record for the period since 1919, and compared favorably with 1928 eleven months' earnings of $561,975. The per-share earnings in 1929 were $10.51, against a deficit of 34 cents per share on the common in 1928. Since the increased earnings are believed to originate from better operating efficiency rather than from heavier traffic carried, it is believed that the more favorable showing will be continued in 1930.

Local Fire Risk Unit Operating in Seattle Area

With the appointment of E. W. Trenbath as special agent with headquarters in Seattle, Wash., the Pacific American Fire Insurance Company of Los Angeles has started operations in Washington, it was announced yesterday by D. W. Pierce, Sr., vice-president and general manager.

Most of the company's business in the Northwest will be directed through the Seattle branch, Mr. Pierce said. A branch office has been in operation in Portland, Or., for some time. Richard M. Carr, assistant manager in the Los Angeles headquarters, left for Seattle last night to make final arrangements for the new offices.

According to a report recently issued by the State Insurance Commissioner, Pacific American Fire Insurance Company, which began operations in December, 1928, ranked thirty-eighth out of 256 California fire-insurance companies in net premiums written in this State in 1929. Stockholders of the company are largely Southern California investors.

Cafe Trade of Nation Grows

Restaurants in the United States during 1930 will do a $6,000,000,000 volume of business as against approximately $5,000,000,000 in 1929, according to Carl G. Stoddard of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, president of the National Restaurant Association, who is now in Los Angeles on a business trip.

Mr. Stoddard yesterday declared the restaurant industry at the present time is the third largest retail industry in the country and has the highest pay roll of any retail industry. He said that since the government has included the industry in its industrial distribution census it will be possible in the future to get authentic figures concerning the restaurant industry.

COURSE OFFERED ON STATE TAX TOPICS

RESTAURANT CHAIN SALES SCORE GAINS

Pig'n Whistle Corporation States Earnings Running 50 Per Cent Higher

With sharp increases in the volume of sales for February and preceding months compared with corresponding months last year, net earnings of the Pig'n Whistle Corporation, operating a Pacific Coast chain of restaurants, candy and pastry shops, are running approximately 50 per cent higher than last year, Sidney Hoedemaker, vice-president and general manager, announced yesterday.

Exact figures on the net profits have not been available since publication of the last annual statement for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929. The net profits for that year were equivalent to $1.81 a share on 85,000 participating preferred stock, after charges including nonrecurring charges. Monthly sales figures, however, have been issued showing a consistent increase of more than 10 per cent over corresponding periods of the preceding year.

February sales, Mr. Hoedemaker announced, amounted to $336,095 against $301,661 in February, 1929, a gain of 11.44 per cent. Sales for twelve months ended February 28, amounted to $3,873,309, against $3,517,404 the previous year, up 10.09 per cent.

The company now operates more than twenty units stretching from Seattle to Los Angeles with the majority in this district. Seventeen units were in operation June 30, last. Several of the new restaurants, particularly the one in the new Orpheum Theater Building, has shown surprising results, Mr. Hoedemaker said.

It has been rumored that negotiations have been completed for the acquisition of another important restaurant in Los Angeles.

MacMillan Oil Outlines Plan for Expansion

Accomplishment of a substantial expansion program expected to materially increase the earnings of the company and which involved a capital outlay of $3,000,000 without the aid of additional financing is outlined in the annual pamphlet report of the Macmillan Petroleum Corporation to be mailed stockholders today over the signature of R. S. Macmillan, president.

In February, 1929, the company purchased more than $2,250,000 worth of production from the Petroleum Company, on which $750,000 was paid at the time, and on which an additional $1,041,721.17 was paid out of earnings up to December 31, last. While the current position at the close of the year was unfavorable, arrangements have been made to write off the notes of $535,000, which comprise a considerable portion of the liabilities over a period extending into January, 1931. The balance of $528,636 owing to the Petroleum Company is to be paid out of 50 per cent of production.

Net sales for 1929, according to the report, aggregated $9,738,869, an increase over 1928 of $3,748,414, or more than 60 per cent. Net earnings, as recently reported in a preliminary statement, amounted to $1,006,258, after all charges, equal to $8.64 a share on 116,497 shares outstanding, which is more than 80 per cent higher than 1928 net earnings.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, March 14. (AP)—A slight early decline in the cotton market due to further realizing or some reselling on the indifferent showing of Liverpool was followed by advances in the cotton market today. Offerings seemed to become comparatively scarce whenever any buying power developed and there was a spurt of covering early in the afternoon which sent the price of July contracts above the 15-cent level. This attracted a renewal of realizing, however, and the midafternoon market showed reactions of some 10 to 14 points from the best by 12 o'clock. Active months were 6 to 10 points net higher.

STEEL DEAL FIGHT LOOMING

Bethlehem-Youngstown Merger Believed to Hinge on Action of Cyrus S. Eaton and Group

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

NEW YORK, March 14.—The Behlehem-Youngtown merger fight is a long ways from being settled. Those opposing the merger believe that the move will spell the doom of the Youngstown corporation as a local institution, directed and controlled locally—that it will become just another payroll center, directed and controlled from New York. This factor looms very large in the fight.

It happens that Cyrus S. Eaton of Cleveland has his Republic Steel headquarters at Youngstown. That is why the Middle-Western point of view centers around Mr. Eaton, but the fight for the moment is really between the independents, centering at Youngstown, and the Bethlehem Steel, centering in New York.

From a close checking of the situation to date, it looks as if Cyrus S. Eaton and the Middle West group have already sufficient votes to block the merger. Of the 1,200,000 shares of Youngstown stock outstanding, it will take two-thirds of the stock—or 800,000 shares—to put over the merger with Bethlehem, but only 400,000 shares are needed to block it. And unless strong pressure is brought to bear on Cyrus S. Eaton of Cleveland and his associates to change their minds, the outlook for Bethlehem at the stockholders' meeting of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company in April is not favorable.

Miss Frances Perkins, State Industrial Commissioner of New York, in announcing that the index number of employment in the representative New York State factories for February is lower than any other February in sixteen years, again takes sharp issue with the Federal government leaders.

In New York City, a beehive for workshop activity, Miss Perkins reports that the net decrease in employment from January to February was less than for the State as a whole.

Three Northern New York cities—Syracuse, Buffalo and Utica—reported a small increase in employment from January to February. The basic iron and steel industries, clothing, textile and automobile factories were largely responsible for this increase.

Syracuse—the blue ribbon city of this State in this field—in January and February reports a gain of about 1 per cent in employment.

The figures for this survey of Industrial Commissioner Perkins are taken from about 1700 manufacturing plants located within New York State.

Have oils turned the corner?

Thursday's market spurt in oil stocks was the first oil jump in months. Other stocks were in poor demand and sagging. Then why the vigorous upward move in oils?

Probably the answer lies in the decision of a California court upholding the constitutionality of the California State gas conservation law. Undoubtedly the case will be taken to the higher courts until it reaches the United States Supreme Court. For it has many enemies as well as friends.

Under its terms all gas released in oil-drilling operations must be conserved and used or stored instead of being allowed to run wild as at present.

Small operators, not equipped to conserve gas that usually follows a big flow of oil, will be forced to contract operations. A lessened production should follow in California. Other States, waiting for court opinion on California's conservation law, now are expected to agitate for similar laws, big operators in Oklahoma and Texas, especially.

In addition, Standard Oil of California has announced an immediate increase in crude-oil prices. Other oil companies, including Union Oil Company of California, have followed suit.

No wonder oil men are feeing better.

Proxies Sought by Steel Groups

YOUNGSTOWN, March 14. (Exclusive)—The fight between Eaton-Republic Steel Corporation interests and Youngstown Sheet and Tube management for the control of the latter company in merger negotiations opened today with the naming of a proxy committee by the former and the issuance of proxies by the Sheet and Tube management committee in connection with the call for a stockholders' meeting on April 8.

The Eaton-Republic proxy committee consists of Myron C. Wick, Jr., W. H. Foster, Youngstown, chairman of General Fireproofing Company, Julius Kahn, Youngstown, president of Truscon Steel Company, and H. B. Wick, Cleveland, formerly of Youngstown and former head of Steel and Tube of Elyria, now a part of Republic Steel Corporation.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, March 14. (AP)—The bullish fervor for bonds resulted in something like an old-fashioned market today as interest rates found still lower levels. Scores of issues forged to new highs and the day's turnover of more than $21,000,000 was the largest in months. The 1929 record was just under $30,000,000, established October 29, but on that day the convertibles took a prominent part in the dealings. Today they were relatively quiet.

The comparative price of dairy bonds failed to show an increase, due to decline in a few of the rails which sagged on small turnovers. As a group, however, the carriers displayed greater vitality than yesterday and there were many gains of at least a point.

Foreign obligations moved steadily upward, with German issues taking a prominent part. United States governments were quiet, although five of the listed securities went to new 1930 highs.

Many industrials and utilities traded in large blocks. Among the more active issues were International Match 5s, up a point, and International Telephone 5s, up ¾.

Oil bonds rose with the stocks. Phillips Petroleum 6½s advanced 1¼, Texas Corporation convertible 5s touched the new high of 103¾. Shell Pipe Line 5s, Sinclair Crude 5½s and Transcontinental Oil 6s with warrants, were other favorites.

The St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s was the busiest rail, turning over to the extent of more than $800,000 principal amount, for a net gain of ¾. The first Western Pacific, which is mentioned in connection with the possible linking of a transcontinental system controlled by Atlas Corporation, advanced ¾ points, also on a large turnover. Atchison general 4s yielded a point after equaling the record high at 86½. Sales were small.

The Baltimore and Ohio convertible 4½s, moving to the stock exchange from the curb, ranged between 101¾ and 101⅞, on a volume of $1,300,000, par value. International Telephone 4½s dropped 3 points. Remington-Rand 5½s, with warrants, rose 1 to the new high of 96½. Commercial Investment Trust 5½s neared 100.

Brazil 8s snapped up 2¾ points and Berlin City 6½s, Australia 4½s, Colome 8½s and the German Agricultural Bank issue about 1 each. Germany Republic 7s rose to the new high of 108¼.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (the thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in order given. To expedite transmission, the close is omitted when the same as the low, and both low and close when same as high.

"TIMES" THEATER GUIDE

MOTION PICTURES

Boulevard. Washington at Vermont—"Anna Christie." Greta Garbo and Clarence Brown do a fine job with O'Neil's masterpiece of the sea.

Carthay Circle. Carthay Center—"Happy Days." Fox Grandeur film amazes the public and plays up possibilities of the future. The subject matter is a minstrel show by the stars.

Criterion. 649 South Grand—"Men Without Women." John Ford's direction and a splendidly enacted story make this one of the year's best pictures. A pathetic submarine provides the plot.

Figueroa. Fig. at Santa Barbara—"Hollywood Review." M.-G.-M. stars display their various talents rather cleverly as a revue.

Filmarte. 1228 Vine—"The New Babylon." Reviewed in today's Times.

Grauman's Chinese. 6823 Hollywood Blvd.—"Rogue Song." Lawrence Tibbett makes a delightful impression on the screen in a vagabond romance of nearly great quality.

Grauman's Egyptian. 6708 Hollywood Blvd.—"The Cheaters Ball." An exceedingly delightful with Lubitsch farce and Maurice Chevalier's fun.

Loew's State. Broadway at Seventh—"Such Men Are Dangerous." Elinor Glyn's romance imagined from Loewenstein's disappearance. A picture with appeal to women.

Million Dollar. Broadway at Third—"The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland." George Sidney and Charlie Murray get in a mad set of pranks in the highlands.

Palace. Broadway between Sixth and Seventh—"New York Nights." Rep below.

Paramount. Hill at Sixth—"The Vagabond King." Excellent in many ways this Paramount musical comes to us for at least once. Dennis King and Jeanette MacDonald enjoy leading roles.

Rialto. 958 Wilshire—"Not So Dumb." This was a stage play called "Dulcy," but something happened to it.

R.K.O. Hill at Eighth—"Playing Around." A delightful comedy of the commercial "home is the best place after all." With Alice White and Chester Morris.

Rio. 815 S. Hope—Daniel Carrasco from silents to talkies. Singer in Spanish.

R.K.O. Orpheum. Broadway at Ninth—"The Case of Sergt. Grischa." An interesting angle on the war and well done technically. Adapted artistically. Chester Morris and Betty Compson.

Uptown. Western at Fourth—"Not So Dumb." See above.

United Artists. 933 S. Sth.—"Puttin' on the Ritz." Nice music by Irving Berlin, prettily played by Harry Richman.

Warners' Downtown. Hill at 7th—"Song of the West." The old horse opera is vested in new clothes and is fairly fair. John Boles and Vivienne Segal.

Warner' Hollywood. Hollywood Blvd. at Wilcox—"Wild Open." Reviewed in today's Times.

Westlake. 626 Alvarado—"Not So Dumb." See above.

STAGE

Belasco. Hill at 11th—"Journey's End." R. C. Sherriff's fine play is well produced splendidly by an English company.

El Capitan. Hollow'd Blvd. nr. Highland—"Let Us Be Gay." A sophisticated bit of entertainment, presenting Violet Heming, Lyle Talbot and others.

Hollywood Playhouse. 1733 Vine—"Helena's Boys." Opens today.

Majestic. Bdwy. at 9th—"New Moon." Yet another operetta well suited to the lungs of the song bird. "Lover Come Back to Me." Perry Askam and Josephine Houston.

Mason. Pine. San Gabriel—The beautiful annual pageant of the settling of California, up to its usual standard. With R. D. MacLean.

Music Box. 6126 Hollywood Blvd.—"Strictly Dishonorable." Young Lady's light, if vulgar, whimsical mood, is reached in this play by Harrison Sierry. Two old ladies give delightful portrayals.

President. Bdwy. at 8th—"Your Uncle Dudley." Taylor Holmes plays a small-town character and indulges in some of his popular humor.

Vine-street. 1615 Vine—"Rope's End." A study of the perfect crime; excellently acted and penetrated by Noel Madison and Dwight Frye.

Murder Trial Woman Named as Auto Bandit

NEW CASTLE (Pa.) March 14. (AP)—Irene Schroeder, on trial here for murder of Highway Patrolman Brady Paul, was identified today as the gunwoman who held up a motorist as she and a male companion stole an automobile a short distance from where the officer was fatally wounded. She was identified by the motorist, Ray Horton of New Castle, the final witness before recess was taken until a night session of court.

Horton said that about noon last December 27, his roadster was forced to the curb by a small coach. A man got out and demanded Horton's car, backing up the demand with a gun. As Horton stepped out, the woman from the other car met him with a gun, told him to leave his motor running and forced him to hand over his money and his driver's license.

UNION OIL ANSWERS GOVERNMENT'S SUIT

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14. (Exclusive)—Gasoline sold in California under the so-called F. R. Long contract, focus of the government's antitrust suit against the Western oil companies, was only 2½ per cent of total California production, the Union Oil Company asserts in its reply to the government complaint, filed in Federal Court today. Union Oil is the second of nineteen companies, large and small, made defendants three weeks ago in the civil suit, after the government had started criminal action in January and dropped it.

PATHFINDING PARTY TODAY WILL LEAVE FOR MEXICO

Trail Blazers for Intercontinental Road Set Guatemalan Border as Primary Objective

Nine modern explorers will leave Los Angeles today on the first lap of the greatest pathfinding expedition in the history of highway development, one which eventually is to end in a continuous paved motor highway connecting Vancouver in British Columbia with Buenos Aires in the Argentine. The party, sponsored by the Automobile Club of Southern California, will travel in three trucks and two touring cars and has Mexico City as the goal of the first leg of the journey which will take an estimated four weeks.

The first aim of the explorers is to chart the almost forgotten Aztec and Indian trails with the known roads of interior Mexico into a link that will form a part of a great international road.

Road engineers, cartographers and field experts of the Automobile Club hope to develop accurate data on the route and to arouse international interest in the construction of the highway.

The caravan, scheduled to leave this morning at 8:30 o'clock, will go through San Diego and through the Imperial Valley to Yuma, where the first night's stop will be made. The second day will find the party in Chandler, Ariz., where a reception has been arranged for the members which will be attended by Gov. Phillips of Arizona and officials of Mexican States from across the border.

The route from Chandler will be south through Nogales, Hermosillo, Guaymas, Ciudad Obregon, Navajoa, San Blas, Culiacan and Mazatlan. According to the information which the members of the party have, the route south of Mazatlan will be the most difficult for it will lead through the mountains on the way to Guadalajara and it is here that some of the important work will be done to find a pass through the semitropical Barrancas Mountains. Beyond Guadalajara the trail will ease again with a few rutted roads, worn with years of use by ox teams patiently plodding their way to Mexico City.

PERSONNEL OF PARTY

The personnel of the party will include C. E. McStay, field secretary; E. E. East, chief engineer; D. C. Rhodes, field engineer; Phil Townsend Hanna, editor of Touring Topics; Carlos V. Ariza, interpreter; B. E. Sandham, radio operator; J. R. Deason, technician, and Kenneth Keefe, cartographer, all of the Automobile Club.

The Mexican government has given official recognition to the party and has assured its members of cooperation and assistance. Yesterday F. Alfonso Pesquiera, Mexican Consul in Los Angeles, notified his government of the start of the expedition, and several of the State governors have arranged to entertain the party en route.

Constant radio communication between the party and Los Angeles will be maintained by means of a short-wave radio-telegraph set which will operate with three similar sets in Los Angeles and give a day-to-day report of the progress of the expedition.

Members of the party say that no other expedition has taken the field as well equipped. Each of the

OIL CUT DOWN NEAR DEADLINE

Output Reduced to Within 3.2 Per Cent of Mark

Only Two Fields Run Past Allowable Figure

Umpires Think Conformance to be Perfect Soon

Two weeks from the time California operators set out on their new ninety-day production curtailment campaign they had the output down to within 3.2 per cent of the allowable figure, according to a statement issued last night by the California Oil and Gas Association, following a session of the general committee on curtailment.

The fact-finding committee reported to the general committee that the production for the State now is 644,464 barrels per day, compared with an allowable of 608,995 barrels. The reports of Umpires Grimm and Anderson indicated that oil operators throughout the State are doing their utmost to co-operate in the curtailment plan and that there appears to be no insurmountable obstacle in the way of reaching in the near future the established allowable production figures.

SOME RUN HIGHER

While many of the fields are well under their allowable, there are a few, notably Santa Fe Springs and Long Beach, which have been slower because of difficulties that have arisen in getting down to their quotas. Both these fields are said to be about 14,000 barrels daily over their allowable; Long Beach because of new completions in the southeastern part of the field, and Santa Fe Springs because of difficulties in adjusting potentials.

Because of the unusual conditions existing in these two major fields, there was some discussion as to whether the percentage cuts, 43 per cent for the flush fields and 40.76 per cent for the older fields, should be revised now. The decision finally was made to ask the fact-finding committee to establish new potential and allowable figures which will become effective Monday. It is not expected that the allowable for the State will show any marked change, the only effect of this recalculation being a possible raising of the Long Beach potential and perhaps a slight lowering of the Santa Fe Springs potential.

PLEASURE EXPRESSED

The committee expressed gratification at the splendid co-operation which is being enjoyed. There seems to be no doubt in the minds of its members that the State will be down to its allowable within the next ten days.

E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute, was present at the meeting and congratulated California operators on their fine spirit of co-operation. He stated that he will carry a report of the meeting back to Texas as an illustration of working together for the general good.

WATER AND LAND RIGHTS HEARING SET

Compensation for Mono County Holdings to be Set by Rail Commission

Amount of compensation to be paid by the city for certain water rights and parcels of land of the Southern Sierras Company in Mono county will be the subject of a State Railroad Commission hearing before Commissioner Seavey in Los Angeles on June 10, it was announced yesterday at the Railroad Commission offices here.

The city and the Department of Water and Power have applied to the commission to fix the just compensation. It is stated that the waters of LeeVining and Rush creeks are involved.

Acquiring of the water rights and the land in question will be submitted to Los Angeles voters on May 29 in connection with a $38,000,000 bond issue.

LeeVining Creek has a maximum flow of 298 cubic feet of water a second during periods of normal high water. The minimum flow during periods of normal low water is given as 11.7 second feet. The maximum and minimum of Rush Creek are given as 301 cubic feet and 9.4 cubic feet.

ACTRESS NAMED AS "OTHER WOMAN"

Doris Eaton

WIFE SUES BROWN, OF SONG FAME

Separate Maintenance Asked in Action Against Writer of Popular Music

Nacio Herb Brown, song writer, was sued for separated maintenance by his wife, Ruby Porter Brown, yesterday, in a complaint that names Doris Eaton, motion-picture actress, as a woman with whom her husband is infatuated.

NACIO HERB BROWN

Brown is said to make "in excess of $50,000 a year," and his wife wants $2500 a month alimony for the support of herself and her 9-year-old son, Nacio Herb, Jr.

A long list of asserted marital offenses is included by Mrs. Brown in her petition, which was filed by Attorney William Schreiber. She accuses her husband of staying out late, ordering her to get a divorce from him, sending her to Florida on a trip while he remained in Los Angeles, and following Doris Eaton to New York. He also tried to make her maintain a separate apartment, she says, and succeeded in inducing her to deed him $90,000 in property, which she says she inherited from her father. This sum she asks be refunded to her.

Sundry incidents of nagging and cursing are asserted, and on another occasion, the defendant informed his wife, she declares, that he was going to Reno to get a divorce. The couple married April 14, 1920, and separated a few days ago.

Historic Sites of Los Angeles Will be Visited

The first organized effort to visit the landmarks and historic sites of Los Angeles will be made today at 2 p.m., when the Historical Society of Southern California and its guests assemble at the Avila Adobe, 14 Olvera street.

Following a program in the patio of the historic building, the party will be conducted on a tour of the Plaza and vicinity.

Arthur Ellis, recognized authority on Los Angeles of the sunny seventies and eighties, and Laurance L. Hill, author of "La Reina" and other local histories published by the Security-First National Bank, will act as "spielers" for the tour.

Mrs. Florence Dodson Schoneman, Mrs. Christine Sterling, Lindley Bynum of the Henry E. Huntington Library, and Miss Marion Parks will address the gathering at the adobe.

Officers of the Historical Society are John C. Parish, president; Miss Lillian A. Williamson and J. Gregg Layne, vice-presidents; Laurance L. Hill, secretary-treasurer, and Dr. Owen C. Coy, curator.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

THE London armament conference is likely to end with every great power in the world hating every other great power.

There has been little real effort toward a genuine reduction of war machinery. It began and ended with a conspiracy between experts to slip an extra ace into the pack.

The dismal part of the spectacle is that all these western nations will, one day, have to fight Russia, who will doubtless have more or less active co-operation from the Orient.

The seeds of this some-day war are being sown (perhaps innocently) by Mahatma Gandhi in India.

"I'LL BE OUT SOON"

Asa Keyes goes into prison to live on the slender hope of getting out after a short term. But getting out to what and for what? To one in his position, who has lost all, to be out of prison is nearly as bad as to be in.

In accepting bribe money as a trade for his honor he made the world's worst bargain. As a plain matter of business the bribe money cost him more even in money than he can by any stretch of the imagination have collected.

ANOTHER ICE AGE?

Dr. Lawrence Gould, geologist with Byrd, says the Antarctic was quite a summery place until a comparatively recent time. The old world shifted a little on its axis and the ice came. Explorers in Alaska have a suspicion that it is reeling again on its seat. Places that within the memory of man have been populous native villages are now buried in ice.

BROADWAY HEROES

It would be useful and commendable if some one would devise a form of insurance to protect movie producers from overenthusiasm induced by an evening in a New York night club.

The only way I can account for some of the new screen stars is that the producers woke up the next day with a headache and discovered that they had been signing contracts again.

How else shall we account for making picture stars out of hosts and hostesses of night clubs—Harry Richman, Helen Morgan, Texas Guinan?

It has cost the studios a good deal of money to discover that the American public is not interested in the wise crackers of Broadway. Not even in Broadway itself. A "New York reputation" means less than a European label on a shoe drummer's trunk.

Just so, everyone is fed up on "back-stage" dramas, where the soubrette marries the hoofer. Nobody cares a hang whom, if or when either of them marries.

A GHOST-TOWN RELIC

Miss Ted Vail of Pasadena writes me that she has found a rare treasure in the form of an old postoffice directory picked up in a ghost town in Northern California.

This directory was published in 1855. There were only four postoffices in Los Angeles county: Los Angeles, Monte, San Gabriel and San Pedro. James S. Waite was postmaster of Los Angeles and drew a salary for that year of $302.16. The net revenue sent to the department was $219.35. Monte paid its postmaster a salary of $11.83 and the net revenue for that year was $6.90. The picturesque little Spanish town of

Shriners Will Begin Outing at Catalina Today

Several thousand Shriners are expected to leave this morning for a two days' outing at Catalina Island, where Al Malaikah Temple will pay honor to its Illustrious Potentate, Fred J. Wadley, Jr.

A full program of events has been arranged, including a spectacular ceremonial session tonight when pirate "ideas" will be injected into the initiation ceremony by Director Ernest Hurst. Close to 100 candidates have indicated a desire to join the Mystic Shrine, according to Recorder George J. Ramsey.

A baseball game, golf tournament, barbecue, parades and fancy costume carnival are a few of the entertainment features.

SET-BACK LINES ORDERED

The general ordinance establishing set-back lines in Third avenue from Jefferson Boulevard to Rodeo Road was adopted yesterday by the City Council.

WASTERS OF GAS LISTED

Names of Score in Santa Fe Springs Field Given by State in Battle Over Injunction Plea

Names of the operators of twenty oil wells in the Santa Fe Springs field which are the chief wasters of natural gas in the area were given by the State yesterday to Superior Judge Hazlett at the second day of the hearing on the injunction sought to restrain the blowing of an unreasonable amount of gas into the air with the production of petroleum.

The wells named are: General Petroleum S.F. 152G and H.M. 145B; Union Oil Company Bell 49; General Petroleum E.G.B. 1016 and S.F. 152H; Getty No. 17, No. 29, No. 33 and No. 39; Italo Archer No. 1; McMillan No. 2; Star Petroleum No. 4; Sunset Pacific No. 2; Texas Company Lamb No. 2; Patterson II and Weaver 6A; Twin Bells Groves 4; Universal Blanchard II and Texas Company Steinley 5.

Following a presentation of a table showing the names of "wastrel" wells, their production of oil and gas and their gas-oil ratio, experts familiar with the wells were placed on the stand to corroborate the figures.

JUDGE DOES QUESTIONING

During the course of the hearing yesterday Judge Hazlett practically took over the interrogation of the witnesses himself to determine which wells are high in the waste

Owensmouth to be Surveyed for Health Center

President Harvey and Commissioners Kleinberger, Wilke and Boos of the Health Commission yesterday voted to make a survey of the Owensmouth district to ascertain whether it is advisable to establish a health center for holding clinics in that section of the valley, requested by chambers of commerce, residents and Councilman Randall. The latter promised to assist the commission in its establishment.

The Health Department maintains a center at Van Nuys, but it is declared too far away from the 10,000 population in Owensmouth and vicinity.

BUILDING CODE SHAPING UP

Work of Drafting County Ordinances Begun After Several Years of Preliminary Study

Work of drafting a building code under which the county will have jurisdiction over practically all construction activities in county territory outside of incorporated cities was begun yesterday by County Counsel Mattoon with approval of the Board of Supervisors.

Tentative plans for the code were compiled by County Architect Muck following several years of work by various county departments, including those of fire warden, health officer, architect, planning commission and mechanical engineer.

It is proposed to draft three complete ordinances which will give the county authority in building operations in its territory similar to that now exercised by the City Building Department within the limits of Los Angeles city.

Under the plans now in the County Counsel's office, it is proposed to divide buildings into four general classifications, to be designated A, B, C and D. Strictly fireproof buildings will be designated as belonging to Class A, while Classes B and C will cover types of semifireproof buildings. Class D, the plans provide, will cover all other types of buildings, including most residences.

The proposed code also will include recommendations for the construction of garages and safety features for the storage of oil.

Work on the suggested laws comes as an aftermath to the adoption in 1927 of the county zoning ordinance, the first law of its kind to be enacted in the United States, according to Mattoon.

Deputy County Counsel McFadden has been assigned to draft the legal phraseology of the code, which, upon completion, will be placed before the Board of Supervisors for adoption.

PROFESSOR FIGURES FIVE CAN LIVE YEAR ON $3004

The annual cost of maintaining a family of five in Los Angeles according to a minimum standard of "comfort and decency" has been set by Dr. Earle Fiske Young, director of the sociology research laboratory of the University of Southern California, at $3004.68. The budget estimate is for a family of a skilled worker and is contained in a summary of social data covering the Los Angeles area.

Of the total of $734 which Dr. Young sets aside for food for the family the largest item listed is dairy products, which will cost at city prices, $169.37 for the year. Next in importance on the diet list is meat at $119.20. The cost of clothing is set at $303.13 and of rent at $512.64. The balance of the amount is made up of eleven additional items which include insurance, recreation and savings.

In another budget estimating the living costs of a man working at ordinary labor and providing food, clothing and shelter for a family of four, Dr. Young estimates the monthly cost of food to be $43.98 and the total for all expenses, including a $30 item for rent, to be $122.13.

The summary includes figures for ten years on the estimated population growth of the city, statistics on charities, crime, health and education.

Dr. Young estimates that on June 30 of this year the city will have a population of 1,161,700 and bases this figure on the attendance in the city schools.

In a review of death causes the report lists diseases of the heart as first with a toll of 1929 deaths for the last reported year, 1927, with cancer running a close second with 1391 deaths.

The summary is the third report of its kind issued by the university.

DAM'S NEED CALLED VITAL

Engineers Make Report on Hollywood Reservoir Holding Water Reserve Imperative

That under no conditions will it be safe to eliminate Hollywood Dam, and that at least 2200 acre feet of water must be kept in the reservoir in order to provide proper water protection for the Hollywood district was the report made to the Board of Water and Power Commissioners yesterday by a special engineering committee.

The engineering committee, which filed a detailed report with the board, was comprised of Louis C. Hill, A. L. Sonderegger and Chief Engineer Van Norman of the Bureau of Water Works and Supply.

The report and recommendations made to the commission by the engineers was in response to a request from the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce for the commission to declare its plans with regard to the status of the Hollywood Dam. The Hollywood chamber group had urged the removal of the dam.

After declaring that the Hollywood Dam had been found to be safe by numerous unbiased engineering investigating groups, and further stating that storage capacity behind the dam is absolutely essential to the safety of Hollywood and other sections of Los Angeles, the committee yesterday made a number of recommendations which were formally approved by the Water and Power Board, as follows:

"We recommend that the level of the reservoir be held at all times below elevation 715, and above elevation 630, and that it be held above elevation 705 except when drawn upon during emergency.

"If, in the future, it becomes possible from some other source to serve the area now requiring the level of the water in the reservoir to be held above elevation 630, then it will be practicable to lower the

TRAIL OF CRIME LAID TO YOUTH

Hundred Thefts Attributed to 19-Year-Old Suspect

Arrests in Other Coast Cities Also Matter of Record

Fingerprints Bring Capture After Weeks of Search

Nineteen years of age, and responsible, according to police, for more than 100 local burglaries, James C. Davis, alias Charles W. Paige, was arrested yesterday by Detective Lieuts Ranis Rath and Rounbeau. Davis, despite his youth, also has a record of arrests in half a dozen other Coast cities.

JAMES C. DAVIS

Yesterday, in the custody of Detective Lieutenants Katzenberger and Kleinfeld, Davis voluntarily, the detectives said, disclosed to them many of the places into which he has broken. Taken in custody after weeks of search the youth admitted, Captain of Detectives Lynn of the police burglary squad said, eight jobs perpetrated within the last week.

Davis was not known to be in Los Angeles until two months ago, when police fingerprint experts found his prints on a store safe. Forging link after link of evidence the experts discovered the same tell-tale prints in other burglaries and tabulated them in Davis's record file. His picture was shown to all watches on the vis-a-flim. Early yesterday morning he was seen at Seventh street and Westlake avenue, and promptly arrested.

According to Capt. Lynn, Davis confined his asserted burglary activities to stores, pharmacies, candy shops and chain groceries. He never took anything but cash. And, according to his own asserted statement to Lynn, he lived high and saved none of it.

"But now the jig's up," he said in his cell at the City Jail, "so why beef? Sure I'll show you the joints. Let's go."

Chain of Beauty Shops Extended

Another link was added to the chain of beauty shops operated by Weaver-Jackson Company, with the opening yesterday of the company's Westwood Village shop. Located in the Holmby Building on Westwood Boulevard, it is the fourteenth in the chain.

Willard Isaacs, vice-president, presided at the opening.

MOTORIST ROBBED OF $103

Deputy sheriffs yesterday were looking for a bandit who late Thursday night held up and robbed Oscar Erickson, 1415 East One Hundred and Twenty-second street, of $103 after first tying him up with shoe strings. Erickson reported that he was accosted by the man who pointed a gun at him as he was driving up to his garage in the rear of the house. The bandit escaped in an automobile.

San Gabriel paid the postmaster $7 for a year's work in the post-office and he sent $4 as net revenue.

San Pedro's postmaster received $31.40 for his year's work. Rattlesnake Bar, Yankee Jim's and Don Pedro's Bar did a thriving business and paid their postmasters handsome salaries, from $200 to $800, while Placerville's postmaster received $2500. Whisky Creek, in Shasta county, had Benjamin Mix for postmaster.

"If there is anything in a name," writes Miss Vail, "it might account for his failure to render returns to the department. Grizzly Flats also rendered no returns. Maybe the bears ate up the postmaster. There were deficits in the good old days, also."

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Nickey Rice

PAIR WILL CELEBRATE LONG UNION

Dr. and Mrs. Rice Married for Sixty-four Years Plan Anniversary Fete

When love at first sight has withstood the vicissitudes of sixty-four years and is as fresh in full bloom as it was in the bud, it might be assumed that it is more than a passing fancy. Especially so when the principals still proudly claim that their romance came under the love-at-first-sight classification.

The romance of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Nickey Rice of 1624 North Alexandria avenue, who reach their sixty-fourth marital milestone today, started when they were school children.

Then along came the Civil War and the 19-year-old boy joined the Seventy-fourth Indiana Volunteers, serving with Company B throughout the war. When he returned home the girl he left behind him was waiting and on March 15, 1866, they were married in Columbia City, Ind.

Dr. Rice, who is a native of Indiana, is 86 years of age. A graduate of Rush Medical College in Chicago, he practiced medicine in Minnesota for twenty-two years. Mrs. Rice, who was born in Ohio, is 84. Thirty-two years ago the couple came to California. They have lived here twenty-two years. Dr. Rice has retired from active practice. However, both of them still are in good health. Mrs. Rice is proud of the fact that she does her own housework.

Tomorrow the couple will go to the home of their daughter, Mrs. William Thorne, in Covina, for a family dinner party at which some twenty-four members of their family will be present. In addition to Mrs. Thorne, their other children are Mrs. Harry Wattlington of this city, S. L. Rice of Monrovia, W. Genner Rice of Sacramento, Mrs. Frank Gould and Mrs. Edward Edwards of Minnesota. They have twenty grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

CONSUL AND WIFE GIVEN FAREWELL

Women's Canadian Club Honors Fishers at Dinner Prior to Leaving Here

Farewell was formally bid to the Honorable and Mrs. Godfrey Fisher last night at a dinner tendered by the Women's Canadian Club at the Pollyanna Tea Room, 2228 West Seventh street.

Mr. Fisher has been the British Consul in Los Angeles for the past seven years and he and Mrs. Fisher are leaving on April 1 for Naples, and other European points with a subsequent return to their home in Canada.

More than 150 native-born Canadians gathered for the good-by banquet, and the departing couple were the recipients of high praise and tribute for the services rendered and friendships formed during their residency in Southern California.

Seated at the speakers' table with the honored guests were Mrs. J. Campbell-MacIver, president of the club; the toastmistress of the evening, Municipal Judge Georgia Bullock; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stannish of Toronto, Can.; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Ballard, president of the Southern California Edison Company; Deputy British Consul Davies, Mrs. W. H. Meyers, Mrs. Catherine Ogilvie, Mrs. D. W. Bradshaw and Mrs. L. Reid Spencer.

Music and bridge, which followed an informal program of short after-dinner addresses, completed the evening.

Stork to Visit Norma Shearer?

Despite denials from Norma Shearer and her husband, Irving Thalberg, the report persists in Hollywood that the stork will make its appearance in a few months at the home of the actress and her husband.

In recent studio announcements it was declared that Miss Shearer soon plans on giving up her film work temporarily for a much-needed rest. At the time it was pointed out that she had not had a real vacation for months and that she desired to forget about pictures for a while.

TRAFFIC DEATHS SHOW DECREASE

Coroner Says Public Grows Safety Conscious

Work of Committee Held as Partly Responsible

Nineteen Homicides Listed During February

Belief that people are assuming a safety consciousness was expressed yesterday by Coroner Nance, who announced that only eleven persons came to their death in traffic accidents during the first fourteen days of the present month in Los Angeles. This figure is but slightly more than one-half the monthly average for 1929, he said.

The Coroner attributed the marked decrease in the number of fatalities in motor accidents in the city largely to efforts of the Citizens' Safety Committee of the California Chamber of Commerce. The committee in this district, of which the Coroner is a member, is composed of approximately 100 persons who recently have been engaged in the dissemination of information tended to check traffic accidents.

WARNINGS HEEDED

"People now appear to be heeding warnings and to be thinking in terms of safety," Nance said.

Coincidentally, the Coroner yesterday issued his regular monthly report for February, which showed that during the month fifty-six persons were injured fatally in motor-vehicle accidents. The number was the same as that of January. Of this number, thirty-two occurred in the city and twenty-four in county territory outside the city. Out of a total of 352 cases handled by the Coroner's office, 238 were cases in Los Angeles and 114 in county territory.

Out of thirty-six miscellaneous accidental fatalities, eighteen occurred from burns as the result of explosions and other causes and nine from falls. Thirty-three persons committed suicide, seventeen by shooting themselves. Nine of the suicides were attributed to ill health. Thirteen of nineteen homicides were by shooting, of which two were termed justifiable.

During February the Coroner's office performed 267 autopsies, made eighty-five investigations, nine chemical analyses and conducted eighty-three inquests.

PHYSICIAN ARRESTED

Dr. Glenn G. English, 32 years of age, of 1680 North Vine street, was taken in custody by Officers Robertson and Baldwin at Beverly Boulevard and Stanley avenue yesterday where he is asserted to have endangered traffic. According to the officers, the physician resisted arrest before being overpowered.

Louis Rayford, 35, an inmate of the Soldiers' Home, was arrested by Officer Buchanan following a collision with an automobile driven by Kathleen Robertson of 1649 West Sixty-ninth street. The mishap occurred at Forty-fifth and Hoover streets.

AUTO OF FATHER KILLS YOUNG DAUGHTER

Doris Kerwin, 5 years of age, died yesterday in Georgia-street Receiving Hospital from injuries received when she was run over by her father's automobile Thursday. The accident occurred in the driveway of the Kerwin home at 1217 West Ninety-seventh street. Eager to bid her father good-by as he was backing out of the garage the child ran toward the car and was knocked down. No inquest will be conducted, police investigation establishing the fatality as unavoidable.

Two young women had a narrow escape from death late yesterday afternoon when an automobile in which they were riding collided with a Pacific Electric Hawthorne-Redondo Beach car at One Hundred and Fifteenth street and Avalon Boulevard.

Although their automobile was hurled from the crossing against a post and practically demolished, Eva Janofsky, 19, 2921 Eighth avenue, was virtually unhurt, while her companion, Bess Spencer, 22, 434 West Fifty-fifth street, was believed to have escaped with minor bruises.

George Stiles, 23, 3129 Partenico street, Culver City, lost control of his car yesterday evening at Robertson and Pico Boulevards, and struck the rear of a passenger bus driven by Thomas H. Adams, police report. Stiles received a possible fracture of the skull, it was ascertained at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

Miss Violet Dippo, 31, 5462 Marathon street, was injured last night when her car was hit, she reported, by a hit-and-run driver at Madison and Clinton streets. She received injuries to her scalp, right arm and left hip. Detectives later arrested Paul Cook at his home, 4146 1-2 Marathon street, and booked him on charges of suspicion of drunk driving and suspicion of hit-and-run driving.

Charles Mulcahy, 79, 516 Gladys avenue, was struck while crossing at Vermont avenue and Forty-ninth street, by a car driven by M. S. Russell, 3200 South Hoover street, police report. He suffered possible internal injuries, and broken left arm and broken left leg.

With her sight obscured by the pouring rain last night, Mrs. Ruth Sands, 52, of 6113 Springdale avenue, walked directly into the path of a street car as she was crossing Annandale avenue at Delphi street, according to the motorman, E. L. Hutchins. It is believed her injuries will prove fatal. She received a possible skull fracture, a fractured collarbone and several lacerations.

Veteran Consul Arrives at Port

After nearly half a century in Guatemala, Hugo Fleischmann still insists Central America is peerless as the land of romantic adventure. He arrived this week-end on the Panama Mail liner Ecuador, bound for San Francisco after forty-seven years at Quezaltenango, thirty-eight of which were as British Consul. Mrs. Fleischmann and their two daughters accompany him.

He is on three months' leave from his consular post.

MAYER'S DAUGHTER WEDS SOON

License Asked by Studio Executive

Miss Edith Mayer and William Goetz

EDITH MAYER and William Goetz, principals in a romance of interest to the members of the motion-picture colony, appeared at the office of the County Clerk yesterday and filed their notice of intention to marry. Miss Mayer, who gave her age as 24 years, is the daughter of Louis B. Mayer, vice-president of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Company, and Goetz, who is 26, is an executive of Corrine Griffith Productions.

The wedding of the couple, they said, will take place next Wednesday evening at the Biltmore, with Rabbi Edgar Magnin officiating. Following the ceremony there will be a reception and banquet.

Irene Mayer, sister of the bride-to-be, will be maid of honor and Benjamin Goetz, brother of the bridegroom-elect, will be best man. The bridesmaids will be Marion Davies, Corrine Griffith, May McAvoy, Bessie Love, Carmel Myers and Catherine Bennett, and the ushers will be Walter Morosco, William Seiter, E. J. Mannix, Fred Marin, David Selznick, Lou Schriber, Jack Cummings and Jack Goetz.

GAS WASTRELS NAMED IN COUNT

of natural gas, which wells should be shut down and what gas-oil ratio should be established.

The Santa Fe Springs oil field contains approximately 1400 acres. At the present time there are about 500 producing wells in the field. The twenty wasters cited by James S. Bennett, counsel for the State, are wells toward the dome of the field.

Judge Hazlett has indicated that after some of the proof concerning wasting wells has been established in court he will probably issue a temporary restraining order against them pending the outcome of the hearing.

WASTE PERILS SHOWN

Testimony of some of the witnesses during the afternoon showed that at least 25 per cent of the natural gas produced in the Santa Fe Springs field is being wasted. It runs into millions of cubic feet each day, it was pointed out.

Efforts are being made to prove by geologists and oil engineers that many of the wells in the field could be closed down so as to conserve the gas which is so necessary as a propulsion force for producing oil. No pump has been devised as yet to bring the oil from deep depths to the surface. Operators must depend on the gas as a propelling agency. The time will come, it is asserted, if the natural gas, or propelling force, is wasted, that the oil will be in the ground with no way of bringing it to the surface for the use of mankind. Therefore, it is the contention of Fred G. Stevenot, Director of Natural Resources of the State of California, who is prosecuting the suit under the new Gas and Oil Conservation Act, that the saving of the gas is of vital importance to every oil operator who hopes to continue producing petroleum.

NEED FOR DAM CALLED VITAL

maximum level of the reservoir from elevation 715 to about 700 feet.

"We believe that under no conditions is it safe to eliminate Hollywood reservoir.

"If a properly built earth and rock fill (of ample dimensions) is placed downsteam and against Hollywood Dam, it would, of course, add to its stability when the reservoir is full, and would bring the resultant of all pressure nearer the middle of the dam, both when the reservoir is full and when empty, and make it impossible for the dam to fail if subjected to an earthquake shock great enough to destroy Hollywood.

Practically the great advantage of this fill would be the psychological effect produced, although, of course, it adds enormously to its stability. Filling the canyon below the dam and planting trees and shrubs would change the apparent menace to a pleasing view carrying no suggestion of a dam.

"We, therefore, recommend that a properly built fill, having a very flat slope, be placed below and against Mulholland Dam, and that when finished it be planted and landscaped."

Dedication of Temple Israel Stately Rite

Temple Israel of Hollywood was dedicated last night with impressive ceremonies. The new place of worship, 1738 Ivar street, was well filled when the procession with the scrolls passed through the edifice to the altar and opened the services.

Members of the choir of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church assisted in the musical program and Rev. Charles F. Seiter of the First Methodist Church of Hollywood brought greetings from the Christian churches of the community.

Consecration of the perpetual light was made by Sol Wurtzel, honorary president of the temple, and Sam Kress, chairman of the board of trustees, presented the key of the edifice, to which I. E. Chadwick, temple president, made response.

Telegrams and letters of congratulations were received from all over the United States.

The dedication sermon was given by Rabbi Isadore Isaacson of the temple.

TRAIL BLAZERS LEAVE TODAY

trucks has been specially built. The modern versions of the covered wagon will include tools and equipment for repairs, a compact kitchen with special compartments for food and camping equipment.

The objective of this first expedition is the Guatemalan border. There the party will store its cars until after the midseason rains, return to Los Angeles to complete its maps and prepare for a new start.

Although a few motorists have driven from the United States to Mexico City, a motor tour in the southern republic, as the term is understood in the United States, is almost unknown. The international highway when opened will disclose new worlds of beauty to the traveler now known only to the venturesome. The road will lead through cities built on the stones of prehistoric Indian villages and near ruins of some of the old Mayas.

The present survey might easily be called the start of the third road era in Mexico. Many of the roads in Mexico follow the original highways of the Mayas and Aztecs. During the time of the Second Empire of the Mayan period the natives had developed a network of well-made trails and roads which connected distant cities. Primitive commerce between the Indians of Arizona and Northern Mexico and as far south as Costa Rica was carried on these roads. Then many of the original highways were lost under a tangle of jungle when the Spanish Conquistadores came, but they in turn again built a road system, parts of which remain today.

The present Mexican government is alive to the benefits of good roads and is attempting to break the thralldom of isolation with a modern highway program. Many Mexican officials have blamed the recurrent revolutions in their country to the lack of understanding between distant sections of the nation, all resulting from a lack of transportation.

When the first run of the surveys has been made, the cars stored and the work of the maps started here in Los Angeles, the expedition will then turn to an even more difficult task of breaking through the steaming jungles of Central America. On the second lap of the great survey the gaps will be more frequent and the going harder. The route south from Mexico City to the border of Guatemala will lead through burning desert wastes and through high mountains. When the expedition once reaches Guatemala City, however, the way will be easier with a well-traveled road to San Salvador, but beyond, the green jungle will again prove a barrier.

The dream of the expedition is that some day a route will be opened through to Panama that will lead down the West Coast of South America to Valparaiso and over the Andes to Buenos Aires, and that another route will be opened along the Atlantic Coast of South America connecting Rio de Janeiro, Bahia, Pernambuco and reaching north again to the canal.

Nothing definite in the way of a name has been selected for the great highway that will stretch over the two American continents. Government officials of the Latin countries agree with those of the Automobile Club that when such a name is selected it must be easily understood by the people of both continents and clearly express the aim of the explorers—the Road to Friendship.

OCEAN AIRSHIPS TO BE DELAYED

Goodyear Official Thinks Line Years Hence

Giant Craft Will be Built After Pair for Navy

Pacific Coast Base Will be Selected in Future

While plans for a combined mail and passenger airship service across the Pacific have been virtually completed and a company has been incorporated to conduct this service, it is likely that a couple of years will elapse before a start is made on putting these plans into effect, it was stated yesterday by V. R. Jacobs, assistant manager of the aeronautics department of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company and assistant sales manager of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation. The Pacific Zeppelin Transport Corporation, which has been organized to conduct the trans-Pacific mail and passenger service, is a subsidiary of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation.

The main factor holding back the initiation of the trans-Pacific air service, Mr. Jacobs said, is merely the fact that the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation must finish the two giant airships it has contracted to build for the United States Navy before it can begin construction of the first of the ships for the commercial line.

Work on the first of the immense navy ships, the gas bags of which will have a volume of 6,500,000 cubic feet, has been under way for more than a year, but it will not be finished before May, 1931, at the earliest. It is estimated that the second of the navy ships cannot be finished earlier than fifteen months after the completion of the first.

That would place the beginning of work on the first of the commercial ships at September, 1932, at the earliest.

ANOTHER FACTOR

Mr. Jacobs admitted that another delaying factor is the desire of the corporation to hold up its selection of a site for its Pacific Coast terminal until Congress has definitely decided upon the site for the projected naval airship base on this coast, selection of which has narrowed down to the Camp Kearny and Sunnyvale sites.

A belief held in aeronautical circles here that the corporation has made a decision to put its terminal at the other end of the State from whichever site is chosen for the navy base was said by Mr. Jacobs to be erroneous.

The belief probably arose, he added, from the fact that it is entirely possible that the corporation may select for its terminal whichever of the two leading choices for the navy base is finally passed up by Congress.

Although the two navy sites enjoy an initial advantage in the quest for a terminal, he said, it is not altogether impossible that the company eventually will fix on a site in the Los Angeles area.

Wherever the airship terminal is placed, Mr. Jacobs believes it will be a boon to the community, not only because it will bring at once a construction job, that of at least one dock costing $2,500,000, but also because he envisages a bright future for lighter-than-air transoceanic travel and naturally the terminus of the first regular line will assume a position of greater importance on the world's map.

In the earlier stages of the enterprise, he pointed out, sightseers alone will bring wealth to the section where the terminus is located. As an illustration of this, he recalled that Friedrichshafen, the home of the Zeppelins, is a city of only 12,000 inhabitants, but during last summer 300,000 tourists visited the city to gaze at the Graf Zeppelin preparing for its world flight.

IMMENSE CRAFT

It is a bit premature, Mr. Jacobs said, to reveal detailed plans for the trans-Pacific mail and passenger service, but he said that the tentative plans for the airships themselves make them about the same size as the two navy ships being constructed in Akron. An indication of their immensity can be gained by the comparison of their 6,500,000 cubic-foot volume to the 3,710,000 of the Graf Zeppelin and the 2,470,000 feet of the Los Angeles. The British R-100, now being enlarged, will be longer than the American Zeppelins, but its volume will be only 5,500,000 cubic feet.

At the beginning, the new line will inaugurate a service only between this coast and Hawaii, but other routes will be added as conditions warrant, all, however, utilizing Honolulu as the first port of call. The second service to be opened will probably be to the Philippines by way of Hawaii and Guam, and if the corporation has the success that is anticipated, the service, Mr. Jacobs said, undoubtedly will be extended to Australia, Japan and the Asiatic mainland.

Asked as an expert to comment on the report from New York of the formation of a company to manufacture family blimps costing only $1000, Mr. Jacobs did not hesitate to characterize it as unbelievable. It is wholly impractical and impossible in the light of present knowledge, he said, to manufacture an airship for $1000. The Goodyear Volunteer, which is about as small a blimp as has been found practical, he pointed out, cost $70,000 inflated with helium.

SPEECH MADE

Mr. Jacobs was the chief speaker last night at the joint meeting at the Alexandria of the local branches of the Society of Automotive Engineers and the National Aeronautic Association.

While the theme of his address was the development in the field of lighter-than-air craft and he summarized the outstanding features of the airships his company is building for the Navy, he prefaced his remarks with an exposition of the contention that there is no necessary conflict between the heavier-than-air and the lighter-than-air machine. He said they have their separate functions and neither can be considered as a rival to the other in their respective spheres.

Miss Starke's Suit Continued

Trial of the suit brought by Pauline Starke, motion-picture actress, against James Cruze for $8500 for asserted breach of contract, scheduled to be held yesterday before Superior Judge Blake, was continued to May 16, next. One of the defense attorneys was called from the city, necessitating the delay.

Miss Starke in her complaint asserts she had a contract with Cruze to play the part of the wife in a picture entitled "The Great Gabbo," and was discharged after working four days on the picture. She is represented by the law firm of Loeb, Walker & Loeb.

FLOWERS FLECK PATH TO PRISON

Carnations Cited in State's Reply to Dr. Westlake

Bouquet Said to be Link in Net of Circumstances

Doctor's Guilt in Murder of Woman Declared Proven

Pink carnations are used to point the way to San Quentin in the state's answer, filed yesterday with the District Court of Appeals, to the appeal of Dr. Frank Westlake, [illegible] years of age, from conviction in the Superior Court on a charge of having slain Mrs. Laura B. Sutton, [illegible].

The floral evidence played an important part in Dr. Westlake's trial, when it was brought out that the physician had purchased flowers of the same kind and number as those that made up a bouquet found on the grave of Mrs. Sutton's mother more than a week after Mrs. Sutton had disappeared. Dr. Westlake is asserted to have said that Mrs. Sutton placed the flowers on the grave.

EVIDENCE CIRCUMSTANTIAL

Emphasis was placed upon this phase of the case in the State's attack upon the physician's charge that the evidence was insufficient to warrant conviction. The State readily granted the defendant's contention that the evidence was largely circumstantial, but asserted that a complete resume of the evidence left no doubt as to the guilt of the doctor.

Dr. Westlake's contention that the corpus delicti had not been proved was also answered by reference to the testimony given at the trial. The testimony dealt with identification of Mrs. Sutton's teeth and [illegible].

TORSO FOUND IN RIVER

The crime came to light when a small boy found a woman's torso in the Los Angeles River on April 4, 1929. The head was found on May 18.

The defense asserted that no motive had been established for the crime. The State contended that Dr. Westlake committed the crime to gain possession of Mrs. Sutton's properties, pointing to trial testimony to the effect that the physician had given away some of Mrs. Sutton's belongings and had obtained money on some of her securities.

Denial was made of the defense's contention as to court errors.

Throngs Brave Rain to See New Desmond's Store

Their interest undampened by the virtual cloudburst which descended on the neighborhood during the afternoon, throngs of sightseers crowded Desmond's new store in Westwood Village upon the occasion of its formal opening yesterday. They were merely sightseers because it had been announced that nothing would be offered for sale, the occasion being in the nature of an informal reception under the direction of Ralph R. Huesman, president of Desmond's.

The doors of the new establishment, the fifth unit of this pioneer Los Angeles concern, were opened at noon and remained open until 9 p.m. Tonight and all of next week the store will be open every night until 9 p.m., but thereafter the regular shopping hours will be observed.

Among the interested visitors to the new store yesterday was John David, owner of fourteen large men's furnishing stores in the East, [illegible] of them in New York. Mr. David, whose new store on Park Avenue in New York is regarded as the most sumptuous establishment of its sort in the world, said he was much impressed by the new Desmond store and that he was particularly pleased by the distinctive architectural aspect of the exterior, which is of Mediterranean design.

COMEDY STUDIO SEES INCREASED SCHEDULE

To perfect plans for the forthcoming season of Darmour comedies predicted for R.-K.-O. release, Larry Darmour, president, left last night for New York. Meantime work was started to increase facilities at his studio, 5323 Santa Monica Boulevard, to handle the schedule. Darmour looks for a banner year, for his concern, he said, and a noticeable increase in production of the R.-K.-O. comedy unit.

Emphasis was placed upon this feature of the case in the State's brief, that the physician's charge rested upon the evidence was insufficient to justify a murder conviction. The State flatly granted the defendant's contention that the evidence was largely circumstantial, but asserted that a complete resume of the evidence left no doubt as to the guilt of the accused.

Dr. Westlake's contention that the corpus delicti had not been proved was also answered by reference to the testimony given at the trial. The testimony dealt with identification of Mrs. Sutton's teeth and

TORSO FOUND IN RIVER

So crime came to light when a torso was found a woman's torso in the Los Angeles River on April 17, 1928. The head was found on May 11.

The defense asserted that no motive had been established for the crime. The State contended that Dr. Westlake committed the crime in possession of Mrs. Sutton's jewels, pointing to trial testimony to the effect that the physician had given away some of Mrs. Sutton's belongings and had obtained money on some of her securities.

Denial was made of the defense's contention as to court errors.

Throngs Brave Rain to See New Desmond's Store

The interest undampened by the brief cloudburst which descended on the neighborhood during the afternoon, throngs of sightseers crowded Desmond's new store in Westwood Village upon the occasion of its formal opening yesterday. They were merely sightseers because it had been announced that nothing would be offered for sale, the occasion being in the nature of an informal reception under the direction of Ralph R. Huessy, president of Desmond's.

The doors of the new establishment, the fifth unit of this pioneer Los Angeles concern, were opened at 9 a.m. and remained open until 9 p.m. Tonight and all of next week the store will be open every day until 9 p.m., but thereafter its regular shopping hours will be observed.

Among the interested visitors to the new store yesterday was John Wood, owner of fourteen large men's furnishing stores in the East, one of them in New York. Mr. Wood, whose new store on Park Avenue in New York is regarded as the most sumptuous establishment of its sort in the world, said he was much impressed by the new Desmond store and that he was particularly pleased by the distinctive architectural aspect of the exterior, which is of Mediterranean design.

Darmour looks for a banner year for his concern, he said, and a noticeable increase in attendances at the R.-K.-O. comedy

MIDNIGHT ZERO HOUR ON TAX

Same Officer Again Will Close Doors

Policeman Joseph G. Lukomski and Miss Harriet Wilson

JOSEPH G. LUKOMSKI, Los Angeles police officer, will ring the closing bell at midnight tonight on the making of income-tax returns. It was announced that the officer, who for eight years has been an official adviser to those in the toils of making an income-tax return during the last few weeks allotted to the taxpayer, will close the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue.

Lukomski was first sent to the collector's office during the rush period while Rex Goodcell was collector. Each year thereafter, the collector's office sent for him and it has been stated by Collector Welch and E. M. Cohee, chief office deputy, that the officer has been a valuable income-tax adviser.

While the collector's office will be open until midnight, it is urged that all tax returns be made as early as possible. Clerks in the office will give advice regarding the making of returns.

OFFICERS NAMED BY SHERIFFS

Association Meeting Here Conducts Election and Hears Banquet Talks

Discussion of motor and penal codes, election of officers, and a banquet featured the session here yesterday of the annual meeting of the Sheriffs', Undersheriffs' and Civil Deputies' Association at the Alexandria.

Eugene Biscailuz, head of the State motor patrol, and retiring president of the association, was called upon to define and clarify certain phases of motor patrol work. The former Los Angeles undersheriff pledged the co-operation of the members of his department with the Sheriff forces of the State.

George W. Overholt, undersheriff of Fresno county, was elected president of the association, and Ed P. Cooper, Sheriff of San Diego county, vice-president. Capt. A. C. Jewell, chief civil deputy in the Sheriff's office, Los Angeles county, was named secretary and treasurer.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Sacramento, the president to name the date.

Close to 100 persons attended the banquet, which was served last evening. Sheriff Traeger and other county officials made short addresses.

The session will come to a close this morning.

BEAN WILL TAKE NEW COMMAND

Shift from Venice to Central Homicide Squad Among Several Changes

Rumors that Detective Captain Bean is slated for command of the Central homicide squad were confirmed by Chief of Detectives Taylor yesterday following the issuance of an order by Deputy Police Chief Cross transferring Bean from the Venice division to duty at headquarters. The transfer, along with that of two other detective captains, three lieutenants and thirty-two patrolmen, becomes effective Monday.

Although the name of Detective Captain Cato, in charge of the Central homicide detail, is not included in the transfer order, Taylor stated it is planned to give him command of the auto-theft detail and put Bean in Cato's place. The present head of the auto-theft detail, Capt. Barr, will be assigned to the police administration office, Taylor said.

Other transfers ordered are: Detective Captains Hawtrey from Georgia to Venice, and Edwards from Central to Georgia; and Detective Lieutenants Reavis from Central to Georgia, Steed from Central to Lincoln Heights, and Bradley from Lincoln Heights to Central.

More equal distribution of departmental motor equipment to various divisions also was ordered yesterday by Cross.

Six Victims of Poisoning Able to Quit Hospital

The five prominent Toledoans and one Ojai man who were stricken with some form of poisoning on Wednesday in Ojai, and removed to the Hollywood Hospital for treatment, were so greatly improved that they left the hospital yesterday and returned to Coronado.

Members of the party are Mr. and Mrs. William Walbridge, Miss Sally Libbey, Mrs. Charles S. Ashley and Mrs. May King, all of Toledo, and Leonard Ten Eyck of Ojai. The Walbridges, who have a winter home at Coronado; their guest, Miss Libbey; Mrs. Ashley and Mrs. King, who are wintering at the southern resort, had motored to Ojai for luncheon. Later in the afternoon they were seized with the strange malady, and after receiving preliminary aid at Thousand Oaks, hurried on to this city for further relief.

CLASS TO ATTEND DINNER

Members of an extension class in public speaking will be dinner guests of Attorney Warren Shobert of Hollywood tonight at the Malibu Lake clubhouse. It will be the final meeting of the class. A new one is to open next Thursday. Dr. Harrison M. Karr of the public-speaking department of the University of California at Los Angeles is the instructor. Lawrence Steers, a member of the class, will act as toastmaster at the dinner.

DR. M'ARTHUR EULOGIZED

Dr. Walker Pays High Tribute to Character of Surgeon at Funeral Services

With hundreds of friends of the family attending and with the casket and floor banked with floral offerings from various parts of the city, funeral services for Dr. William Taylor McArthur, noted physician and surgeon who died last Tuesday, were conducted yesterday at his home on South Western avenue. Interment was at the Church of Our Savior cemetery at San Gabriel.

In charge of the services were Dr. James A. B. Scherer of the Southwest Museum and Dr. Hugh K. Walker of First Presbyterian church, of which Dr. McArthur had been a member for many years.

Dr. McArthur was one of God's men of high ideals," he faithfully followed the religion that he practiced and even in his greatest sorrow he appeared cheerful, in the face of pain. He had the saving grace of humor and loved a good story, but his stories were clean and his jokes contained no sting. He loved travel and adventure and on this mundane trail, he has endeavored to reached the end of a brighter country in which he shall continue to walk with God."

Speaking in behalf of the Sunset Club, of which Dr. McArthur once was president, Dr. Scherer mentioned the great esteem in which the doctor was held by the members of that organization and epitomized the philosophy of the famous surgeon in the pronouncement: "His greatest desire was the happiness of his neighbors."

Dr. McArthur, who was 66 years of age, was a native of Ontario, Can., and had lived in Los Angeles since 1895. He had been honored by his medical colleagues with practically every position within their gift. He was a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, the Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh, the American Medical Association and many other medical and surgical organizations, as well as a member of scores of civic, religious and fraternal societies.

Pallbearers were Drs. Clarence Toland, Donald I. Frick, Harlan Shormaker, Hill Hastings and Messrs. Henry Wheeler and James J. Freeman. Honorary pallbearers included Drs. George L. Cole, George H. Kress, William Duffield, W. W. Beckett, A. S. Loblingier, Joseph M. King, F. C. E. Matdison, O. O. Witherbee, Percy Magan, James Main Dixon and Messrs. John Mitchell, Frank Simpson, C. S. Symington, James Cusner, Adolph Koebig and members of the Sunset Club.

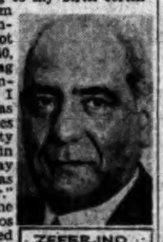
YEARS SHUCKED BY "CORN KING"

Mexican of 67 Heading to Youth Once More

Health Speaker Gives Talk to KHJ Audience

"Lively as Colt," He Aids Ailing Countrymen

"When I came to Los Angeles two years ago I was 65 years of age. According to my birth certificate I now am 67, but, potentially, I am not more than 40, and I'm going to stay here until I feel like I did when I was 21. Los Angeles is the one city on earth in which one may grow younger as he grows older."



ZEFERINO DOMINGUEZ

That is the opinion of Los Angeles voiced yesterday by Zeferino Dominguez, corn king of Mexico who addressed the KHJ radio audience in Spanish on "Health and Diet."

HEALTH HELPS

Senor Dominguez, who lives with friends at 1801 South Flower street, said that it is not altogether the Southern California climate that is responsible for his "progress back to youth," but attributes his rejuvenation partly to raw food, right breathing and other health helps advocated by Dr. Philip Lovell and other apostles of naturopathy.

"Two years ago I was nothing but skin and bones and expected that my next overcoat would be a wooden one," said Mr. Dominguez. "I was bald-headed, short-breathed and sour-stomached. Look at me now! Two hundred and fifteen pounds, stomach like that of an ostrich, lungs like a blacksmith's bellows, good head of hair and lively as a colt."

EXAMPLES GIVEN

So anxious is Mr. Dominguez that the Spanish-speaking people of Los Angeles share in the knowledge that has brought him health that he gives Wednesday noon addresses and distributes free literature at the Good-will Industries which employs nearly 500 Mexicans. According to Dominguez, nearly 40 per cent of the Mexicans at the Industries were ill when he began his addresses three months ago, whereas today only 10 per cent of them ever complain of illness.

Mr. Dominguez, who is a personal friend of President Ortiz Rubio, probably has raised more corn than any other man in Mexico. He has been cultivating his farm lands near Mexico City for the last forty-five years. Formerly he raised from seven to fifteen bushels of corn to the acre until the revolutionists began to "raise cain," and temporarily put a stop to his industry. After the first major revolution he again began to cultivate his property and said that, by experimenting with dent corn, found that he can greatly increase the per-acre yield.

AUTOMOBILE EXECUTIVES REACH CITY

Head of General Motors Truck Company Talks at Dealers' Meeting

President Paul W. Seiler of the General Motors Truck Company and a party of other officials of the company arrived here yesterday to conduct a meeting of dealers and salesmen of the southwestern zone at the Mayfair. Dealers from Arizona and all points in Southern California south of Kern county attended.

Mr. Seiler indicated as his opinion that business conditions on the Coast are better than in the East and Middle West. Particularly, he said, he notes a difference in the unemployment situation. He has seen nothing comparable to the eastern condition either here or in San Francisco.

Those in the party besides Seiler include O. L. Arnold, vice-president in charge of sales; J. M. Howard, assistant sales manager; H. Listman, vice-president in charge of motor coach sales, and I. V. Babcock, president Yellow Manufacturing Acceptance Corporation.

G. H. Barmore and C. H. Thompson also arrived with the party and will remain in the West to assume the duties of regional manager and zone sales promotional manager in territory from Denver westward.

Leaving here the party will go to Portland and Seattle, then east again to arrive at Pontiac early in April.

GUILD TO CELEBRATE

Next Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock the Catholic Motion Picture Guild will turn out en masse to celebrate St. Patrick's Day at the Hollywood Columbus Club, 1441 North McCadden Place. A program featuring Irish songs and dances is being arranged under the personal supervision of James Ryan, president.

COUNTY JAIL SO CROWDED THAT 250 SLEEP ON FLOOR

Approximately 250 prisoners in the County Jail are nightly compelled to sleep on the floor due to lack of accommodations, it was learned yesterday. Climaxing a consistent increase over a period of several weeks, figures compiled yesterday disclosed that the official jail count Thursday showed a record number of 1708 persons in confinement. At breakfast yesterday there were 1706 prisoners.

Built a few years ago with the expectancy of meeting the county's needs for several years to come, the jail months ago began to exceed its intended capacity of 1450 prisoners.

At one time Thursday the influx of prisoners brought the number up to approximately 1760, of which a number were released on bail and for other reasons before official counting time, according to Jailer Peoples.

To meet the increased demands for sleeping equipment, Peoples yesterday was supervising the apportioning of 200 new mattresses and blankets he had just received. Within a year it will be necessary to construct new cells on another floor to cope with the steady increase, he said.

Of the 1706 persons in jail yesterday morning at counting time, 162 were women and 153 male juveniles between 16 and 18 years of age. Girl prisoners under 18 years of age are not confined in the jail.

DIVINE RELATES LOVE WRITINGS

Former El Monte Pastor on Stand in Balm Suit

Wife Testifies to Refute His Story of Scratches

Alienation Trial Adjourned Until Monday

Rev. J. Orye Wing, formerly pastor of the El Monte Christian Church, took the witness stand yesterday in the $25,000 alienation suit brought by his wife, Mrs. Sadie Wing, against Mrs. Ethel Klingerman, on trial before Superior Judge Archbald to explain how he used certain quotations of love which were asserted to have been sent by the defendant.

One of the quotations was:

"It is the passion that is in a kiss that gives it its sweetness."

"How did you use that quotation?" asked Attorney James D. Randles, counsel for Mrs. Wing.

PARAPHRASED IT

"I paraphrased like this," the minister replied.

"Kissing a stone wall causes no thrill and no temptation."

The minister was subjected to a severe examination by Attorney Randles. He began by asking Wing everything concerning his early courtship with Mrs. Wing, their marriage, their life at Eugene, Or., where, it is asserted she helped pay his way through the university by working herself in a cafeteria.

Relative to an asserted scandal involving the minister when he had a pastorate at San Luis Obispo, Attorney Randles asked:

"Your wife always stood by you, didn't she?"

Defense counsel, Attorney J. H. De La Monte, objected to the question and Randles then asked:

WIFE TAKES STAND

"She always took your part didn't she?"

"Publicly she stood up for me, but privately she held it over my head as a club," the minister replied, looking directly at Mrs. Wing.

Mrs. Wing was placed on the stand by her attorney to make a denial that she ever scratched her husband's face to make him unattractive to other women.

Final arguments will be made in the case before Superior Judge Archbald when court convenes Monday, after which it will be given to the jury for a decision.

THOUSANDS RUSH TO SIGN BELL TABOO

Cement Plant Opponents Reckon 50,000 Names on Referendary Petition

Additional names are coming in by the thousands for the Bell referendum petition, which will be filed with City Clerk Dominguez today by officials of the Home Zone Protective Association, according to Attorney Thorwald Siegfried, who said that 43,070 names had been tabulated and ready for filing at 5 o'clock last night, with several thousand added names not yet precincted.

"We will have close to 50,000 names," he said last night, after a careful summing up. "We will work all night tonight and what names we are able to precinct properly will go to the City Clerk Saturday morning. We should have between 48,000 and 46,000. Other names will be filed in a supplementary petition Monday."

As the Bell ordinance does not go into effect until Sunday, the 16th inst., this gives an additional day in which to file. According to Attorney Siegfried close to 5000 added names are expected to be on the supplementary list.

A force also stands ready, in case the petition is deemed insufficient by City Clerk Dominguez, to conduct an intensive campaign for additional names which will insure the referendary.

The petitions are now in a brass-bound trunk in a safety deposit vault and will not be taken from their hiding place until it is time to file them with the city officials.

RED CROSS PICKS BOY FOR FINALS

Bob Baker to Compete in Washington With Victors of Division Contests

Wearing his honors modestly, Bob Baker, 15-year-old winner of the recent Los Angeles division knowledge contest sponsored by the American Red Cross, yesterday began to take stock of his wardrobe in preparation for his forthcoming visit to the national capital. At the expense of the Red Cross, young Baker will leave for Washington on the 30th inst. to compete there with other divisional victors for the grand prize, a trip to Europe. The finals will be held in Washington, April 5 to 8, next.

Young Baker, who lives at 9722 Beach street and attends David Starr Jordan High School, emerged the winner last Saturday in the oral examination propounded to fifteen other district winners by Red Cross interrogators in the Chamber of Commerce Building. Questions asked of the contestants dealt with various phases of Red Cross activities, ranging from first-aid treatments to methods of life-saving. The quiz occupied the entire morning.

Experiences gained as a Boy Scout and a member of the Junior Red Cross Life-saving Corps helped him immeasurably in surviving the examination successfully, Baker said.

If you would like to make some money at home, write to the Liberty Candy Co., or call to see them in reference to their plan of teaching the art of making home-made candies. "Gogo" Shampoo, famous in the Islands, may be had also from Orlanes Philippine Products Co., 110 E. First St., MU. 1608. "Gogo" prevents hair from falling out; promotes its growth and is a cure for dandruff. Do try it at once!

When Beating a mattress or upholstered furniture place an old sheet, slightly dampened, over it; this will absorb the dust and prevent it from flying to other furniture, etc.

Before polishing furniture wipe it over with vinegar and it will take a more brilliant polish. Before polishing very dirty furniture wring out a cloth from very hot water and rub it over the surface; wipe dry at once, then apply polishing cream as usual and the result will be a very high polish which will not show finger marks. Old pieces of velvet make fine polishing cloths for furniture.

When a small quantity of various colors is needed for dyeing cotton rags for rugs or any similar purpose use the less expensive Easter egg dyes. Rubber gloves are a great protection for the hands when dyeing.

If the collars and cuffs of your husband's shirts are worn out, take them to be repaired to Arthur M. Werner, the Custom Shirt Maker of 111 S. Spring St. (MUtual 1589.)

Apple Walnut Whip: Grate or scrape two small tart peeled apples and beat the pulp into a beaten egg white; add two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Crumple two spice cookies into sherbert glasses and mix with English walnut meats. Pile the sauce in the glasses over the crumbs and serve cold.

How to finish cheap wood: Go over the wood thoroughly, first with No. 1 sandpaper, then with No. 200; next go over the entire surface of the wood with a natural wood filler and before it is completely dry rub it with a rag, removing practically all of it. Then apply two coats of varnish which is not thick and flows easily. It will result in a nice glossy finish.

It is surprising that science can even be credited with producing amiability and a cheerful atmosphere in the home. Read the following letter, which for obvious reasons we will not publish the name of the writer, but which is on file for examination should any one doubt its authenticity.

Josannes Corporation,
Los Angeles, California.
Gentlemen:

My family will hardly ever drink boiled coffee again, and to Ben-Hur Drip Coffee full credit is due for the change in custom. Maybe the story is worth telling.

Stomach and intestinal derangement, inability to sleep the night through, a proneness to quick irritation and vociferous arguments, were family symptoms, extending over a long period. Nothing serious but ever a recurring, below-par condition that distressed and annoyed. We ourselves had suspected the astringency in our boiled percolated coffee to be the chief source of our internal discomfort, yet habit is a tyrant and we did nothing about it.

A friend visiting from the south criticised our boiled coffee. He declared dripping the coffee was the correct method of brewing. Urged by him we bought a Ben-Hur Coffee filter and a can of Ben-Hur Drip Coffee. We prepared our coffee according to instructions and the result was a beverage of most delicious taste, aroma and smoothness. It was totally devoid of the acrid pungency of our former "boiled" stuff. It also had a gently stimulating quality that brought peace and contentment, a new joy to the palate and to the breakfast.

Now each of us finds an improved appetite, better digestion, and hours of sleep gradually lengthened. Breakfast table discussions are carried on more amicably, too, we have noted.

We are grateful to Ben-Hur Drip Coffee. We find it very economical and we find it quick and easy to brew. We drink a cup or two at breakfast and go to work strong and cheerful. No more boiled or percolated coffee for this family.

Wouldn't it be grand to have some fluff rugs made from your old carpets? You would—then phone the Hoffman Rug Works of 2914 W. Jefferson street (EMpire 2048) to call for said carpets right away. Yes, they also make rag rugs from those rags you have been so religiously saving.

To wash a rug stretch it on a clean floor and tack it down; scour well with soapsuds and rinse thoroughly to remove all soap; leave rug tacked down till well dried to prevent shrinkage.

To remove grease from a rug spread over the spots a paste of fullers' earth and ammonia and let it dry; then sweep it out.

Here is the answer to your question of what to do with the clothes no longer needed and miscellaneous articles you want no more: Give them all to the Children's Hospital Salvage Department, 712 Maple avenue. (TUcker 1203.) They will be glad to have any size bundle and you will be helping a most worthy charity.

When clothing sticks to a varnished surface, leaving lint on it, rub it with a cloth saturated with turpentine and follow with a cloth dampened with linseed oil; rub vigorously with both applications.

Let's prepare now for St. Patrick's day! Of course, for all repasts on that day, including the informal bridge gathering and perhaps the buffet supper party (for you don't have to keep Lent on St. Patrick's Day) the color scheme of green is the thing and Guasti mint wine jelly fits into this idea admirably. The color of this excellent jelly is perfect . . . just what you want for garnishing as it cuts into cubes, balls and fancy shapes, including shamrocks, in an ideal fashion besides being so utterly delicious that it serves two purposes in a lovely way. Hurrah then for Guasti wine jelly and St. Patrick's Day! Let them go hand in hand and make your day a gala day in every sense of the word.

Where, are you desirous of knowing, may you buy Guasti mint wine jelly? Why all the better grocers sell it the whole time. If you can't get it, phone the Italian Vineyard Company, 1248 Palmetto St., MUtual 2124, and they will see that your order is taken care of promptly.

Wouldn't one of your rooms be perfectly lovely papered in that new diagonal wall paper? This paper and gay chintz create a perfect background for old furniture, you know. Tell you what you do, spring is here, of course, and naturally you want a lot of your rooms repapered, so hie yourself at the very first opportunity, to any one of Mathews Paint Company's three stores, where you may buy the most divine wall papers you have ever seen. Those of modernistic trend with gold and silver combined with such colors as sun orange, tangerine and green are simply stunning! Take note then of the following addresses and visit the one nearest you for your new wall covering: 1245 S. Hill, 1559 N. Vine, Hollywood, and 740 E. Green, Pasadena.

To keep a perfect polish on the dining-room table or other furniture rub it every three days with a mixture of equal parts of olive oil and turpentine; apply with flannel cloth.

When beating carpets an old tennis racket will be found an excellent beater; it will not damage the carpet nor hurt the hand.

Any old-fashioned pieces of jewelry you have which you would like to have modernized, should be taken up to Mr. Kent, at the Peerless Platers, 230½ S. Spring (upstairs.) Mr. Kent is a wonder in his line. He does all kinds of repair work as well, also special designing. VA. 5417 is his phone number.

To keep a rug flat sew dress weights flat on the under side where the rug is inclined to curl up. Or stitch a strip of oilcloth under each end of the rug. This also prevents slipping.

If you have not started using the Laura C. Scudder famous "Mayflower" brand of potato chips, do so at the first opportunity, because for quality, which includes crispness and incomparable freshness, there are no finer chips on the market! They are sold at all better stores and are distinguishable by the blue ship on each package.

To renew a one-color rug which is worn in spots, mix a little water with a package of dye of the same shade as the rug, and apply to the faded parts with a stiff brush; it will look like new.

"TWO-TIME LOSER" TRIES TO DIE

Robbery Suspect in Police Cell Slashes Throat and Arms With Piece of Sharpened Tin After Scribbling Note of Regret to Officer

After scribbling a lengthy note on a piece of scrap paper, in which he expressed regret over his criminal activities and the wish that his experience could be held up as a lesson for others, Jack Lackshan, 25 years of age, two-time loser and one of three suspects arrested last Tuesday for the robbery of Peter Borisoff, jeweler, yesterday attempted to end his life in his cell at Wilshire police station.

With a piece of tin sharpened on the cement floor to a jagged edge, Lackshan slashed his throat and both arms. He was found by a trusty and, after being given emergency treatment, was removed to the prison ward in the General Hospital. His condition is reported as critical.

TAKEN FOR HOLD-UP

Lackshan and Clyde Atwood, 25, of 463 Palm avenue, and Dan Campbell, 33, of 334 East Fourth street, Burbank, were said by detectives to have held up Borisoff on February 26, last, in his store at 224 South Western avenue and robbed him of $15,000 worth of jewelry. Their arrest followed tracing of some of the plunder through pawnshops. Most of the jewelry, according to the police, has been recovered.

Lackshan's note was addressed to Detective Lieutenant Jerry Bain, who, with Detective Lieutenant Moran, arrested the trio. It reads:

THANKS DETECTIVE

"Dear Mr. Bain: I want to thank you for the kindness you have shown me. I'm sure that I'll not be able to find words anywhere near enough to express my gratitude toward you for your true and kind character.

"Perhaps if I had known there was a man like you in the world I might not have gone so low down. The only appreciation I'll be able to show is to thank you from the bottom of my heart. And friend, I wish you the best of luck. If there is such a thing as a hereafter and it is possible for a person in the other world to do a good turn for one in this one you'll be one of them I'll favor. Mr. Bain, please tell Mrs. Campbell the same."

Mrs. Campbell, according to Bain, was Lackshan's landlady in Burbank.

WITHOUT FRIENDS

"Mr. Bain, it may be difficult for you to see," the note continued, "that I am not a coward for doing what I have done. But believe me, friend, I'm not a criminal at heart. Everything I've done, which was very little, I have done with difficulty and sorrow. I have no business writing you the above lines as you do not know me very well. But being without friends since I was 9 years of age and trying to make a living, one learns more about human nature than the average person.

"So please include me on your list as a friend you have not known. Allow me to tell you a few words about myself. It may stop some other unfortunate boy like me and do him a world of good before he gets in too far. And please, if you can, clear my name and my picture of something I had not done when I was sent to San Quentin.

ARREST CITED

"I was under 17 years of age and was arrested in Hanford for stealing a car, when, at that time, I could not drive one of any kind. A boy I knew, two years older than myself and named Longenbe, had a car and asked me to accompany him to San Francisco. Later it was overturned and we were arrested. The officers did not believe that I was not with him at the time he stole the car. So I pleaded guilty as he asked me to go up with him—and got three years.

"I was later convicted for forgery. I was guilty. Working in the mines of Utah I became ill from the dust. Came back to California to pass bad checks. I am not saying this through my weakness, but I want my mother to know that her son is not a criminal. I haven't seen her since early in 1914. She has been in Europe. She works for a living. Gives money to a priest to pray for me and bring me back to her. There isn't a chance.

"The lights are out in my cell. That is why I will end it.

[Signed.]

"JACK G. LACKSHAN."

PROBATE OF HALDEMAN'S WILL ASKED

Widow Will Get Income During Her Lifetime; Value Not Estimated

The will of Harry M. Haldeman, Los Angeles business leader, who dropped dead while on the witness stand in Superior Judge Eng's court last Monday, was filed for probate by the widow, Mrs. Viola Haldeman of 1732 North Wilton Place, yesterday afternoon.

Attorneys Swanwick & Donnelly, who are attorneys of record, said they could not estimate the value of the estate. Legal technicalities were observed by the statement that its value is "more than $10,000."

Mrs. Haldeman is left the income of the property, held as a trust estate, during her lifetime. After her death it is to be divided equally among three children, Harry P. Haldeman of 711 Maple Drive, Beverly Hills; Mrs. Josephine H. Fitger of 812 North Foothill Boulevard, Beverly Hills, and Mrs. Dorothy H. Webb of 8418 West Fourth street. The four heirs are named as joint trustees, and there are contained in the will minute technical directions for the administration of the estate.

Today's Bible Text

And he that searcheth the hearts knoweth what is the mind of the Spirit, because he maketh intercession for the saints according to the will of God.—Romans viii, 27.

SHELLING OUT
Paying up back income taxes and fines appears to have become a habit among our cinema people. A capital crime, as it were!

CONSCIENCE
An Egyptologist traces the birth of conscience to a period about 2000 B. C. That would seem to be going a long ways back for data.

WANT AD
"Wanted—Two women to take orders." It has been running in the want-ad columns for some time; so they seem to be hard to get. Possibly they want to give 'em.

ZERO
A scientist says that a temperature of 453 deg. below zero has been achieved. Let the scientists do their darndest. The thermometer is California's biggest booster.

CARS FOR THE NEEDY
A government report says that there are 5,000,000 autos on farms. We may be prejudiced, but we sometimes feel that we are the people who need relief.

TIME WILL TELL
Champions flash like new stars in the tennis firmament and then die out, but old "Bill" Tilden refuses to be extinguished. If he lives long enough we may see him at the height of his brilliance once more.

WHY SPOIL THE FUN?
Court of Appeals raps District Attorney for winning a case by innuendoes. What dull shows our great trials would be if the lawyers were compelled to stick to facts as the witnesses are supposed to do.

HINT TO UNCLE SAM
Canada has one-sixth of its recorded water-power resources at work making horse power. If this country showed as much foresight there would not be as much kicking about power and light bills.

LONG ISLAND DRYING UP
District Attorney of Nassau county, Long Island, turns in a report showing a profit of $20,000, after cost of prosecution has been deducted, from bootlegger fines. But he reports that toward the end of the year business was getting bad and it hasn't picked up much this year.

BUT THEY HAD
The holding up of the entrance into America of a famous organist, invited to give a series of recitals in this country, on the ground that he is blind and might not be able to earn a living, reminds one of the lawyer who visited his client in a city prison and exclaimed, "They can't put you in jail, you've committed no crime."

WON'T STAND SCRUTINY
Leaving a felon's cell, Dr. Frederick A. Cook immediately commands the front page. Even with his prison record behind him, Dr. Cook has thousands of admirers who think he was first to reach the top of the world. But his mathematics in the Arctic were as poor as in his oil dealings.

FLAT
A flat dweller was recently annoyed by the family living above making a racket. He finally rushed upstairs to protest. When the disturber did not seem to take it seriously, he drew a knife and stabbed her twice. This should be a sad warning to all flat dwellers.

NOT SO BAD
Answering the Stimson note suggestion that China reform her courts, a Shanghai weekly expresses the hope that the Powers keep after China until her courts have the best system in the world and hopes that the American bar will then send a commission to China to study that system with the object of developing a model system in America. There is many a true thing said in jest.

INCOME-TAX DAY
Thanks to the war and the Sixteenth Amendment today is income-tax day—the last for the filing of returns by those whose taxes bulk large enough so that the interest on them for a few days is a worth-while item, and by those unfortunate individuals who always put everything off till the last moment. Since the latter far outnumber the former, most of the jam, the stew and the rush that today will bring forth can be laid to their account. Most of those who love their peace of mind have had their returns filed and taxes paid, in part, at least, for weeks.

The first income-tax payments of 1930 are more than usually interesting since they will, when sufficient time for tabulating them has elapsed, answer the question of how much last fall's stock crash affected the national revenues. In last year's collections, about $300,000,000 of the intake was estimated by Secretary Mellon to be due to stock-market winnings. Losses actually incurred in the crash are deductible, and if these exceeded the net income for 1929 the excess may be carried over and applied to reduction of the taxable income for 1930 and 1931, so that the full effect will not appear in this year's returns. It must be remembered, however, that in so far as there were actual money losses and not merely paper losses, these were balanced in large part by gains by speculators on the bear side, who will have to pay tax if they realized their profits during 1929. The incomes of brokers who were not also speculators must have been enlarged by the vast volume of transactions during the year, since the broker collects his commission without regard to how the market behaves, and taxes paid on brokers' incomes will help to make up any deficiencies.

There is expected to be also a great increase in the corporation taxes. One large statistics corporation estimated the profits of 600-odd companies, during 1929, at 17 per cent more than in 1928. On this basis, even with the Christmas-present reduction in rate allowed by President Hoover and Congress, corporation income taxes will produce $150,000,000 more than in 1928.

All told, therefore, it will be surprising if the income-tax yields are cut much more than, say, $100,000,000, which, with the $160,000,000 reduction through a drop in the rate, will still not endanger the estimated surplus.

The personal income tax brought in about 27 per cent of the government's revenue last year, the corporation income tax 31 per cent and customs collections only 15 per cent. The tariff and alcohol and tobacco taxes were the mainstays of the Federal Treasury before the war.

The income-tax figures which the Treasury Department will be able to compile after today will undoubtedly be the basis for a new revenue act which the next session of Congress probably will consider. Such an act cannot well be framed until the effect of the tariff bill with which Congress is now struggling becomes apparent, and yet some changes in the individual and corporation rates will probably be found desirable. The slash of 1 per cent from the normal rate, from which taxpayers are now benefitting, applies only this year, and next year, unless a new rate is adopted, taxes will be back on the 1929 schedule. Business conditions between now and next December, when the present Congress holds its short session, will affect the result.

THE NINTH PLANET
Finding of a ninth planet, years after its existence had been determined mathematically, is a new feather in the cap of astronomical science and a new wonder of the universe. Such discoveries do not come with frequency—it is nearly eighty-four years since the existence of Neptune was verified; and in fact, only three planetary strangers have been introduced by astronomers in the past 300 years. This one was not found until a special instrument had been built for the search and trained upon the skies for nearly a year, and as yet nothing much concerning its course through the heavens has been learned. Its distance has not been definitely computed, but it must be considerably more than 3,000,000,000 miles away, since Neptune is nearly that far.

There need be no doubt of its existence, however, since it has been under observation since January 21, when it was first glimpsed, and its position has repeatedly been checked and verified. That other astronomers throughout the world will be able to find it is not doubted.

The honor of the discovery belongs, of course, to Prof. Percival Lowell, who began the mathematical search, for it in 1905 and announced his results in 1914. Dr. Lowell is dead, but the verification of the soundness of his work must give great satisfaction to his living friends and to those to whom he turned over his observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz. These will presumably have a say in naming the newly discovered member of the sun's family, which, if precedent is followed, will be tagged with some designation drawn from pagan mythology. It would be more appropriate to name it for its discoverer. The Greco-Roman gods and heroes mean very little to the present-day world; the Lowells, Newtons, Einsteins, Millikans and their like a great deal.

But, whatever it may be called, it will have to be accepted into the family of planets. Nothing else can be done about it.

A MUNICIPAL KILLJOY
The gratification felt by the citizens of San Francisco over the city's recent purchase of the Spring Valley waterworks has been dampened somewhat by the discovery that in acquiring the property they knocked $8,620,889 off the assessment roll of the city and county and that the taxes paid on this assessment will now have to be paid by the people.

Although this fact must have been known to the deal's promoters, it has only just been brought to the attention of the generality of citizens, who now realize more fully than ever what public ownership of utilities entails.

For about twenty years it was dinned into the ears of the people of San Francisco that municipal ownership and control of street railways, gas, electric light and power, telephones and water supply would lighten the tax burden, as the income from them would pay all the costs of the local government—it might even do away with the tax levy altogether. The precise reverse of this has been true. The municipal railway, for example, as a lifter of tax burdens has been a financial failure. If it had paid taxes it would have helped out a little, but it never has paid any and will not do so until there is a change in the law exempting municipally owned utilities from such a levy. Private property owners have had to pay for the street paving between the tracks as well as for all pavement repairs incident to the maintenance of the lines. And now the citizens are faced with the unpleasant prospect of having to pay $600,000 extra taxes to meet the interest and provide for a sinking fund to retire the railway bonds.

San Francisco now has more than 10,000 employees, many of them working for the Municipal Railway, and if the Market-street lines are acquired, which is now proposed, there will be added 3000 more. The water acquisition will add about 500 immediately and add many others in the course of time, as it generally requires two municipal employees to do the work of one on a privately owned utility.

Worse still—and here is the bitter pill that San Francisco will have to swallow—with 15,000 employees, which are now figured upon as the number five years hence, there will be at least 30,000 voters to help block any plan of relief from municipal ownership that may be presented at a local election, or to make any change whatsoever that might reduce the number.

As a shining example of how not to run public utilities that of San Francisco hardly can be matched elsewhere.

RAILROAD CROSSINGS
Decision by a United States Appellate Court that a railroad track in itself is a danger signal will not prevent fools from trying to "beat the train." In Australia, anyone caught inside the right of way during the passage of a train is guilty of a misdemeanor. But then Australia has high gates over all crossings that remain closed a sufficient time to prevent accidents to automobiles. The American wigwag will never be as effective as the "foolproof" gate.

DOING HER BIT
Elinor Smith climbed up six miles from the earth and only stopped going when her gas lines froze. The modern girl, not bound by the conventions that handicapped her sister of a generation ago, is just as fearless a pioneer into the realms of scientific research as her brother.

The LEE SIDE O' LA

AS WE gather it, most of these queer cult-followers are not full-privileged members of the sects. They are merely in sects.

Sound Investments

Our little neighborhood theater has gone talkie and we are watching anxiously to see if this investment in sound is a sound investment. The patronage of the neighborhood theater hardly justifies the expense, but the optimistic owner believes that if he puts in sound equipment he will get more patronage. At least, that is the way he argues with himself. The simple fact is that he has put a good deal of money into that business and he must either put in a good deal more or close up, now that most of the pace-setting theaters have gone talkie.

His lot is the common lot of all the small-house owners. We believe a big, fine, downtown theater—one at least—could advertise "Silent pictures only—positively no talkies" and be sure of good crowds as long as it had good shows. There are plenty of people in the big city who prefer silent pictures. But the nearer you get to the sticks the more up to date you must be or your public will be insulted. So many and many a little picture house man who can't afford is is putting in sound equipment. They are the real heroes of the business world just now. To make good to those they are serving they are sailing out on Lindbergh flights over perilous financial seas. Rather than be quitters a good many of them are risking disaster. Let us hope the communities for which they are daring so much will rally 'round them loyally.

A Plea For Warning

We wish to second the motion made by a Beverly Hills critic the other day that there be fewer "horizontal love scenes" in screen shows. The average motion-picture producer seems to be a gent of such high and lofty purposes that he doesn't care how moral—even preachy—the ending of a show is, just so he can get in a couple of scenes which are nice and suggestive. It would only be fair, before presenting some of these scenes, if an announcer would step out on the stage and ask, by way of warning: "Are there any ladies—or gentlemen—present?"

How Much Worse Things Might Be!

Let those love it who can,
But should newspapers take up
The radio plan
We'd be blessed by this make-up:

WASHINGTON.—After a long and bitter struggle, the Senate today passed a tariff bill entirely satisfactory to all factions. The principal provisions follow:

Let us take this opportunity of reminding you that Skinner-Gyme face powder and massage cream will make even the oldest face look young.

Or the sport lover's thrills
Would be greatly enhanced
If the news inspired chills
In this manner advanced:

NEW YORK.—What will go into history as the greatest ring battle of the decade came to an unexpected and dramatic climax in the last minute of the ninth round last night.

This broadcast, ladies and gentlemen, is being brought to you through the courtesy of Hookem's Hair Restorer, the one and only restorer guaranteed to bring back to even the longest-bald head as much hair as it was born with. You can get Hookem's at all drug stores, or direct from the company's main offices. Remember the name, Hookem's, H-o-o-k-e-m-postrophe-s.

And the country's suspense
Would be lifted, no doubt,
To a height most immense
When reports thus came out:

LOS ANGELES.—Charles Spencer Chaplin today lost control of an airplane he was piloting, alone, when it was about three miles above the highest point of Mt. Wilson. Though he had never before driven a plane, Chaplin leaped into one and set sail in sheer desperation when he found himself surrounded by a bevy of very young and irresistibly beautiful gold diggers.

Motion-picture exhibitors, representing a chain of 1200 houses, report that the talkies are here to stay, that "the cash customer will accept no others today." As the box office rules the film world, every silent film from now on, that proves successful, will have to create something new in the world of entertainment.

EXPLODING A MYTH
By James J. Montague

I have several friends in the real estate game,
And a few in the furniture trade;
I know many people whose object and aim
Is the selling of buttons and braid.
Some acquaintances ply a stock-broking career,
With a zest that seems ardently fired,
And so I am somewhat surprised when I hear
That business men always are tired.

As a youngster I served as a grocery clerk
For a man who awoke me at six
And kept me till nine in the wearying work
Of waiting on people called "hicks."
I was pretty well spent by that time of the night,
And he always allowed I was lazy,
But he was awake in the dawn's early light,
As fresh as a dew-sprinkled daisy.

A dealer in cars, whom I see every day,
Comes and talks with me early and late,
Alight with a hope which will not fade away
That he'll sell me a new super-eight.
He fatigues me with sales talk and reasons to buy,
Until I'm completely worn out,
But that I shall yield to his hypnotic eye
I haven't the ghost of a doubt.

Some lawyers, I know who must now and then rest
From their trying professional cares,
Some doctors who lose their devotion and zest
And sink in a heap in their chairs.
A poet will now and then halt in his lines,
For he cannot be always inspired;
I have known a few worn-out and weary divines,
But business men never get tired!

THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA
Under the Direction of Dean Rockwell Hunt

XI

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL
BY DEAN ROCKWELL D. HUNT

In his great Commemoration Day address at Johns Hopkins University years ago, Hon. Seth Low dwelt upon the national and international reputation brought to the city of Baltimore by the university. "I marvel," said he, "at the achievement of less than twenty years. If any argument were needed to demonstrate the fitness of a city to be the home of a university, your experience would supply it. I wonder if the people of Baltimore are alive to the fame that is theirs by reason of the work that Johns Hopkins University has done in their midst. The city ought to cherish the university as the apple of its eye."

It is a significant fact that most great American universities are blessed with the city environment. The city contributes to the university numerous factors and facilities that are of the utmost importance. Johns Hopkins University could hardly have achieved its unparalleled reputation for scholarly research without the great Peabody Institute Library of Baltimore; Columbia has been vastly enriched by such artistic and scientific collections as those found in the Metropolitan Museum; the literary fame of Harvard is indissolubly linked with the culture of Boston. Southern California has resisted all inducements to leave the city in order to obtain a spacious campus—it elects to be and remain a university in the midst of the city of Los Angeles.

On the other hand, the university in a city must richly reciprocate by projecting its liberalizing activities helpfully into the community. The citizens have a right to look to the university for light and guidance in the applications of modern science, in questions of industrial betterment, in cultural and artistic contacts and in great civic and social objectives. The university must respond to requests to assist in the erection and maintenance of standards of merit and efficiency worthy of its high calling; it must ever shed abroad an atmosphere of social idealism. In the words of Prof. Richard T. Ely, "Nothing pertaining to citizenship can be regarded as foreign to the twentieth-century university." The city university, being in the very midst of active life, holds a superior point of vantage because of its dispassionate, scientific attitude and occupies a position from which "its influence can proceed farthest and with least resistance."

It is only within the last two decades that the University of Southern California has begun to appropriate to itself the full meaning of the term "university." The appointment of the graduate council in 1910 by President George F. Bovard to have general oversight of the newly constituted graduate department, may be said to mark the advent of the University (properly speaking) of Southern California. To be sure it had already developed the beginnings of a group of strong professional schools and had from its foundation borne the university name. But only with the establishment of the graduate department did it announce its final determination fully to live up to its name, to assume the ample proportions of its stature as a university. It now justifiably feels that much genuine progress has been made.

The members of the original graduate council of the university, to whom oversight of the graduate department was intrusted, were: James Harmon Hoose, chairman; Thomas B. Stowell, Edward A. Von Fingerlin, Gilbert E. Bailey, James Main Dixon and Rockwell D. Hunt, secretary. The graduate work continued to expand and the number of candidates for masters' degrees to increase until with the academic year 1929-1930 the following schools and departments were offering majors for the master's degree: Botany, chemistry, civil engineering, commerce, comparative literature, economics, education, electrical engineering, English, French, geology, German, history, Latin, mathematics, music, philosophy, physical education, physics, political science, psychology, religion, sociology, Spanish, speech, zoology.

In order more adequately to meet the increasing demands for graduate study, the university trustees, in January, 1920, authorized the establishment of the graduate school of arts and sciences. The graduate council had been enlarged from time to time as additional departments and divisions announced graduate work. This governing body, now known as the council on graduate study and research, at present comprises the following members: Rufus B. von Kleinsmid, president; Rockwell D. Hunt, chairman; Theron Clark, secretary; Lewis Darwin Ames, Herbert D. Austin, Bruce R. Baxter, Philip Sheridan Biegler, Emory S. Bogardus, Mary Sinclair Crawford, Howard de Forest, Claude C. Douglas, John F. Fisher, Ralph T. Flewelling, Lewis Eugene Ford, Allison Gaw, Frank H. Carver, John G. Hill, Reid L. McClung, Irene McCulloch, Roy Malcom, Justin Miller, Arthur W. Nye, William Francis Rice, Lawrence M. Riddle, Lester B. Rogers, Laird J. Stabler, Ernest W. Tiegs, Frank C. Touton, Karl T. Waugh. With the organization of the school of education and of the college of commerce and business administration and the reorganization of the school of religion, and in view of the consequent need of co-ordinating the divisions of the ever-increasing graduate work, the trustees of the university in 1923 established the graduate school of the university, to take the place of the graduate school of arts and sciences, to function with respect to the graduate work throughout all departments and divisions of the university. In June, 1928, a further change in administration was made when the trustees voted that the school of education be thenceforth regarded as a distinctly professional school, operating on the same general basis as the school of law and the school of medicine. All academic or non-professional graduate work continues under the jurisdiction of the graduate school, whose policies are formulated by the council on graduate study and research.

In the fall of 1922 the graduate students of the university effected an organization under the title, Associated Students of the Graduate School, a title which was changed in 1928 to Associated Graduate Students of the University of Southern California. The purpose of this organization is "to insure a co-operative spirit and to secure an acquaintance and better understanding between the graduate students representing the colleges and universities of this and other countries." All graduate students of the university are eligible to membership and are accorded official representation in the associated students of the university. In addition to a limited number of social occasions and weekly luncheons, there are provided each year by the administration special opportunities for members of the graduate student body to meet and hear visiting scholars of national and international eminence.

Within a few years graduate work was being conducted not only in the respective departments of letters, arts and sciences, but likewise in commerce, education, engineering, international relations, law, music, religion, speech and social welfare. Still other schools of the university are contemplating establishing graduate work in the immediate future. It thus became the function of the graduate school to harmonize and coordinate the strictly graduate activities throughout the university, exercising general control by defining general policies within which the respective minor divisions should conduct their work.

The members of the body of Associated Graduate Students of the University represent a surprisingly wide distribution both academic and geographical. Graduates from many scores of institutions from all parts of the United States as well as from universities and colleges from many foreign lands of both hemispheres are found here, making the graduate school one of the most cosmopolitan in character to be found anywhere.

The doctorate in philosophy (Ph.D. degree) is a badge of scholarship presupposing the graduate attitude, that of promising the high qualities of intellectual leadership among students and masters, but proceeding upward to the role of discoverer and creator. The young scholar is zealous in ever-increasingly independent endeavor, thereby supporting his claim to a fuller recognition of his university colleagues as well as of the goodly company of scholars everywhere.

In the spring of 1924 the important official announcement was made that properly qualified applicants would be received in a limited number of departments for the degree of doctor of philosophy, but that no student could be actually admitted to candidacy previous to May, 1925. The first candidate to complete all requirements was awarded the degree in June, 1927. To this date the doctorate has been conferred upon candidates with principal work in the following departments: Chemistry, 1; education, 5; philosophy, 1; sociology, 6. Applicants have now been admitted to formal candidacy in several other departments and the list of available departments is being extended as rapidly as is consistent with the establishment and maintenance of thoroughly satisfactory standards.

An important part of the requirement for the doctor of philosophy degree, which demands a minimum of three years of graduate study, is the dissertation, or thesis, which must show technical mastery of a special field and undoubted power of research and is expected in every instance to reveal a high type of independent scholarly ability. In his final doctoral examination the candidate is called upon to expound and defend his thesis in the presence of his committee on studies and others who are in attendance. From 1911 to 1929, inclusive, the following graduate degrees have been conferred: Master of arts, 839; master of arts in education, 396; master of science, 47; master of science in chemical engineering, 1; master of science in electrical engineering, 1; master of science in civil engineering, 3; master of music, 4; master of business administration, 22; electrical engineer, 2; master of theology, 20; doctor of philosophy, 13.

Street of Monuments

"Victoria Embankment, London," writes "Looker-On" in the London Daily Chronicle, "may well hold the world's record for monuments in any thoroughfare of the same length. For variety, too, it takes a lot of surpassing. Monarchy is represented at each extremity by queens; Victoria at Blackfriars and Boadicea at Westminster. In between are statesmen, scholars, poets, soldiers, journalists, musicians and composite memorials. Everybody, of course, 'knows all about it.' Yet I doubt if one person in ten could put on paper six of the names of deeds represented."

RIPPLING RHYMES by Walt Mason
GREAT PRIVILEGE
It is indeed a precious thing to have the right to go to a saloon and spend your rubles there, for every coin for which you toiled so hard, erecting fences by the yard, on rainy days and nights and days. You need a headache powder? In trade, you'd like to have a tablet decayed, a "mother's-day" taste; a taste that's like the bilge in ships, a taste to make you gag at your lips, extending to the waist. You'd like to throw me your cash as though it were the merest trash, as though it grew on trees; you'd like to have me on stoups of suds 'em things your wife be lacking duds and ointment for her knees. You like a pannikin of gin, and like the tyrant law steps in, and says, "You cannot buy; you cannot blow your hard-earned pence, it is a criminal offense to deal in gin or rye." You rise, your face is being ground by tyrant heels, your brain is sound, and bitter thoughts you think; the law exclaims, "Oh, whiz! Gadsook! There always is the babbling brook at which to get a drink." It seems a shame that you are well and you are sound as any bell, without a pain or ache; it seems a fearful plight to be soundly through the nuke and whistle when you want to. It's disgusting to reflect that then the wages you collect you put a portion down; it's not to buy your children dressed in pants and jackets neatly pressed, your wife in a new gown. It's fine to have enough to eat, the merchants up and down the street quite glad to see you trade because you're never in the time—kept sober by the beastly crime the Volstead put displayed. Oh, for the good old happy days when men could ease their divers ways, to pop in here and there, and buy the ruin by the drink, and feel the anacondas pink, and fish with brindled hair.

Health and Diet Advice
By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fun Way to Health"

NERVE CONTROL

Many people fly hither and thither from one thing to another like bees among a bed of blossoms, but with this difference—that the bee has a definite purpose and gathers honey, but these people do not accomplish anything because they do not stick to one purpose.

Aimless drifting or restlessness, or interminably talking without saying anything, are indications of poor nerve training and control. Very few people have developed the ability to sit still and relax or to conserve energy for definite accomplishment.

Almost everyone wastes vitality and energy by numerous purposeless movements caused by nervous habits. Some of these habits may be listed as follows: Restless movements of the hands and feet or head; inability to sit still; shrugging of the shoulders; swinging the legs; tapping with the toes or fingers; inability to concentrate; worrying about making a costly error or irretrievable mistake; lighting a cigarette only to throw it away and light another; trembling of the lips or hands; flying off the handle and not indulging in tantrums; continual chewing of gum, candy, toothpicks or matches, etc.; inability to sleep soundly, and the habit of allowing such destructive emotions as envy, fear and jealousy to gain power.

Nervous people usually have a combination of several of these methods for wasting energy. It seems that the body only manufactures a certain amount of energy a day, and when this is wasted through useless nervous habits there is not enough left for the really important things of life.

Sometimes these habits are very difficult to correct because the nerves may be irritated by toxic substances in the blood stream, or the nerves may actually seem to develop the routine habit of dissipating the nervous energy through these wasteful channels as soon as it forms.

In attempting to overcome nervousness, it is highly important to pay strict attention to the diet. All drugs, stimulants and irritants must be rigorously excluded as should the sugars and starches, at least for a time, as carbohydrates tend to stimulate the nervous system. A special effort should be made to use a diet rich in fresh vegetables; also proteins, such as meat and fish; or a diet of fruits and raw milk. It is also a good plan to try to rest and relax for about twenty-five minutes in the middle of the day away from phones and callers. Keep the eyes closed and breathe deeply during this time and try to retire early.

It is a good plan to go to a gymnasium, or to engage in some outdoor athletics at least once or twice each week. When you desire entertainment, seek the more wholesome kind, such as a show, a good book or games.

It may take some time before you are able to control your nervous habits, but the reward of a calm mind and the feeling of power is certainly worth the effort which is required.

TAKE this big package of soap bubbles in your left hand. Take this smaller package of White King in your right. Which is the heavier? . . . Well, you see how it is!
The answer is that White King's granulated and condensed form permits it to pack closer in the carton, like powdered sugar. So you really get more soap from the smaller package.

Health and Diet Advice

NERVE CONTROL

Some people fly hither and thither from one thing to another like bees in search of a bed of blossoms, but there is a difference—that the bee has a definite purpose and gathers honey, but these people do not accomplish anything because they do not direct to one purpose.

Restlessness, drifting or restlessness, aimlessly talking without saying anything, are indications of poor nerve training and control. Very few people have developed the ability to sit still and relax or to conserve energy for definite accomplishment.

Almost everyone wastes vitality and energy by numerous purposeless movements caused by nervous habits. Some of these habits may be listed as follows: Restless movements of the hands and feet or body; inability to sit still; shrugging of the shoulders; swinging the foot; playing with the toes or fingers; inability to concentrate; worrying about making a costly error or irretrievable mistake; lighting a cigarette only to throw it away and light another; trembling of the lips and hands; flying off the handle and indulging in tantrums; continuous chewing of gum, candy, toothpicks or matches, etc.; inability to work steadily, and the habit of allowing such destructive emotions as fear and jealousy to gain control.

Some people usually have a combination of several of these habits for wasting energy. It seems that the body only manufactures a certain amount of energy a day, and when this is wasted through useless nervous habits there is not enough left for the really important things of life.

Sometimes these habits are very difficult to correct because the nerves may be irritated by toxic poisons in the blood stream, or the nerves may actually seem to develop the routine habit of dissipating the nervous energy through some wasteful channels as soon as it forms.

In attempting to overcome nervousness, it is highly important to give strict attention to the diet. All foods, stimulants and irritants must be strictly excluded as should the sugars and starches, at least for a time, as carbohydrates tend to irritate the nervous system. A special effort should be made to eat a diet rich in fresh vegetables; fruits, such as meat and fish, or a diet of fruits and raw foods. It is also a good plan to try to rest and relax for about twenty-minute intervals in the middle of the day away from phones and callers. Keep the eyes closed and breathe deeply during this time and try to relax easily.

It is a good plan to go to a gymnasium, or to engage in some outdoor athletics at least once or twice each week. When you desire entertainment, seek the more wholesome kind, such as a show, a good book or games.

It may take some time before you are able to control your nervous habits, but the reward of a calm mind and the feeling of power is certainly worth the effort which is required.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 9 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle caps. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

FEAR OR PHYSICAL DISCOMFORT MAY CAUSE NIGHT TERRORS

Night terrors occur not infrequently from 2 years on, and most parents have had some experience with them. The child awakens out of a sound sleep with a sharp cry, sits up in bed, staring into space and screaming in fear. Sometimes he has to be shaken awake, talked to quietly and comforted before he will stop his sobbing and lie down again.

If the child is under 2, the causes are probably purely physical. Conditions usually to blame are poor ventilation, restricting bed clothing which may be too heavy or tight or hot, and sleeping with other persons. Each of these furnishes an impediment to the child's free movements and he tries, in his sleep, to escape them.

Another physical cause is an overgrowth of adenoid tissue. These growths are in the throat at the base of the nose, and if enlarged they crowd the nose and obstruct free breathing. When the child's mouth falls shut in sleep, he feels strangled and suffocated and screams out, struggling against the terrifying emotion of smothering.

REMEDY SITUATION AT ONCE

If the young child suffers frequently from night terrors, have his nose and throat examined, and adjust his sleeping garments. To be weighed down by layers of heavy blankets or quilts will cause any child acute discomfort. Sleeping bags offer a simple solution for restless children. Inside of one, the child is warm and comfortable, yet able to move freely in any direction.

The older child is constantly meeting new experiences. Perhaps he is constantly warned of this and that possible danger by overcautious parents; perhaps threatened by parents in order to effect obedience. His world may be surrounded by so many terrors that they follow him into his dreams.

What reasons for fear could accumulate in the child's daily experiences? Older companions may be frightening the child for the pleasure they derive from his shivers of fear. Mothers inadvertently read stories to the children that might not ordinarily cause a child fear in the daytime, but which at night people his dreams with ogres and monsters.

Through ignorance and inexperience, children have secret terrors which they never express to grown-ups. One adult told me that she remembers clearly her first two years in school for she was constantly afraid. If the teacher spoke to her she was frightened, she had no idea of what. Another said he once accidentally pulled down a curtain in school and when the teacher called for the janitor, he thought probably he was to be murdered. Such experiences seem laughable, but to the small child they assume a terrifying reality.

Inquire First

When moving to a new section of the city or suburbs, be sure to inquire what type electric current is used before purchasing electrical equipment. There is a "direct" current and an "alternating" current and articles intended for one current cannot be used on the other type without being altered by an electrician.

A Sure Set

If the milk that is heating for junket should accidentally boil, let it cool to the lukewarm temperature for junket, add the tablet and it will be just as good as usual. Only never add the tablet until the milk has cooled, as junket will not set with hot or even warm milk.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

RHUBARB PUDDING

One and one-half pounds of rhubarb, two tablespoonfuls of gelatine, half a cupful of water, one-third of a cupful of lemon juice, one cupful of sugar, peel and cut up the rhubarb, and place in a saucepan, with the sugar and water, when cooked rub the rhubarb through a sieve. Add the strained rhubarb and return to the fire, when hot stir in the gelatine, which has been dissolved in a little cold water, and thoroughly dissolve in the hot mixture. Pour into a mold that has been wet with cold water, and allow to stand in the ice box until firm. Serve either with whipped cream or a soft custard.

BAKING-POWDER BISCUITS

Two cupfuls of flour that has been sifted, before measuring, five teaspoonfuls of baking powder, four tablespoonfuls of butter, one-half a teaspoonful of salt, and two teaspoonfuls of sugar. Sift the dry ingredients together and chop in the butter, when the mixture is like coarse meal, add from one to two-thirds of a cupful of milk, place on a well-floured board, handle as lightly as possible, roll out one-half an inch in thickness, cut with a biscuit cutter, place in a well-oiled pan, brush over with melted butter or milk and bake in a hot oven.

RICE AND SHRIMPS

Place in a deep saucepan six tablespoonfuls of oil, heat and add one-half a cupful of chopped cooked ham, one chopped clove of garlic, one medium sized onion, chopped fine, one finely chopped green pepper, and one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, allow to cook for five minutes, or until the onnion is soft, then stir in one cupful of well-washed rice, and one-third of a cupful of Italian tomato paste, and two cupfuls of meat stock. Simmer until the rice is tender, season with salt and paprika, and when the rice is soft, place it in the oven for a few minutes to dry out. Sprinkle over it two or more tablespoonfuls of grated Parmesan cheese. Place on a hot platter, sprinkle over it a little chopped parsley and surround it with shrimps, that have been washed, and heated in butter; crab meat or lobster may be substituted for the shrimps.

ANGEL FOOD PIE

Mix two cupfuls of sifted powdered sugar with salf a cupful of potato or rice flour, add one cupful of finely ground blanched almonds, beat the whites of seven eggs until stiff and dry, and fold into it the sugar and flour mixture, flavor with a teaspoonful of any desired extract. Line a deep pie dish with a good flaky pastry. Brush the bottom with beaten egg white, and cover with a layer of apricot jam. Pour in the egg mixture and bake in a medium oven.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for recipes are answered in the department, PRACTICAL RECIPES, published every Friday.—(All rights to reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.)

PLANS MADE FOR ORANGE SHOW QUEEN

Beautiful Young Woman of Southland to Be Chosen for Event at Anaheim

The Southland's most beautiful young woman will be chosen to reign as queen over the annual Valencia Orange Show at Anaheim this year, according to plans announced yesterday.

The queen will be selected following a series of elimination contests and will be crowned at a fiesta in Anaheim immediately preceding the opening of the show in May, at which time a group of young women will be chosen by the judges from runners-up in the contest to serve as princesses in the court of honor.

Marking the end of the greatest citrus crop season in the history of Southern California, the annual exhibition at Anaheim this year is scheduled to rank high.

The contest for the selection of the orange show queen is open to any young woman resident of Southern California. Entrance may be made in the contest by mailing photographs to the Valencia Orange Show headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce Building at Anaheim, or to the Los Angeles offices of th eshow at 1044-46 Subway Terminal Building, 417 South Hill street, or by calling at the latter offices. If no photograph is available arrangements may be made to have a picture taken at the expense of the show by calling at the Los Angeles offices.

The exhibition will open May 22 and close June 1.

Haldeman Death Causes Delay in Dinner at Club

Out of respect to the memory of Harry M. Haldeman, who died last Monday, a dinner scheduled to have been given at the Los Angeles Athletic Club last night in honor of Frank A. Garbutt, vice-president of the club, was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. Haldeman, Bernal Dyas and G. E. Berghom were originally in charge of arrangements for the dinner, which was to be a tribute to Garbutt's service and devotion to the club and at which a life-size painting of him was to have been unveiled. The dinner will be held at a date to be announced later.

Atherton Rites Will Be Today

Funeral services for Joseph Atherton, who died Wednesday as a result of a complication of diseases, will be conducted at 8:15 a.m. today at the family residence, 1110 Third avenue, with requiem mass following at 9 a.m. at St. Gregory's Church. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Atherton, who was 55 years of ago, was a native of Birmingham, Eng., but had been a resident of Los Angeles for many years. He had been ill for more than a year.

Besides his widow, Mr. Atherton leaves his brothers, Bert and William Atherton, his sisters, Miss Winifred Atherton and Mrs. Howard J. Sell, and his nieces, Miss Winifred Sell and Mrs. J. Walter, all of Birmingham, Eng.

MISSIONS TO BE TOPIC OF MUSEUM LECTURE

Mrs. Lou K. Ross of Pasadena will lecture on "The Missions and Romance of Southern California" at the Southwest Museum in Highland Park tomorrow at 3 p.m. She will present a brief history of the seven missions of Southern California from San Diego to Santa Barbara from the time of their foundation, through the period of their downfall, to the condition in which we find them today. The lecture will be illustrated with colored slides made from pictures of old paintings and drawings representing early history, and from photographs showing the later events and present conditions of the missions of Southern California.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

SAMMY JAY LEARNS THE WHOLE SECRET

I pray you to this truth attend:
You can no broken promise mend.
—Old Mother Nature.

Sammy Jay was chuckling noiselessly. Quite by accident he had made a discovery. He had seen a tail—a long, slim tail—hanging from the lower part of a big wasps' nest that was in a bush on the edge of the Green Forest. He had seen that tail withdraw, so he knew that the owner of that tail was inside that wasps' nest.

"I think I know whose tail that was," said Sammy to himself. "Yes, sir, I think I know whose tail that was. If that wasn't the tail of Whitefoot the Wood Mouse, then I don't know the tail of a wood mouse when I see one. I wish he would put that tail down again."

Just as if Whitefoot had heard that wish expressed, he lowered that telltale tail of his through his little round doorway once more. There it hung. You see, Whitefoot was careless once more. Sammy Jay chuckled. Then he spread his wings and flew down and alighted close behind that telltale tail. Reaching out quickly, he seized a tip of it in his bill and pinched it. He pinched hard, too, did Sammy Jay.

Things happened hard and fast. That tail was withdrawn in a hurry and in its place appeared a pretty little head with large black eyes, in which were mingled fright and anger.

"Hello, Whitefoot!" cried Sammy Jay. "So this is where you are living!"

"Who says I am living here?" retorted Whitefoot. "Can't a fellow visit a wasps' nest without making it his home?"

"Of course he can," replied Sammy good-naturedly. "But that isn't what you are doing. You've been living in that nest all winter. Now, own up, Whitefoot, haven't you?"

"It's no business of yours whether I have or haven't," squeaked Whitefoot angrily. You see, he was very much upset. He was angry because his tail had been pinched; he was angry because his secret had been found out, and he was angry because he had been so careless.

"Hello, Whitefoot!" cried Sammy Jay. "So this is where you are living."

"Oh, it isn't any business of mine," replied Sammy. "You don't have to tell me unless you want to. I guess that Chatterer the Red Squirrel and Peter Rabbit will be surprised when I tell them what I've found out."

Whitefoot forgot all his anger. A troubled look crept over his face. "You don't have to tell, do you, Sammy Jay?" said he.

"I don't have to," replied Sammy, "but this news is too good to keep. Chatterer and Peter have been looking for your home for a long time. They've seen this wasps' nest dozens of times, just as I have, and never guessed that you would be smart enough to make your nest in it. Your nest is in it, isn't it?"

"If I tell you truly, will you promise not to tell anyone else?" Whitefoot asked.

Sammy promised. Then Whitefoot told him how he had discovered that nest at the beginning of winter and how he had built his own home inside it and lived there ever since undisturbed. Sammy Jay admired Whitefoot's smartness and kept his word. So to this day Peter Rabbit and Chatterer the Red Squirrel still wonder where Whitefoot's home was all through the winter.

REED DIRECTS R.-K.-O. MUSICAL

Green and Oakie to Co-Star in Lasky College Film; Beryl Mercer Wins Big Role in Fox Picture; Silver King Returning to Screen

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Now that William LeBaron has returned from New York, one may expect many interesting announcements in regard to future R.-K.-O activities.

LUTHER REED

One of the most important announcements is that he has purchased for R.-K.-O. the film talk and music rights to that fascinating old musical comedy, "Babes in Toyland."

Luther Reed, who has directed so many of R.-K.-O.'s most successful films, including "Rio Rita," is to direct "Babes in Toyland."

This musical lends itself to endless whimsy and spectacular and comic effects, and promises to be one of the outstanding features of this year's R.-K.-O. program. So far no cast has been thought of, however, as Reed at present is in the midst of directing "Dixiana," with its all-star cast headed by Bebe Daniels.

LASKY LUMINARIES IN COLLEGE COMEDY

Harry Green is going to Europe as soon as he finishes his work in the current Clara Bow Paramount picture, "True to the Navy."

When he returns he is to be co-featured with Jack Oakie in "Toplipsky of Notre Dame." Jack is to play the role of Harry's nephew and will be a Notre Dame athlete.

JACK OAKIE

The picture is to go into production early in June, with the comedian returning to Hollywood June 6.

Green has long been a vaudeville and musical-comedy favorite. He has lately been appearing in featured roles in Paramount pictures.

Beryl Mercer With Fox

That clever stage star, Beryl Mercer, who also gave such an excellent account of herself in Barrie's "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals," changed to "Seven Days' Leave" by Paramount when that organization transferred it to the screen, has been signed by Fox.

BERYL MERCER

Miss Mercer is to have the role of Mrs. Neal in "Common Clay," a featured role, as anyone who saw the play will readily remember, and one calling for some strong acting. Miss Mercer is a noted actress of the English and New York stages.

Constance Bennett will have the leading feminine role, and Victor Fleming will direct.

Another player signed for an important part is Purnell B. Pratt, who has been signed for the role of Richard Fullerton.

M.-G.-M. Has Tower of Babel

It does seem as though a Tower of Babel were about to be one of the features of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

According to announcement made yesterday, M.-G.-M. disclosed that that organization plans to produce a picture simultaneously in five different tongues. The languages are English, French, German, Spanish and Italian, and the name of the picture is "Monsieur Le Fox."

GILBERT ROLAND

Gilbert Roland has been borrowed to portray the male lead in the picture. He will play the role in at least two languages, English and Spanish.

The picturization will also mark the affiliation of Hal M. Roach with the M.-G.-M. organization in the role of director. Mr. Roach will himself direct the undertaking.

Willard Mack wrote "Monsieur Le Fox," it being a story of the Northwest.

Silver King on Screen

Final negotiations bringing back to the screen the famous horse, Silver King, were completed yesterday, when Douglas Dawson and Norman Sper signed with Sono-Art World Wide Films to produce a series of pictures starring the equine actor, to be produced over a period of three years.

"Hello, Silver King" will be the title of the picture, and Dawson will direct it. The picture will be a dialogue affair, but so far no human actors have been chosen.

Dawson and Sper have long been associated with the picture industry, Dawson as director, writer and production manager, and Sper as writer and press agent.

Paul Gregory with Goldwyn

If Sam Goldwyn and Florenz Ziegfeld do not have one of the finest screen productions in "Whoopee," it isn't going to be the fault of the cast. Goldwyn is signing many famous names for the production.

The latest noted name to be annexed by Goldwyn is that of Paul Gregory, one of the best known baritones in musical comedy.

Gregory is a member of the original stage company of "Whoopee," and is now playing with the show, which closes in Cleveland this week. He is coming to the Coast at once, and will be the first member of the "Whoopee" cast to arrive. He has the leading juvenile role.

Born in Miami, Fla., Gregory started his stage career as the male lead in the road company of "Rose Marie." He graduated from that production into a similar role in the Oscar Hammerstein success, "Golden Dawn."

Beatrice Lillie Arriving

Beatrice Lillie is to arrive this morning from New York, accompanied by Grace Moore. Miss Lillie will star in the Fox revue, "Are You There?" and Miss Moore is to play opposite Lawrence Tibbett in his next M.-G.-M. musical.

Ruth Rankin Signs

Ruth Rankin, former writer for Tiffany Productions, has left that organization, and has just signed a contract with First National. At present she is working on Alice White's next story.

Irving Berlin Departs

Irving Berlin is leaving tonight for New York, where he will meet his wife, whom he will bring back to Hollywood with him.

While in the East, Berlin will recruit a number of stage stars to play some of the leading roles in the revue which he has written for United Artists.

"RING" STORY CARRIED ON

"Siegfried" Relates Hero's Conquest of Greed

Sembach Essays Difficult Title Character

Johanna Gadski Brunnhilde; Other Roles Well Done

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Another stage in the progress of "The Ring of the Nibelungen" was accomplished with the production of "Siegfried," third of the music drama series, last night at Shrine Auditorium. The human hero's victory over the designs of the ancient pagan deities, the triumph of courage and love over greed, are portrayed in this elaborate musical work by Richard Wagner.

Johannes Sembach was the protagonist of the action and the song to such a degree that he dominated the scene through the greater part of the production. The role of Siegfried is perhaps the most difficult written for a tenor. Certainly it surpasses any other as to length. Indeed, the third music drama of the "Ring" provides almost a one-man show, and is an endurance test as well.

Johanni Gadski was the Bruenhilde, but is not even awakened until about the middle of the third act, with its two scenes. Consequently except for the notes allotted to the Bird of the Forest in the second act and the Erda excerpt in the third, "Siegfried" is distinctly a work for the male singer. Outstanding are the characters of Mime and the Wanderer (Wotan disguised) though neither is as constantly present as the hero. Mime was exceptionally well enacted, however, by Alexander Larson last evening, who is admirably suited to this role. The Wanderer was often very well sung by Gotthold Ditter. Sonia Sharnova was the Erda, and Edna Zahm the Bird of the Forest. Hans E. Hey appeared as the Dragon and Laurence Pierrot as the Dragon, Fafner.

The performance was of uneven effectiveness vocally. Sembach achieved some distinguishing climaxes, and decidedly gave meaning to the difficult action of his role, but he inclined to sing much of the time in too suppressed a style. One cannot altogether blame a singer if he reserves his voice a bit in "Siegfried" because of its ample dimensions. However, there was a tendency because of the suppression toward tediousness. For all that, Sembach's interpretation was so distinctly authoritative as to be very consistently interesting and colorful.

Mme. Gadski evidenced style in her awakening air and greeting to the sun, and also in the love music that followed this. Tonal weaknesses are to be noted in her voice, and in this type of music are somewhat detracting. Nevertheless, the spirit of her work is so attractive as to capture a strong imaginative interest. The entire mood of the final scene in which she appears with Siegfried is distinctly beautiful. It is regrettable that the lateness of the hour of its arrival takes from it some of its inherent appeal. There is no question but that this opera is unforgivably long.

Larson and Ditter held up their part of the performance very admirably, and were well received when they came to take a bow, as were naturally Sembach and Mme. Gadski. Sembach especially gained an ovation for the Sword Song in the initial act.

Much interest as well went to Ernest Knoch for his excellent score reading. The orchestra seemed more meaningful than usual last evening, partly owing to the fact that the instrumentation especially in the latter part of the music drama is exceedingly rich.

"Siegfried" is a great opera in its musical content and particularly in its weaving of themes. The stage action, particularly in the earlier part of the work is also very interesting. The culminating event is in the second act fight with the dragon, though it was not a vividly spectacular contest last evening. The magic fire scene, practically a reproduction of the one viewed in "Walkuere," afforded a pictorial climax.

Miss Zahn sang the pyrotechnics allotted to the Bird of the Forest very pleasingly. The Erda of Sharnova was acceptable.

Yucatan Quintet to Play Tonight

Tonight at the Philharmonic Auditorium the Yucatan Quintet, composed of five Mexican artists, will make its debut, coming direct from a tour of Mexico and Central America. These musicians will use instruments never before heard in this city, it is said, and will play a program of works of their native land. Contrasting this exotic group will be Irwin Nyireghazi, eminent Hungarian pianist.

WORK OF STAGE MANAGER LAUDED

The life of any stage manager is far from easy, it is said, but in the case of a repertory company, where innumerable scenes have to be set, it becomes a matter of nimble wits and keen imagination. Harder still is the job of Kurd Albrecht, stage manager of the Wagnerian Opera Company, now playing at the Shrine Auditorium.

Every evening this worker, unseen by his audience, receives plaudits for his fine style in portraying river bottoms, stormy oceans and sinking ships, wide vistas of landscape and mountainous regions, countless interiors of various types, with realistic cloud, fire, and water effects thrown in for good measure.

"High C" Scheduled for Fall

Gladys Unger's new comedy, entitled "High C" and all about a prima donna, will be presented by Brock Pemberton in New York in the fall, according to information reaching this desk. Miss Unger has arrived in the East to make arrangements for the production and to begin work on a new comedy. Antoinette Perry, who staged "Strictly Dishonorable" with Mr. Pemberton, will perform a similar service with the Unger play.

'WIDE OPEN' FEATURES COMEDIAN

Edward Everett Horton Proves Able Funster in Warner Picture

BY JOHN SCOTT

"Wide Open," tailored especially for the comedy talents of Edward Everett Horton, favorite local comedian of the stage and screen, started yesterday at Warner Brothers' Hollywood Theater and wrung much merriment from a rain-soaked audience. The comedy element is climaxed when Horton offers Patsy Ruth Miller a flannel and full-length night garment, after the latter has unceremoniously taken up residence with the former.

Featuring Mr. Horton's well-known facial expressiveness, "Wide Open" tells an amusing yarn concerning one Simon Haldane, timid book-keeper for a phonograph company, who lives alone with his aversion for the fair sex. But the ladies will not leave Simon to his home work. They provide one scrape after another for the bashful man, who, naturally, falls a victim to the wiles of one.

Fortunately for the book-keeper, the girl who wins his heart is the daughter of Faulkner, head of the business. In fact, the daughter takes it upon herself to elevate Simon from his lowly position to general manager by a unique method, that of forcing her way into his private life and discovering from his ledgers and journals that his "system" of running said phonograph business was just the very best.

Bright quips and the "Dear, dear me's" of Horton are all used to advantage in "Wide Open" by the adapters, James A. Starr and Arthur Caesar. Dialogue really sparkles in spots, and the film might well also serve the redoubtable Horton as a stage vehicle, so naturally does he fit his characterization.

With screen credit given to practically everyone who appears, even briefly, the cast includes, besides Horton and Patsy Ruth Miller, the principals, Louise Fazenda and T. Roy Barnes, who add to the humor with their usual versatile performances. Vera Lewis, E. J. Ratcliffe, Louise Beaver, Edna Murphy, Frank Beal, Vincent Barnett, Lloyd Ingraham, Bobby Gordon and B. B. B. appear at spasmodic intervals as office folk, office boys, doctors and what not.

The direction of "Wide Open" is by Archie Mayo, who has piloted Horton in several of his screen comedies.

A program of accompanying shorts this week includes "Lobo," which is all about a dog; "And How," a miniature musical comedy with Ann Greenway; Lou Holtz, who presents "Idle Chatter," and a newsreel.

Evalyn Nair in 'Rah Rah Daze'

Evalyn Nair, youthful Hollywood dancer who achieved note in New York last season in the "Hello, Yourself" show, has been engaged by Fred Waring for a featured role in "Rah Rah Daze," new college musical production, which starts at the Mason Theater on the 25th inst.

After studying dancing at the Ernest Belcher School, Miss Nair began her career here five years ago in "Patsy," and has since appeared in "Peggy Ann," Carter De Haven's "Music Box Revue," "Hit the Deck" and other productions. In the new Mason show she will introduce two new dance numbers.

"Rah Rah Daze" will play at the Lobero Theater, Santa Barbara, on the 21st and 22nd inst., prior to its opening here.

Downtown Will Give Late Show

The first popular midnight matinee of "Song of the West," the all-color and musical romance of the days of '49, will take place tonight at Warner Brothers' Downtown Theater. This picture has developed into a success, with its colorful story of covered-wagon days and cast headed by John Boles, Vivienne Segal and Joe E. Brown.

VIVID CONTRASTS IN RUSSIAN FILM

"New Babylon" Ignores Continuity in Recital of Emotional Conflicts

BY ELENA BOLAND

A mad upheaval of social orders and governments is "The New Babylon," the ultimate Russian propaganda now showing at the Filmarte.

The scene is not the Russian revolution, but the Parisian turmoil during the Franco-Prussian War. Basically, the motive is the conflict between the national government, which fled Paris at the danger of the Prussians, and the Communists. However, that is unimportant, for it simply forms a skeleton on which is hung a myriad contrasting human characterizations and emotions.

The actors in this can scarcely be credited with giving performances, so sketchily do they appear. They are highlights reflected in superb caricature. The whole production is an ironic gesture, almost distorted in its contrasts of aristocracy and the downtrodden.

It is an intensely difficult thing to follow, much less to understand. Connection of events, continuity, are ignored grandly. Perhaps that is the foreign point of view; to suggest and leave the audience to suppose, but it is hard on the average American.

There are three decided changes in tempo throughout this photographic history. The first sequence is frenzy: Paris pleasure-seeking, hectic, racing time insanely. The second is funereal in its depiction of starvation, hopelessness and weariness. The third is a combination of rhythms. Wild battle scenes, which often have no meaning, shift to the nouveau riche wallowing in luxury and delighting in the slaughter of their former brotherhood.

A bare thread of a personal love story runs throughout and, although of no particular import, manages to keep up a pretext that a story is being told.

The wit and humor of the evening was had in the witnessing of an early Mack Sennett revival, "Teddy at the Throttle." Gloria Swanson, Wallace Beery and Bobby Vernon are the stars. Miss Swanson is vivacious beyond belief. Recently, she startled the movie world with her newly found soprano. There must be some mistake, for Gloria can be seen at the Filmarte warbling fast and furiously to the tinkle of her own trusty ukulele.

Mention might be made of the unusually interesting news reels which appear weekly at this theater. They show events from all parts of the world and are far more novel than the average.

Local Favorite Will Return in "East of Suez"

After an absence of nearly a year, spent in London, Virginia Bradford, formerly of the screen, is returning to Los Angeles with Lenore Ulric in "East of Suez," opening Monday evening at the Belasco Theater.

Local friends of the dainty little girl from Memphis will scarcely recognize the new Virginia Bradford. With golden hair, where once it was dark brown, with an intriguing English accent instead of her pronounced southern speech, the former screen ingenue is completely transformed as a personality, it is said.

Not the slightest trace of her mother tongue remains. During the months she spent in London, Miss Bradford studied pronunciation and enunciation under a master of speech arts with amazing results.

Whispers in the Wings

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

PLANS for the presentation of some rather interesting drama in Los Angeles this spring and summer were disclosed yesterday by Charles L. Wagner just before departing for San Francisco where he is now presenting Madge Kennedy in "The Perfect Alibi."

As already announced, Mr. Wagner brings Miss Kennedy to the Biltmore on the 24th inst., for an engagement of one week. He plans to come back during May with the star in "Paris Bound," in which she appeared in New York.

"If these productions, more or less experimental to test the taste and the likings of Los Angeles, are successful, I shall return again in the summer," he said. "I have six or eight plays in mind for production then.

"One, perhaps, will be 'Michael and Mary,' another exciting and entertaining play by A. A. Milne, now at the Charles Hopkins Theater in New York.

"I have the rights to a new play by Charles Hackett, author of 'Capt. Applejack,' which I would like to try out on the Coast. It is now running in London under the title of 'Sorry to Have Troubled You.'

"'When Crummles Played,' based on Dickens's 'Nicholas Nickleby,' done last season at the Garrick, is under consideration. I presented this in New York with the English company of the Garrick players.

"De Wolf Hopper will probably star in a play, although I cannot say as yet what one this will be.

"I have been in conference with Joseph Schildkraut since coming here relative to his appearing in Rafael Sabatini's 'The Tyrant,' a drama based on the lives of the Borgias. Schildkraut was to do this two years ago for me, but picture contracts interfered. I was the first to produce 'Scaramouche,' you may remember, and I have a particular interest in Sabatini. He is the son of the old maestro who taught John McCormack singing."

"Holiday" Postponed

"Holiday," the Philip Barry play to have been presented this month by Henry Duffy, has been postponed until later in the spring, it was learned yesterday. Inability to get one or two players especially desired for the principal roles, is given as the reason.

Wampas Star in "Uncle Dudley"

Performing in "Your Uncle Dudley" with Taylor Holmes at the President is a former Wampas baby star, Miss Flora Bramley. When picture roles failed to arrive in numbers for Miss Bramley, she decided to learn what the stage was all about.

Henry Duffy was approached. "I cannot give you work here because you have no experience," he is reported to have said. "I'll let you go to Seattle and work in my stock company there, if you want to." Miss Bramley took the opportunity. After six months in the north, working in weekly change bills, she was given a part in "Courage" done at El Capitan. "Your Uncle Dudley" marks her second appearance in Los Angeles. Her work, according to Duffy, has been taking on more and more character until now she is rated as one of the most promising ingenues of his organization.

Helen Hayes in New Play

Helen Hayes who was seen last summer in "Coquette"—the play closed here suddenly because of what the producer called "an act of God"—is going to do a new piece called "One Beautiful Evening." There are no men in the cast. It will probably be tried in Atlantic City during the week of July 4.

Two Stage Openings

Two stage openings are on the local boards for the week-end. One, "Helena's Boys," marking May Robson's return to these parts, takes place this afternoon at the Hollywood Playhouse. The other is "East of Suez," starring vehicle for Lenore Ulric which comes to the Belasco on Monday evening after several good weeks in San Francisco.

New Version of 'Phantom' Will Start Run Soon

The new version of "The Phantom of the Opera" comes to the Criterion Theater on the 26th inst., succeeding the current attraction, "Men Without Women." All of the characters in "The Phantom of the Opera" will talk with the exception of the central character, the Phantom, played by Lon Chaney.

The contrast between the silent Chaney and the voluble members of the cast is said to be very effective from a dramatic standpoint and is reported to materially aid the mystery element in the production.

"The Phantom of the Opera" features Lon Chaney, Norman Kerry and Mary Philbin with a large supporting cast. Several scenes are done in technicolor. Rupert Julian directed.

Comedian Will Head Late Show

Eddie Lambert, popular comedian, will headline a large cast of entertainers at the eighth Hollywood midnight frolic tonight, to be given in conjunction with a de luxe showing of Lawrence Tibbett in "The Rogue Song" at Grauman's Chinese Theater.

Milton Helpern promises something different in the way of unique entertainment. Abe Lyman and his band will offer a new arrangement of melodious tunes.

HE'S A PSALM-SINGIN' SON-OF-A-GUN!

We refer to JOHN BOLES, who sings, with his golden voice, the role of a U. S. Cavalry officer who becomes a deserter, a sky pilot—a psalm-singin' son-of-a-gun—Barbary Coast gambler and then a hero—all for the love of a girl.

And by all means let us call your attention to JOE. E. BROWN as the Mule Skinner who can make a mummy come to life, laughing. His singing of "The Bride Who Died on Her Wedding Morn," accompanied by the braying of two mules and a broken banjo, is alone worth the price of admission.

"SONG OF THE WEST," Warner Brothers' melodious Vitaphone ALL-COLOR, talking, singing, and dancing romance of covered wagon days, is the story in which Boles and Brown portray these roles.

D.A.R. INDORSES MRS. T. J. HOOVER

She Gets Unanimous Vote for National Office Post

State Conference for Her as Vice-President-General

New Board Stands for Dry Law and Observance

SAN DIEGO, March 14.—As a climax to the State conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution assembled in their twenty-second annual meeting here, Mrs. Theodore Jesse Hoover was indorsed by unanimous rising vote as candidate for Vice - President-General from California at the coming election at the continental Congress in April in Washington. In spite of the election of State officers this was regarded as the outstanding action of the convention.

The conference by a decided majority refused to indorse the candidacy of Mrs. Lyman B. Stookey, National Reporter-General to the Smithsonian Institution for re-election for the balance of a term of two years—part of one year of which Mrs. Stookey is now serving, first by appointment by the National Executive Board and later by election of the National Board of Management, to fill a vacancy in this office. Mrs. Stookey's incumbency will terminate at the time of the Continental Congress, when an election to this office, according to by-laws, must be held.

COURTESY REASON GIVEN

The refusal to indorse Mrs. Stookey was deemed necessary by the conference out of courtesy to Mrs. Jesse H. Shreve of San Diego, Junior Past State Regent of California, who was a candidate for election to this same office of Reporter-General last year and carried the indorsement of the State board and State conference, on what was known as the Mrs. Julius K. Talmadge ticket. While Mrs. Shreve was the recipient of the greatest number of votes on the ticket, she went down to defeat along with her ticket. Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart and her ticket were elected.

San Diego Chapter was hostess to the State conference this year, and Mrs. Shreve was program chairman of the event. Mrs. Shreve was strongly urged by her friends to allow her name to be again presented as a candidate for the vacancy, but graciously declined.

MRS. TOMS NEW REGENT

The newly elected members of the State board are as follows: Regent, Mrs. Frank Phelps Toms of Pasadena; Vice-Regent, Mrs. Frederick G. Gundrum, Sacramento; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Wilbur E. Labry of Los Angeles; Treasurer, Mrs. Jay F. Herrington of Hollywood; Auditor of the Southern District, Mrs. A. Haldeman Jones of Los Angeles; Consulting Registrar, Mrs. Elmer H. Whittaker of Santa Barbara; Librarian, Mrs. Claude L. Leroy of San Francisco; Director, Mrs. Howard C. Dunham of San Diego.

All the members of this board, headed by Mrs. Frank Phelps Toms of Pasadena Chapter, Pasadena, in answer to a questionnaire authorized by resolution of both northern and southern councils, took a definite stand supporting the Eighteenth Amendment, and also in support of President Herbert Hoover and his stand for law enforcement and law observance.

Mrs. Stookey made a sensational announcement from the platform, that regardless of her failure to receive indorsement of her home State of California, she would continue to be a candidate for re-election at the coming National Continental Congress in Washington in April.

Former Council Member Dies at Ventura Home

VENTURA, March 14.—Charles B. McDonell, native Californian, pioneer Venturan and former City Councilman, died early today after an illness of nearly two weeks at his home here.

McDonell, who was 63 years of age when death came, and who had drawn about him a wide circle of devoted friends, was long in public life. Born at Irvington, Alameda county, December 22, 1867, he came here in 1874 at the age of 7 years. He entered the old Collins Bank when 19 years of age, and served as assistant cashier of that organization for twenty years.

In 1907 he was elected City Treasurer, after his mother had served in that capacity since 1878. He kept that office until 1914, when he resigned to become postmaster and his mother finished his city term for him until 1915.

McDonell was postmaster for nine years, and in 1923 was elected to the City Council, in which position he served until 1927.

On December 11, 1896, he married Myra Huey, who survives him. Besides his widow he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Doris C. Carty of Oxnard; a son, Bruce McDonell of this city, and three sisters, Miss Minnie McDonell of Ojai, and Mrs. James Cashion and Mrs. Scott Russell of Los Angeles. He was a nephew of Kenneth T. Grant, who gave Grant Park to the city. McDonell was a member of the local order of Elks and of the Modern Woodmen.

Funeral services are to be conducted at 10 a.m. Monday, with burial at Ivy Lawn Cemetery.

SOUTH GATE TO GET LOWER WATER RATES

SOUTH GATE, March 14.—Water rates here are to be reduced from $1 per 1000 cubic feet to 90 cents, an order having been issued for reduction by the Council to the city water department. Two years ago the water rate was $1.25 and it was reduced at that time to $1. The schedule which will go into effect April 1, includes rates as follows: Ninety cents per 1000 feet for the first 2000 feet; 70 cents per 1000 for the next 2000 feet, and 50 cents per 1000 from that amount on.

ESCAPED CONVICT KILLED

Walter Sinclair, Fugitive from State Penitentiary in Ohio, Shot as He Makes Break for Freedom

BRAWLEY, March 14.—Walter Sinclair, 48 years of age, identified as an escaped convict from the Ohio State penitentiary, was shot and killed here at 8 o'clock last night by Policeman Robert Cordill when he made a break for freedom after the officer had taken him in custody.

Local officers were notified by a junk dealer here. Cordill located the man a few hours later and was taking him to the police station when the prisoner started to run. The officer fired two shots in the air and then aimed at Sinclair as the latter attempted to commandeer a passing truck. He staggered and fell to the ground beside the vehicle, a second shot having pierced his body as he reached the truck.

Mason, the stepfather, told the officers the man had been living in a tent here and boasted he never would be captured alive.

prison officials several days ago to be on the lookout for Sinclair, as his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mason, reside in this city. According to the information received the man had served a term in Oregon prison on a murder charge and was a dangerous character.

Yesterday a man giving one of the aliases under which Sinclair was known, applied for a license as

LEIPSIC DEATH MYSTERY GROWS

Autopsy Shows Man Found in Reservoir Not Drowned

No Water in Lungs, So Dead When Car Struck Water

Conclusions on Time of His Demise Found to Err

REDLANDS, March 14.—More mystery has been thrown into the death of Aaron Leipsic, whose body was found in his coupe submerged under ten feet of water in the city water department reservoir in Roosevelt Canyon. Doctors completing an autopsy say that Leipsic did not drown, there was no water in his lungs and that evidently he was dead before the car made its plunge into the water.

It was felt that the time of his death had been pretty definitely established as about 11 a.m., but Robert Lowry, downtown service station owner, says that Leipsic was at his station to get gasoline about 1:30 p.m. The investigation will be continued.

Funeral services were conducted at 3:30 p.m. today in the F. Arthur Cortner chapel with Rev. A. E. Isham officiating. The body will be cremated.

Authorities discounted the story of Robert Jones, 138 Norwood street, who said he had seen the Leipsic car forced off the road by another automobile at 11:15 a.m. Just as he saw the car leave the road in a cloud of dust, Jones came into a curve on the highway and the automobile was lost to his view, he said. When he came alongside the reservoir, he said he noticed nothing amiss and forgot about the incident until 4:30 p.m. when he saw the Leipsic machine being hauled out of the reservoir. Police said Jones must have seen another automobile and they could not locate a curve in the road that would not be in sight of the reservoir.

The autopsy was performed under the direction of Deputy Coroner Dennis Ralphs and Dr. Oran I. Cutler of Loma Linda. It was watched by four other physicians, who represented the Leipsic estate and several insurance companies.

Outcome of the investigation will determine to some extent how much insurance will be paid to the estate. Several of Leipsic's policies provide for double indemnity in the event of accidental death and there are other provisions, which would be affected by the nature of the death. Attorney P. F. Lewis, representing the Leipsic estate, and several adjusters, also participated in the inquest, questioning witnesses.

Nitrogen Status as Fertilizer to be Studied

RIVERSIDE, March 14.—Announcement was made here today by Dr. L. D. Batchelor, head of the University of California's citrus experiment station, that Dr. W. P. Kelley, professor of agricultural chemistry, will spend the next six months in Europe on a series of important investigations. He is to make a study of the present status of nitrogen fertilizer.

Dr. Kelley is making the study in co-operation with the American Society of Agronomy, of which he was elected president at the annual meeting last December, according to Dr. Batchellor.

Research in the reclaiming of alkali lands, chiefly in the San Joaquin Valley, has attracted much attention to the work of Dr. Kelley in recent years. He has worked out a method of reclaiming land impregnated with black alkali which is feasible both from the physical and economic standpoint.

PASADENA, March 14.—Lathrop K. Leishman was installed as president of the Pasadena Junior Chamber of Commerce for the coming year at the annual inauguration banquet held last night at the Hotel Vista del Arroyo.

Other new officers are: Max Turner, first vice-president; Harlan Loud, second vice-president; Harry Williams, third vice-president, and Max Colwell, secretary. Roland Maxwell, the only officer to be re-elected, retained the office of treasurer. Mayor Edward Taylor Buckingham of Bridgeport, Ct., was guest speaker.

A new rapid-transit route to Los Angeles and construction of a second eighteen-hole municipal golf course are immediate aims of the organization of young business men, James K. Ingham, retiring president, announced.

Steel in Eye for Years Removed

SOUTH GATE, March 14.—Believed to have been imbedded in his eye for twelve or more years, a microscopic piece of steel was removed from the eyeball of Gere Hurd yesterday by a Los Angeles physician. No discomfort had been experienced by Hurd until yesterday morning, when the eyeball became inflamed. An examination revealed the presence of the piece of steel.

Hurd remembers having attempted to drill into a piece of brick one time, when a piece of steel struck him at the side of the eye. A portion of this may have become imbedded in the flesh at that time, gradually working itself into the eye, he believes.

APPLE PACKER GETS HIS EVE

His Address, Placed in Box Eight Years Ago, Secures Him English Helpmate

PASADENA, March 14.—Eight years ago, a young apple packer in Oregon, Elwood Hoke, placed his name and address in a box of apples, urging the finder, if it proved to be a girl, to write.

The apples crossed the continent and the Atlantic Ocean and were purchased in Scarborough, Eng., by Miss Amie Gledhill, a young English girl, who found the note. For four and a half years letters were exchanged regularly until a firm friendship had been established.

"Letters have their place in any friendship," asserted Hoke today, "but they also pique the curiosity, so about two years ago, I managed to make a trip to England." A few weeks after meeting each other face to face, the two devoted correspondents became engaged, and last December they were married in Scarborough.

At home to their friends at 2253 Dudley street, Mr. and Mrs. Hoke are certain that "an apple a day is one thing, but a box of apples far more beneficial."

WEATHER SERVICE IMPROVED

Three New Stations for Reporting Established in San Diego Mountains

SAN DIEGO, March 14. — Improved weather report service for aviators flying east from this city, was announced today by Dean Blake, local Weather Bureau meteorologist. Beginning today, reports on weather conditions over San Diego county mountains were made available by the establishment of weather-reporting stations at Descanso, Campo and Jacumba, Blake said.

"Past experiences have shown that a hazard to flyers exists during bad weather in our mountains," declared Blake. "With the coming here of the Standard, Western Air and Pickwick passenger airplane services, from Los Angeles, the planes flying east from here and also because of increased eastward flying from here of army and navy planes, the Weather Bureau at Washington, has authorized the establishment of stations at various points in San Diego county mountains."

Blake said that the stations at Descanso, Campo and Jacumba for the present are to report only during periods of bad flying weather. Ultimately with the establishment of air-mail service out of San Diego, regular weather reporting stations will have to be established across the mountains, Blake declared.

Miss Mary Brian will be stenographer in the office. Glenn M. Atwood is president of the chamber.

SUSPECT OUTWITS CAPTORS

Unidentified Asserted Counterfeiter, Captured at Beaumont, Jumps Over Lunch Counter, Vanishes

RIVERSIDE, March 14.—Vaulting over the counter of an eating stand at Eighth and Mulberry streets, an unidentified asserted counterfeiter last night escaped from the custody of a Beaumont officer and a second man, en route to the County Jail, five blocks away. He was arrested at Beaumont. Despite a long search, during which squads of officers from the Sheriff's office and police department scoured the territory north of Eighth street to the "hobo jungles" near First street, the suspect was at liberty when the man-hunt was called off.

Information gained from the man on the way to the county seat, according to City Marshal George Wells of Beaumont, indicated he might be responsible for passing the great number of counterfeit dollars at Elsinore Wednesday. He told the Beaumont men he was from Elsinore. They neglected to obtain his name, but were able to afford the Riverside authorities a good description of the man. Police and Sheriff's offices in all the near-by towns and cities were notified to be on the lookout for the fugitive.

The asserted counterfeiter was arrested at Beaumont shortly after 6 p.m. yesterday, after he had attempted to pass two of the bogus coins on H. Warner, owner of a drug store, and deputy county humane officer. As Warner received the coins he dropped them upon a counter. The fake metals sounded a dud and before the customer could reach a door, Warner had nabbed him.

Marshal Wells was called, and with Warner started for the County Jail with the prisoner in an automobile. As they entered the city one of the three suggested that they obtain something to eat before reaching the jail. The prisoner had been handcuffed since the arrival of Wells at the store. At Eighth and Mulberry they spied the lunch stand and, driving into the place they stepped out of the car. The handcuffs were taken off the prisoner and they entered the lunch stand and were seated.

At a moment when the two custodians were not on their guard, the prisoner leaped up from the bench and jumped over the counter, landing near a door leading through the rear of the small building. Before the officer could draw his gun and shoot, the fugitive darted through the door and ran northward on Mulberry street. Calling to a girl waitress to notify the Sheriff's office, the two man raced out the front of the place in hot pursuit of the man. He, however, had gained half a block start, and, as they came in view around the corner of the eating house, he turned into a large lumber yard near by.

Wells and Warner followed him into the yard but lost sight of him among the piles of lumber. A description of the man said he is about 28 years of age, five feet eight inches tall, weighing 165 pounds, has brown eyes and hair, wore dark mustache, dark complexioned. He was dressed in a gray suit and had on a gray hat, tan shoes and a shirt without a tie.

TEN BLUEJACKETS RESCUED

When Motor-Sailer from Destroyer Sumner Catches on Fire, They Jump Overboard; Tug Saves Them

SAN DIEGO, March 14.—Leaping overboard from their thirty-foot motor sailer when it caught fire off the foot of Sigsbee street, ten bluejackets from the destroyer Sumner today were rescued from the bay by Capt. Bill Miller of the Star and Crescent Boat Company's tug Golden West and crew members aboard a second motor sailer. The motor sailer from the Sumner caught fire when its engine backfired.

The danger to those aboard the motor sailer was made greater because the craft carried a quantity of motion-picture films, it was reported.

At the time the motor sailer caught fire, Capt. Miller, with the Golden West, was assisting Capt. Pat Chase of the Star and Crescent tug Palomar, in moving a lumber raft to a new location. Hearing the cries for help from the bluejackets, Miller swung the Golden West away from the Palomar and proceeded at once to the aid of the sailors. Assisted by Johnny Knight, deck hand, he took eight aboard the Golden West. A second motor sailer rescued the remaining two.

PASADENA PIONEER SUCCUMBS

Edward S. Crump, High in Masonic Circles, Dies of Sudden Heart Attack

PASADENA, March 14.—Edward S. Crump, Thirty-third Degree Mason and pioneer local business man, died suddenly today following a heart attack at his residence, 345 Bellefontaine street.

Upon his return from a shopping tour, he complained of feeling faint and asked Mrs. Crump to get him some aromatic spirits of ammonia. When she returned to the living-room with the restorative, Crump was lying unconscious on a sofa.

The fire department's inhalator squad was called, but its efforts proved unavailing. Two years ago, Crump incurred a ruptured heart valve.

Born in Dravosburg, Pa., sixty years ago, the high Mason entered the coal business with his father, a large coal operator. In 1891 he was married to Miss Daisy Hopkins of McKeesport, Pa.

Ten years ago, Crump retired from a paint business in which he was associated with Hiram W. Wadsworth, also a Thirty-third Degree Mason. The firm was located in the Security Building for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Crump made possible the installation of a costly pipe organ in the new Scottish Rite Cathedral. He erected the building now occupied by the local Mullen & Bluett branch. The Thirty-third Degree was conferred on him about five years ago.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Daisy Hopkins Crump, he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Laura Crump Miller, wife of Rev. Ray O. Miller, rector of St. James' Episcopal Church, Los Angeles, and Mrs. James Patterson of Pittsburgh, and a brother, William H. Crump, a recent house guest at the Crump home.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Turner & Stevens Co.

Married Couple in Legal Battle Over Finances

SANTA BARBARA, March 14.—Asserting that she loaned her husband, Joseph Underwood Hall, $50,000, instead of $25,000, and that the principal and interest are still owing, Camille M. Hall, in her answer and cross-complaint filed to Hall's suit in Superior Court today, asked the court to take no action on his claims and to grant a foreclosure to satisfy her mortgage on their Montecito property.

Hall, several weeks ago, filed a suit to have the court sell a portion of their estate to satisfy a loan his wife had made to him and to create a trust of the remainder for his benefit. He claimed his wife loaned him $25,000 and he had given her a deed to certain Montecito property to protect her loan in case of his death. He also said she was to forfeit the deed on demand. Mrs. Hall stated she loaned her husband $50,000 on July 1, 1925, and that the deed he gave was as a mortgage on the property. She asked the court for $50,000 plus 7 per cent interest from July 1, 1925, making a total of some $66,500.

Artillery Unit Arrives in Rain at Santa Monica

SANTA MONICA, March 14.—The Sixty-third Battery, United States Coast Artillery, today drove into this city in a motorized column extending four city blocks. Drenching rain forced abandonment of the intention to camp on the old Douglas Aircraft plant site. Men of the unit were billeted at the American Legion Hall, the overflow putting up at the Orange Grove of the Miramar Hotel, where all officers went.

Col. Waller and Maj. Ross head the battery, which is on the march from San Francisco to Fort MacArthur, San Pedro. They will resume their march at 7 a.m. tomorrow. Their arrival today had the appearance of a unit moving along a rainsoaked war area, with fifty-eight trucks, fifteen trailers and twenty-five passenger cars. Prominent in the motorized equipment were the antiaircraft guns of the outfit.

Sheriff Gillett Will Appeal in Assault Ruling

EL CENTRO, March 14.—Attorneys for Charles L. Gillett, Imperial county sheriff, who recently was found guilty and fined $150 on charges of forcibly ejecting J. C. Taft of Los Angeles from the County Jail office, gave notice that they would appeal the case. The fine was assessed against Gillett by Justice of the Peace I. Mayfield, who presided in the trial of the Sheriff.

Gillett's defense was that the man had used abusive language when he came to the jail office to intercede in behalf of labor agitators who were being held for investigation.

The Sheriff admitted that he had pushed the man out of his office and asserted that if Taft was injured during the altercation, it was "because the door was too narrow."

Young People's Forum Formed

MONTEBELLO, March 14.—Concentrated effort for the betterment of life here culminated last evening with the formation and organizing of the Young People's Forum. The officers elected to carry on the work for 1930 are Duane A. Wirt, president; Roscoe Parkin, vice-president; D. W. Adamson, secretary-treasurer, and Zeb McPherson, sergeant-at-arms.

Twenty-five young business and profesional men met last evening and laid plans for the future development of the organization, declaring any registered voter in the city eligible to membership.

The Young People's Forum declares that its purpose is, "To instill in the minds of the young people their responsibility to the city, county, State and nation and to take such steps as the organization deems necessary to awaken civic consciousness and individual pride in the affairs of the city of Montebello."

The organization has arranged to enter two candidates for the office of City Councilman, pledging its support to Chesney W. Shelley and Stewart S. Needham at the coming city election, April 14.

LEGION MEN WARNED OF RED DANGER

Perry Weidner Addresses Glendale Post at Eleventh Anniversary Observance

GLENDALE, March 14.—The Glendale post of the American Legion last night celebrated the eleventh anniversary of its founding, the ceremonies being marked by the birthday-cake candle program in which a number of past commanders participated, each one giving a brief account of the post's progress during his administration.

Perry Weidner of Los Angeles, the principal speaker, advocated adequate preparedness for national defense. Weidner declared that the great amount of freedom granted to everyone in the United States at present is largely responsible for the Red riots that are being started in various parts of the country and warned the Legion to be on guard against the spread of Communism and its doctrines.

Leaders in the city government and the heads of various civic groups were guests of the Legion during the celebration.

Another Man of Same Name Says He Did Shooting

UPLAND, March 14.—Jail doors may swing wide open for Merced Hermosillo, local Mexican, who in the past few months has been buffeted about by the law. Hermosillo was recently declared guilty of shooting a revolver into a carload of Los Angeles motorists who got off the main highway and drove into a local Mexican camp at night. He was sentenced to three months in jail.

Today Chief of Police J. F. Sawyer received a letter signed by another Merced Hermosillo, mailed from Dona Ana, New Mexico, in which the writer asserts he did the shooting and not the Hermosillo who is now in jail. He said the local Mexican is entirely innocent of the affair. To give support to his contention, the writer included in his letter the names of several local Mexicans with whom he declares he is closely acquainted.

A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

THE SON OF TARZAN

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

A week later came one Gen. Jacot bearing a letter of introduction from their mutual friend, D'Arnot. Tarzan knew the famous soldier by reputation; knew that his family was a famous one, for Jacot was in reality the Prince de Cadrenet though too ardent a republican to use the title. After a dozen words both men formed a mutual esteem that was to endure through life. "Admiral D'Arnot believes you can aid me," began the distinguished visitor.

"He tells me no one is better acquainted with Africa. Let me give you my story from the beginning. Many years ago my little daughter was stolen while I was serving with the Foreign Legion." Then briefly he related his long search, the huge rewards offered; the printed publicity and how they had been at last forced to give up in despair. But recently a young Arab, one Abdul Kamak, had come to him in Paris saying he knew where the girl was held captive.

It was supposedly near Tarzan's African estates. With growing tenseness Lord Greystoke listened; eagerly he scanned the faded clippings. Ringing a bell he said to the footman, "Ask my son's wife to please come here." A moment later Meriem entered. Jacot arose, started and shaking with suppressed emotion exclaimed: "IT IS SHE!" Meriem rushed toward him—"I know you—I know you! Oh, now I remember," she cried as the old warrior folded her in his arms.

Lady Greystoke and Jack were summoned to learn the glad tidings. "You did not marry an Arab waif after all," Meriem laughed through joyous tears. "Aren't you glad?" "Meriem, my dear," said the son of Tarzan quietly, "I married YOU. For my part, I wouldn't have cared if you were an Arab—or a little white lady monkey," he added teasingly. "She is neither, my son," said Gen. Jacot, coming proudly to them. "Meriem, my daughter, is a princess in her own right."

Beginning Monday, "Tarzan and the Jewels of Opar," the romance of a civilized girl and an untamed man of the jungle.

Another Army Band Concert Scheduled for Today

The Times Forum, KHJ, at 1:30 p.m.; Peggy Hamilton, fashion expert, and Mme. Blanc. Times world-wide news at 12:30; 4:45 and 10 p.m.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

Historic California is to come into its own on radio. A desire for the dramatizing of events in the history of the Golden State has long been evidenced by the listening-in public. Don Lee will respond on Wednesday, next, when "The Romantic Days of '49," beginning with the discovery of James Marshall at Coloma, will be authentically enacted in a series of programs in the studios of KFRC each Wednesday night from 8 to 8:30 p.m. KHJ will release these programs in Los Angeles.

Stirring events of the great California gold rush and the State's admission to the Union will be dramatically portrayed with the actual events of the period interwoven. Months of research work at the California State Library figures in the effort, to make the broadcasts historically accurate.

TWO ANNIVERSARIES

The programs are designed to commemorate two great western anniversaries, the Covered Wagon Centennial and the eightieth anniversary of the admission of California to the Union. President Hoover's proclamation, calling on the people of the United States to observe the Covered Wagon Centennial, was a motivating factor in the station's decision to present the broadcasts. The latter, it is said, will be the most elaborate radio presentations of an historical nature ever attempted. The outstanding episodes of California history, from the discovery of gold to the driving of the final spike of the Transcontinental Railroad, will be presented chronologically, in dramatic form, with the historical facts, songs of the period, and other material never before offered over the radio. The programs will include a pioneer's jubilee featuring the personal appearance before the KFRC microphone of the few remaining '49ers. The feature will be sponsored by the Standard Oil Company of California, and will go over the Don Lee California network.

HIGHLIGHTS OF LOG

KHJ at 8 a.m. is to open the day as usual with the stirring music of the United States Army Band from Washington, while at 1 p.m. the Aztecs are to bring Latin music and song over the CBS network. Sothern Bewails Fact He Played But Few Roles

Blocked and barred from the heights he wanted to reach by success as an actor early in life E. H. Sothern, one of America's foremost interpreters of Shakespearean drama, and who speaks today before the Friday Morning Club, last night bewailed the fact that in his fifty years of acting he has been permitted to enact but sixty roles.

"I was 40 years of age before I was fitted to enact Shakespeare," he said. "I was in one character sometimes for two years or more—fuming all the time because I was not getting anywhere. Some of the great stars of fifty years ago had enacted 600 parts by that time and had a tremendous experience back of them."

The Amarillo (Tex.) editor who attacked him in his paper and who called him a "pink-toed aristocrat" is suffering from an inferiority complex, Mr. Sothern believes.

"I am unable to account for his borish behavior any other way. I was tired after a long journey and was awakened from sleep in my room and asked for an interview. When I begged to be excused because of fatigue I was attacked," he said.

Mr. Sothern is greatly concerned in getting the "noble drama" before the youth of the land. He feels that the splendid civic auditoriums which are being built all over America could, if properly managed, take the place of the State theater of Europe where youth has the best presented to them.

Mr. Sothern is the husband of Julia Marlowe. He is stopping at the Biltmore.

MORE ORATORY VICTORS NAMED

Small Schools' Interest Proves Great

Garden Grove and Bell High Hold Preliminaries

New Glendale Institution Strong in Spirit

Garden Grove High, one of the smaller schools in point of enrollment, is a "live wire" among the entrants of District No. 1, in the National Oratorical Contest. This school held its final elimination contest yesterday before a large audience, the full school group being augmented by many citizens of the community and countryside.

TOM MOSES

Those to contest in the school finals are Kiyoko Saiki, Yasuko Sudo, Tom Moses, Bertha Hodgkinson, Robert Klingan, Lettie Harper, Roberta Malbon and Wanda Nimmo.

Winners, as announced by the judges, are Tom Moses of the junior class, first place, who spoke on the subject "Our Constitution;" second place, Kiyoko Saiki, whose oration was entitled "The Constitution, the Backbone of Our Nation."

KIYOKO SAIKI

The judges of the contest were Mrs. J. G. McCracken, Mrs. Rosselot and Mrs. Arthur Woodworth, all members of the Women's Civic Club of Garden Grove.

Twenty-eight in all wrote orations and twenty-three delivered their orations in the eliminations and six in the finals held yesterday. Miss Elen M. Dodson was in charge of the contest and Miss Norma Larson, teacher of public speaking, did the coaching in delivery.

AT BELL HIGH SCHOOL

Eleanor Dehlmar won first place at the final contest on the Constitution at Bell High School yesterday afternoon and Harry Freidman was awarded second place.

ELEANOR DEHLMAR

There were six contestants. Nell Smith, Eleanor Layer, Rose Mathews, Eleanor Dehlmar, Beryl Kero and Harry Freidman.

Many patrons of the school showed their interest in the Constitutional contest by their presence and the stage was occupied by representative citizens and by all students who participated in the first elimination contest, numbering twenty-one.

The winner will represent Bell High School at the contest of all the Marine League schools at Torrance April 2.

HARRY FRIEDMAN

Miss Denlmar attributes much of her success in winning first place to the coaching of Mrs. Ferguson, director of dramatics and public speaking at Bell.

The judges were Mrs. Ella Lear, Mrs. Allie Taylor Elson and Edward C. Garcia, all teachers of English or Spanish at the Bell High.

What a school can do when it has the spirit and will is illustrated by Herbert Hoover High School at Glendale.

Herbert Hoover High School is a new school, established to meet the growing need of the western section of Glendale. It occupied its splendid new plant only last year, too late to get organized for the Constitution contest for 1929, but this year the school is entered and showing such enthusiasm as rarely is seen even in the oldest schools or veterans in the contest. This is largely due to the fine leadership of Mr. A. L. Ferguson, principal, and Miss Shade, who inspired their pupils to enter the contest on the Constitution in preparation for the full citizenship they are later to enjoy, and so honor the high name the school has been given.

INTEREST LIVELY

Franklin Skinner, secretary of publicity at the Herbert Hoover School, says: "Students of this school are entering the contest on the Constitution with lively interest. Herbert Hoover is a new school and it was supposed that not many would enter the contest this year, but a new precedent was set in Glendale when forty-three students signified their intention of entering this contest sponsored by The Times."

On account of the large number of entrants, it was necessary to hold two contests. One group has already contested and the six winners were Ethel Bates, James Dilley, Benjamin Hagen, Adele Rice, Randolph Speck and Jackson Wheeler. These six will compete in the school finals which will be held on the evening of April 21. The judges at the contest were Miss Lauderdale of the history department, Mrs. Bennetta of the English department and Mr. Hayhurst representing the school administration. Miss Shade was in charge of all arrangements, while Miss Franc Jennings coached the speakers. Mary Francis Allison, secretary of forensics, presided.

Of the six successful contestants, James Dilley represented Glendale High School the past two years in this same contest and each time gained the higher brackets. Jackson Wheeler won the interclass contest in 1928. Ethel Bates, one of the two girls who survived the try-outs, is a freshman and shows much promise. She represented the freshman class in the last interclass oratorical.

ACTRESS DESIGNS OUTFIT FOR BEACH

Jeanette Loff

Jeanette Loff, film actress, intends to escape the watchful eyes of censors at the beach this summer with a newly designed outfit of bathing pajamas. They are made in gay colors and are practical for lounging on the sand between dips. They are easily slipped on over the swimming suit.

Miss Loff here wears an outfit of navy blue silk pongee with a white pongee blouse trimmed with red chevrons. The broad-bottomed trousers are flared in imitation of the gob's uniform.

Beach pajamas will be much in vogue next summer, according to the actress, both because of their attractiveness and convenience.

She has just finished the leading feminine role in Paul Whiteman's "King of Jazz" for Universal.

'Times' Newsreel Shows Views of Floods in France

Thrilling flood scenes from France are shown in the latest issue of The Times-Universal Newsreel to be released here in an important group of theaters. Graham McNamee, newscaster, describes the catastrophe in which a wall of water swept down the River Tarn and other waterways, destroying lives and property.

Two ex-Presidents furnish subjects for this issue of the Times-Universal Newsreel. There are views of William Howard Taft, photographed shortly before his death, and of Calvin Coolidge, smoking the peace pipe with Indian chiefs and dedicating Coolidge Dam.

Additional thrills are offered by the Times-Universal Newsreel in shots of a battle between Tibetan yaks and the speed test of the U.S.S. Pensacola in heavy seas.

'TARZAN' ENTERS NEW ADVENTURE

Fascinating Burroughs Hero Appears in "The Times"

Fresh Pictorial Series Will Commence Monday

"Jewels of Opar" Engrossing Tale of Jungles

Tarzan of the Apes, that strange and glamorous character of fiction created by Edgar Rice Burroughs, whose exploits have thrilled millions of readers all over the world, is to live again for a limited period on the printed page.

Responding to requests of those who have followed with absorbing interest the adventures of the arresting jungle man and his son and the perils that have beset their paths, The Times will begin publication on Monday of the fifth of the series of Tarzan picture stories by the popular Burroughs and his artist-collaborator, Rex Maxon.

NEW STORY OUT

The new story is entitled "Tarzan and the Jewels of Opar," and depicts Tarzan meeting with financial ruin. He sees nothing to do but return again to the city of Apar and brave its dangers in the hope of restoring the family fortune. So he sets off through the jungle, pointing for the Forbidden City and wholly unaware that he is being trailed by a white adventurer in the employ of Arab cutthroats. The story is said to be replete with the same breathless interest, the same thrills and the same fascination that have made the Tarzan picture stories a sensational success throughout the world.

Previous Tarzan picture stories, of which there have been four, told of the birth of Tarzan in the African jungle and of his adventures as he grew to manhood among the apes. The son of Lord and Lady Greystoke, the boy is mothered by a female ape and becomes king of the jungle. He rescues Jane Clayton, a shipwrecked American girl, from a gorilla, and follows her to America, only to return later to his native haunts.

SERIES SKETCHED

"The Return of Tarzan," takes the hero to the golden city of Opar, where, at great peril, he acquires a fortune that enables him to marry Miss Clayton, after establishing his birthright as Lord Greystoke. The third story, entitled, "The Beasts of Tarzan," opens two years later with Tarzan and his wife living in their English home, blessed by a year-old son. One day mother and son are kidnaped and Tarzan follows the trail back to the jungle. With Akut, the ape, and Sheeta, the panther, the father pursues the villains and rescues his loved ones.

"The Son of Tarzan," fourth in the series, which is completed in The Times today, reveals the boy returning to the jungle with Akut, who had been brought to England for a vaudeville appearance, and growing to manhood. He becomes known as Korak, the Killer, and like his father, at last finds love, crowned by marriage to Miriem, the French girl.

"Tarzan and the Jewels of Opar," opens on Tarzan's huge estate in Africa. Watch for the first installment next Monday in The Times.

Operation of Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s retail units in Southern California hereafter will be administered directly from Los Angeles under supervision of Clair Nolan, who has just been appointed manager, it was announced yesterday. The move will place under Nolan's jurisdiction the department stores in Los Angeles, Hollywood, San Diego, Long Beach, San Bernardino, San Luis Obispo, Santa Ana, Riverside and the store soon to be opened in Pasadena. The headquarters office also will be occupied by H. W. Kingsley, western territory manager, and J. A. Romer, manager of the Los Angeles mail-order plant.

CLAIR NOLAN

Nolan has had many years of retail-store experience. He joined Sears, Roebuck & Co. as merchandise manager after a long association with department stores in San Francisco.

HEAD OF SCHOOL ACCUSED

Concealing Scarlet Fever and Abusing Pupils Laid to Woman in Health Quiz Charges

Charges of concealing scarlet fever cases, negligence and abuse of small children inmates of a boarding school, were filed in affidavits yesterday with the Health Commission against Mrs. Wilhelmina M. Mann, operator of the Kiddies Kamp kindergarden at 1595 West Adams street.

According to officials of the Health Commission, they received information that pupils had been ill from scarlet fever at the institution. Bernice Nason, a nurse in the inspection service of the city, reported that in some instances parents were not notified.

The nurse told the commission that the school had failed to comply with diet requirements, that children were whipped by being struck on the legs with rulers, and that she had reports that some youngsters had been ducked, fully clothed, into tubs of water to stop them from crying.

Mrs. Mann yesterday denied the charges and said they had originated from a disgruntled employee who had been discharged. She said the school is operated in two parts, one school at 4120 South Figueroa street and another on West Adams street. There are eighty children between 4 and 6 years of age at the school, she said.

Mrs. Mann admitted that there had been cases of scarlet fever, but maintained that the health officers had been notified and that the school had been quarantined. She declared that the charges of abuse of the children are without foundation.

MILK LEVY PLAN GETS APPROVAL

Health Board Comes Out in Favor of New Tax to Defray Inspection Cost

Approval of a plan to place a tax of one-eighth of 1 cent on every 100 pounds of milk brought into Los Angeles from outside the city limits, said to be favored by a number of City Councilmen, was given by the Health Commission yesterday. The sum would be used for inspection of the milk. The City Council will be asked to pass an ordinance providing for the tax.

Most of the milk, amounting to 270,000 gallons imported daily, comes from Tulare county, with its 1100 dairies, City Health Officer Parrish informed the commission. Altogether there are 3000 dairies supplying the city with milk, from 100,000 cows, he said. He estimated the tax would bring in approximately $60,000 annually.

The approval by the commission was conditional, however, that the money must be used by the health department and for milk inspection only.

At present, Dr. Parrish said, milk inspection costs for inspectors and laboratory work about $52,000 annually.

Parrish said he has talked with a number of the dairymen and they appear to favor the taxation plan.
